More Money, More Jobs, Saving Bank Billions, John D. Goes to Florida, Russia Builds a Big One.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

POLITICIANS ATTACH importance to the election of a Democratic Congressman from the Republican Eighth District of Michigan. This has not happened before in 30 years, and Republicans, RURAL REPUBLICANS, TOO, voting Democratic for the first time in their lives, remarked in many cases:

"Well, a change might help."

In other words:

"I might as well be a Democrat as the way I am."

REPUBLICANS MUST find something to produce a "change," or all the mistakes that Democrats know so well how to make, all the fights they knew how to start, will not save the Republican party.

One thing, ABUNDANT MONEY, would bring the needed change. More money would mean more SPENDING, more JOBS, renewed PROSPERITY.

IF PRESIDENT HOOVER would co-operate with Senator Borah and other Congressmen who want to give buying power to silver, he would solve the Republican problem, and a problem more important, the problem of prosperity.

The monetization of silver, at a reasonable ratio, permitting the world to resume buying, would end the depression.

SAVINGS BANK depositors, numbering more than 51 millions, have on deposit to their credit, in this country, more than 28,000 million dollars. It is fortunate, for our gold standard, that they will never ask for their money in gold, all at once.

These savings amount to about THREE TIMES AS MUCH GOLD AS THERE IS IN THE WORLD.

The average savings deposit for each American is $277. Prosperous New York state has $619 savings per inhabitant, and total savings for that one state are above seven billions, about equal to the united gold hoards of France and the United States.

TOMORROW, JOHN D. Rockefeller leaves Pocantico Hills for Florida. The particular fountain of youth sought for in Florida was not found. But a better, more reliable one is there.

It is the fountain of health, of life-giving warmth and invigorating rays poured out by the warm winter sun. The sun's rays build up vitamin D in the blood, giving strength and longer years.

IN YEARS to come, millions of Americans will appreciate the great sun parlor that stretches along our southern border, from Georgia, Florida, along the Gulf Coast states and California.

Take your Pullman car, or your automobile, and go. This is the time, everything is reasonable in price this winter. And you have the same sun and air as John D. Rockefeller. Cold winters are dangerous, for old age especially.

ON NOVEMBER 1, as noted here, Russia paid $6,000,000 to settle bills in New York. Now Russia deposits $4,500,000 more to pay other bills, chiefly for American machinery, sent to Russia.

Where does Russia get the money? We refuse to lend her, because we are so much purer than Russia. She did not pay the czar's debts, or Kerensky's, and we cannot stand that.

IT IS TRUE that our own high finance, with issues of worthless stocks, has taken at least $30,000,000,000 from our own foolish home speculators.

And many American billions that international finance traded for the worthless bonds of innumerable foreign countries will never come back. But that does not wipe out Russia's refusal to pay our bankers.

RUSSIA ANNOUNCES the biggest land plane built thus far, the ANT-14, with five engines, carrying 36 passengers and crew.

And, worse news for those who shiver at the word "Bolshevism," Russia announces her readiness to turn out these "carriers for troops" in MASS PRODUCTION.

Let us hope all this is aimed at Japan, a nation well advanced in aviation and ready for trouble, and not aimed at this nation, temptingly rich, and quite unprepared.

WHEN WOMEN were striving for votes here, and in England, assorted objections were offered. They would be governed by their husbands; they do not go to war, therefore they should not go to the polls; they do not understand government; they lack intellect, etc.

Mexico, enthusiastic for woman suffrage in the first revolutionary enthusiasm, decides now that it will not do, for a new reason.

Dr. Amel Barocio Garcia, leading Mexican politician, says:

"Votes for women would be dangerous to the revolution, for the Church of Rome is the owner of a majority of the feminine consciences in this republic."

A SAVAGE WAR has been raging in Portuguese Guinea, hundreds killed, thousands

COURT HEARS JANITOR'S REPORT

Birthmark on Girl Teacher's Leg Assumes Spotlight in Morgantown School Case

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 16.—Twelve men "good and true" literally stood on their heads today as one by one they peered through a tiny peephole into the office of Principal John T. West, where, according to three peeping janitors, the principal and two girl teachers at Morgantown High School acted "in a manner unbecoming to school employes."

In the auditorium of the school, the jurors before whom West is on trial went into a small storage cupboard one at a time and, on hands and knees, crawled into position to peer through the tiny hole in the ceiling of the principal's office.

MET AFTER HOURS

It was in this manner that the janitors, Percy H. Smith, Jesse H. May and O. D. Harris, charge they saw West and the teachers, Blanche Garfield and Esther Williams, in after-hours conferences at which matters not concerning the school curriculum were discussed.

Prior to the peeping, the jury had gazen upon the upholstered wicker furniture of the principal's office.

County Prosecutor Albert Shuman called the jurymen's attention to the cozy arrangements.

OBSERVE OFFICE

United States Senator Mansfield M. Neely, West's attorney, asked them to note the nearness of the room to the main school office.

Shuman pointed out locations of four doors offering, he said, easy and unnoticed access to the office.

Only one witness was called in the morning session after the jurors returned from their inspection. He was Samuel Michel, who lives near the school. He started

'JOE' GOING TO JAIL!

--Engelsberg Entering County Jail After Surrender--

WRENCH-WAVING MR. JOSEPH ENGELSBERG ENTERING JAIL

The little scene in Ross street today as Republican Ward Chairman Engelsberg, found guilty several years ago of conspiracy to violate the prohibition act, entered the county jail to be locked up for a six months' term after his surrender to the U. S. marshal.

HOOVER FOR INCREASED TAXES

Watson, Smoot Announce Raise Is Unescapable; General Sales Levy Seen

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Two of the Republican party's spokesmen on Capitol Hill—Senator James E. Watson, Republican leader of the Senate, and Senator Reed Smoot, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee—announced today that Congress would be asked by the administration to increase taxes.

Watson made the announcement after having conferred with President Hoover for three hours yesterday. He said the tax increase could not be avoided.

Smoot suggested the possibility of the enactment of a sales tax. He added that if the income tax is increased "no doubt the greater incomes will have to bear most of the burden."

APPEALS TO BUYERS

Smoot appealed to the public to "end the buyers' strike." Millions of people, he said, have been limiting their purchases to the necessities of life. If these people will start buying as before, he added, better times will result.

He declared that every appropriation would be "thoroughly scanned" by Congress and those not giving employment would be eliminated.

He said the slashing of appropriations "to the bone" would have a bearing on the form of increased taxation.

Watson announced the President would lay a definite program before Congress, and added:

"A tax increase is inescapable. There are indications the treasury will have a two billion dollar deficit at the end of the year and higher taxes must result."

FAVORS SALES TAX

While keeping an open mind on the form of new taxes to be sought, Senator Smoot expressed favor toward a general sales tax. If income taxes are boosted, Smoot said, the larger incomes would have to bear the burden.

Smoot, who is now dean of the Senate, came back to Washington confident that "the worst has passed and business from now on will be on the upgrade." He urged a resumption of buying.

The Senator said he was opposed to cancellation of the war debts owed to America by the allied nations, and he urged that something be done to restore silver as an assistant to gold in world commerce.

MRS. LAVERNA CULBERTSON, 35 . . QUESTIONED IN DEATH

MT. LEBANON WOMAN IN HYSTERICS FOR HOURS

Tells of Fatal Struggle For Shotgun; Quarrel Follows Week-End Party

Chic and comely, despite the tears of a night of hysteria, and clad in a smart, brown ensemble, Mrs. Laverna Culbertson, 35, of 397 Jefferson drive, Mt. Lebanon, today re-enacted, in the office of District Attorney Andrew T. Park, the struggle with her husband over a shotgun which preceded his death in their luxurious home yesterday.

The shooting came, county detectives said, as the climax of a week-end party which started at the Pitt-Army game and ended in the shotgun's roar after the Culbertsons had quarreled over the invitations of their guests, Mr. and and Mrs. Ralph W. Walker, of Mt. Vernon, O., to accompany them on a hunting trip.

After questioning Mrs. Culbertson and other witnesses for three hours, Park said:

"I have ordered Mrs. Culbertson to be turned over to the Coroner immediately.

"I am satisfied with the statement I have secured from her, but it has not been reduced to writing."

Park said the woman's story as told to him varied only in minor details from the one she gave police and county detectives.

Mrs. Walker was ordered held under $1,000 bail as a material witness by the District Attorney.

FACES QUIZ

Surrounded by relatives and flanked by attorneys, Mrs. Culbertson was taken from the county jail this morning to the office of Chief of County Detectives George W. Murren and then before the district attorney.

County Detective Michael Stabile, summoned by Chief of Police William J. Kane, of Mt. Lebanon, found Mrs. Culbertson, an attractive brown-haired, blue-eyed mother of two children, sobbing in hysteria when he arrived. It was nearly an hour before he could obtain any statement from her, Stabile reported to his chief:

"There were evidences of drinking at the party which the foursome staged Saturday night. I don't say there was much drinking, but highballs had been served. As the party went on, it became very noisy."

Mrs. Culbertson told him, Stabile said, her husband wanted to

ENGELSBERG IN COUNTY JAIL

Joseph Engelsberg, Republican chairman of the Third Ward, started a six months' sentence in the county jail today, his pleas for new trials and presidential clemency refused. He was convicted of conspiracy to violate the prohibition act.

After formalities had been concluded at the office of the United States Marshal, Engelsberg, Attorney Robert Averbach and Deputy United States Marshal Walter Meyed went to the county jail.

As he stepped from the automobile of his attorney in front of the county jail he picked up a tire wrench from the floor of the machine. He raised it in a threatening manner toward a photographer taking his picture, but laughed as he handed it back to Attorney Averbach.

Musmanno Presses 'Prosperity' Loan

Armstrong Reported Pneumonia Victim

Joseph G. Armstrong, chairman of the Allegheny County Board of Commissioners, had developed pneumonia and was running a high temperature, it was reported today. No confirmation was forthcoming from the Commissioner's home, where it was said his condition was "unchanged." Armstrong developed a heavy cold last Thursday and has been in bed since.

Tomorrow's scheduled meeting of the Commissioners has been postponed, since Commissioner E. V. Babcock is out of town on a business trip and will not be home until Wednesday.

Legislator Seeks to Have Congress Adopt Plan

Assemblyman M. A. Musmanno tonight will introduce in the Legislature a resolution asking that Congress be urged to approve the $5,000,000,000 prosperity loan advocated by W. R. Hearst, and indorsed by a number of members of both branches of the national legislative body.

In his resolution Musmanno recites that the economic threat now confronting the country is as great a menace to happiness and safety as war. He cites the activity of the national government in war time, and asserts that simi-

Judge Marshall Hears First Case

Judge Thomas M. Marshall, recently appointed to the bench after his election, was presiding at his first jury trial today. It was a damage suit of Mrs. Bessie Hetrick, widow, of 112 Clover street, for personal injuries, suffered when she tripped over a pipe at South Twentieth and Carson streets, March 23, 1923. The City of Pittsburgh is defendant. Previously he heard a divorce case.

Huge Sunday Show Benefit Arranged for Needy Here

Between 75,000 and 80,000 residents of Pittsburgh and Allegheny County will be given an opportunity next Sunday to aid in the relief of unemployed thousands in simultaneous benefit motion picture shows in 69 localities. Every theater will present its regular weekday show at 8 p. m. Sunday.

Arranged by the Motion Picture Exhibitors of Pittsburgh, including theaters of Warner Brothers, Loew's Penn, Sheridan Square, Fulton and independently owned houses, the benefit is being sponsored by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette and the Pittsburgh Press.

Tickets for the shows went on sale in all of the participating theaters today. There will be no reserved seats, and only the maximum seating capacity of each theater will be sold. There will be one performance in each house. The regular admission charges of the theaters will prevail.

All of the funds received will be given to the Allegheny County

Lindy Flight Balked, Grandi Takes Train

Taken to Car Under Guard When Fog Prevents Flying

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16—Thwarted by fog and rain from flying to the capital with Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, Dino Grandi, youthful and amiable foreign minister of Italy, today arrived from the land of Mussolini aboard the liner Conte Grande. He departed in the old-fashioned way—via train—for his diplomatic rendezvous in Washington with President Hoover and Secretary of State Stimson.

A cordon of armed police was stretched from his special train in Jersey City to the pier, to which he was transferred from the liner. There were no signs of any anti-Fascist demonstration for this reason, Grandi said:

"I cannot now make any statement on the conversations I am going to have in Washington with the President and your Secretary of State, but I think I can safely say that these conversations will prove useful for the general understanding which is so necessary to the world recovery.

INTERNATIONAL AID

"I did not come to America to offer a particularly national plan but to bring the Italian contribution to the work of international co-operation."

The liner Conte Grande, on which Grandi was a passenger, had pulled through the narrows and had been sighted at Quarantine when announcement was made by Pan-American Airways that the proposed flight to Washington had been abandoned.

Lindbergh, it was understood, concluded it was inadvisable to fly because of the heavy fog.

As the Conte Grande dropped anchor at Quarantine, Roger Q. Williams, who flew the Atlantic to Rome, flew overhead and dropped a bunch of roses for Mrs. Grandi and a sheaf of circulars expressing the welcome to America of Fascist organizations.

FOES IN RIOT

The plan of the State Department to have Grandi fly to Washington without touching foot on shore was matured while a mass meeting of anti-Fascists was framing a protest to the President to drop the governmental program for a gala reception.

The demonstration was marked by a riot between Communists and less radical members of the anti-Fascists group. A sum was raised at the meeting to finance a "hecklins" of the visiting Italian statesman "wherever he can be found."

Wales Slightly Ill, Broadcasts Tonight

LONDON, Nov. 16.—(INS.)—The Prince of Wales, "slightly indisposed," remained today at Himley Hall, the residence of Viscount Ednam in Worcestershire, instead of returning to London from a weekend trip.

It was learned here that the prince's condition had caused no anxiety, and that a physician had not been consulted.

Tonight the prince will go to Birmingham to deliver a nation-wide radio speech, inaugurating a "Buy British" campaign.

Snowden Becomes Peer, Holds Cabinet Post

LONDON, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—Official announcement was made today that Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer in Ramsay MacDonald's Labor cabinet, has been created a viscount.

He was one of the strongest figures in the Labor government, and by his services earned the appelation "Iron Chancellor." His magic with figures achieved a balance in the British budget and his were the recommendations which imposed stringent economies upon the people and the government, boosting taxes and cutting the dole.

Of recent months he has been seriously ill and for a long time he has used two cains to assist him in getting about.

He did not run for re-election to the House of Commons in the last genera election, but he was included in the present cabinet as lord privy seal.

Since he could not qualify as a cabinet member unless he held a seat in one House of Parliament, his appointment to the cabinet verified reports which had been current for some time that he was to be raised to the peerage.

The announcement said the King had approved Snowden's elecation.

The procedure is in accordance with precedent by which cabinet members who go to the House of Lords become viscounts. It was not known whether Snowden would become simply Viscount Snowden or whether he would choose some other designation.

HEARST CONGRESSIONAL PARTY STUDIES TAX IN MONTREAL

CANADIANS GIVE REVENUE DATA TO VISITORS

System of Levy on Sales Explained to Americans Confronted by Big Deficit

By CHARLES J. McGUIRK
International News Service.

MONTREAL, Nov. 16.—A delegation of Senators and Representatives from the United States Congress today received first hand information on the workings of Canadian sales tax.

The Montreal Board of Trade gave a reception to the visiting law-makers with Norman J. Dawes, president of the board among those who greeted the delegation.

The group of Senators and Representatives is making a study at close range of the sales tax system under the auspices of William Randolph Hearst.

With the American Congress faced with the problem of how to wipe out a treasury deficit, the legislators, Republicans and Democrats were invited by Mr. Hearst to come to Canada and investigate the sales tax system.

START HOME THURSDAY

Traveling in a special train the congressional party will leave here tomorrow for Ottawa returning to Montreal Wednesday. Quebec will be visited Thursday and late that day the party will head for the United States.

Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways, will tender the visitors a dinner tonight.

The Congressmen, including Senators Thomas and Gore (Dems.), of Oklahoma; King (Dem.), of Utah, and Austin (Rep.), of Vermont were told by businessmen that the sales tax here applies chiefly to manufactured goods, with products of the farm, sea and mines largely exempted; that the tax is levied upon articles at the time of the first sale of the completed article.

Some 18,000 manufacturers in Canada pay the sales tax, which is at the rate of 4 per cent upon the price of the goods. Canada was said to have collected about $20,000,000 through the sales tax in the last fiscal year when the rate was 1 per cent. Estimates were that $80,000,000 would be collected this year.

WILL DESCRIBE SYSTEM

At a reception in the Hotel Windsor here last night the Americans engaged in an informal discussion with the Canadians on the sales tax and problems of mutual interest to the United States and Canada.

Sir Henry Thornton, William Gould, secretary of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, and Edward G. Sabin, United States trade commissioner to Canada, were present.

Members of the visiting party today said they were pleased by the cordiality of the businessmen in describing their duties under the sales tax plan. In Ottawa the visitors will hear from officials of the government just how the sales tax is administered by the government.

E. B. Ryckman, minister of national revenue, will preside at a dinner there as a representative of Prime Minister Bennett. Members of the cabinet and of his majesty's privy council will attend.

A reception for the delegation will be given by Col. J. Hanford MacNider, United States minister to Canada, and Mrs. MacNider at the American legation at Ottawa tomorrow.

In Quebec the party will be received on the floor of the provincial legislative assembly when high government officials will greet their fellow-lawmakers from the United States.

Ex-Gov. Taylor's Illness Critical

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn., Nov. 16.—(AP.)—Former Gov. Alf Taylor, colorful figure in Tennessee politics for years, was reported seriously ill at Appalachian Hospital here today.

Recurrence of a kidney ailment, for which he underwent an operation last July, sent him to the hospital Thursday, but no announcement was made of his illness until yesterday.

Two Men Stabbed In Camp Struggle

ERIE, Pa., Nov. 16.—(AP.)—Two men were stabbed in a fight in a camp near Ripley, N. Y., last night and one of them is reported in a serious condition in a hospital here. Paul Brown, 30, was cut about the body, and Berle Fimmerman was given medical attention.

Alphonse Sciacca, of Rochester, N. Y., charged with attacking the two men, surrendered today.

2 MEN CAUGHT AFTER HOLDUP

Speeding to Logan and Clark streets early today, in answer to a holdup call, police in a police radio automobile arrived in time to arrest two of three alleged gunmen who slugged William Markowitz, Hill district fruit store owner.

Markowitz, in Passavant Hospital, is in a serious condition, suffering from a probable fracture of the skull.

The prisoners are William Bane, of 1018 Gibbons street, and William Marton, of 2022 Forbes street. Their captors were Patrolmen Howard Caldwell and Rodger Burks.

Three armed bandits bound and gagged Clement K. Bickert, 59, a confectioner at 1214 East street, and John Miller, 79, a roomer. They escaped after roobing them of $4 each. Miller entered the store as Clement was being forced into a rear room. The bandits fled in a waiting automobile.

BERLIN TO OPEN DEBT CUT MOVES

LONDON, Nov. 16.—(INS.)—Within a few days and certainly before the end of the week Germany will send notes to all the governments concerned, formally starting the machinery for revision of the Young plan.

This was learned from authoritative sources this afternoon.

The first step will be to call into being the special advisory committee to be appointed by the Bank for International Settlements at Basel to investigate an new Germany's capacity to pay reparations.

This will pave the way for a new full-dress international conference to discuss the whole questions of war debts and reparations. This conference will be forced to make the long-postponed decision on whether Germany's immense private debt on her reparations obligations will take precedence as a first mortgage on the Reich's national wealth.

BURGESS HELD ON RUM CHARGE

Burgess W. O. Kennedy, of Versailles, was under $1,000 bond today for an alleged violation of the state liquor law.

He was arrested Saturday afternoon by state police and Constable Charles Ulm, of Versailles Township, in a raid on the second floor of a house in Lincoln way, near the Westmoreland County line.

Taken before Justice of the Peace J. V. Watson, of Versailles Township, the Burgess denied that he was part owner of the place, where, the raiders reported, a barrel of beer and several bottles of whisky, gin and moonshine were confiscated.

Leo Yester, 30, of 1203 Locust street, McKeesport, was arrested as the bartender. He was held for the grand jury on the same charge and under the same bail as Kennedy.

DIME NOW BUYS WHOLE MEAL

The old plea of the panhandler—"Gimme a dime for a cup of coffee"—assumed a greater possibility today as down-and-outers realized a dime will not only purchase coffee, but meat, potatoes, gravy and bread and butter as well.

Today a dime means a meal under the new program of the Pittsburgh Association for the Improvement of the Poor at 428 Duquesne way, and Webster avenue and Washington street.

Persons who disliked giving applicants money because they doubted it went for coffee, hail the new plan as a solution. A book of tickets may be purchased for $1 and each of the 10 tickets exchanged for a meal.

Books of tickets may be purchased at either Improvement of the Poor establishment.

PINCHOT RELIEF TAX PROGRAM ATTACKED

Delegations Oppose Plans As Legislature Opens Second Week of Session

HARRISBURG, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—Attacks on Gov. Pinchot's proposals for cigaret and billboard taxes and a two-cent increase in the gasoline tax today marked the opening of the second week of the special session of the Pennsylvania legislature.

Tobacco manufacturers, outdoor advertising interests and motor clubs sent delegations here to protest against enactment of these proposed revenue measures at the house Ways and Means Committee public hearings on the bills. The Governor has estimated these taxes would provide $49,000,000 in two years.

CAUCUS HELD

Prior to the opening of the public hearings, the Philadelphia legislative delegation, comprising eight Senators and 41 Representatives, met in caucus in Philadelphia to determine their attitude on the Governor's $120,000,000 program. Last week members of the delegation voiced their opposition to the executive's revenue measures on the grounds that the money which would be raised by them should be returned to the local communities in allotments equaling the amount collected in their territory. They also attacked the Governor's proposal for a state commission of unemployment relief to supervise expenditure of relief funds, saying the control of this money should be in the hands of the counties.

In addition, the merits and demerits of all relief bills, administrative as well as independent, will be discussed tonight by the Senate in an informal but executive conference with Attorney General William A. Schnader. This meeting was arranged last week by the Judiciary General Committee in an effort to eliminate committee room and floor debate on the bills and prepare the senators to act for or against the Governor's program.

LABOR MEASURES

Meanwhile, the State Federation of Labor had prepared for introduction two measures to levy a state income tax to provide money for unemployment relief through construction projects in opposition to the Governor's three tax measures. One of these measures is a constitutional amendment to legalize a graduated income tax in Pennsylvania, which could not become effective before 1933, and the other is a bill to tax all incomes at the rate of 5 per cent with an allowance of $500 a year. The $500 a year allowance would have the effect of levying no tax on any salary of $10,000 or less.

Should the legislators become definitely prepared to act for or against the bills now before them resolutions will be adopted this week setting the date for final introduction of bills and the date for adjournment sine die.

100 Miles an Hour Speed of New Trolley

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—Passengers on Philadelphia's new street cars might be wise to notify the conductor well ahead of their destination if they don't want to risk shooting past it. New streamline cars capable of hitting 100 miles per hour have been put into service between Philadelphia and Norristown.

Radio Announcing Undergoes Change

PINCHOT TO GIVE TO RELIEF

HARRISBURG, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—Gov. Pinchot, in a letter to Representative Phillip Sterling, Philadelphia, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, today said he will not ask wealthy Pennsylvanians to contribute proportionately more to his Unemployment Relief Fund than he himself plans to give. The governor said:

"As soon as I can, I shall call upon wealthy Pennsylvanians individually, and ask them to make contributions according to their means. I shall ask no one to contribute a larger percentage of his or her income than I shall contribute myself."

Last week the Governor asked Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon to contribute $1,000,000. The Governor told newspapermen that Mellon declined to contribute that amount and promised to give the matter further consideration.

Pleasing Voice No Longer Only Requirement

There was a time when a young man with a pleasing voice and some personality could walk into a radio studio and become a station announcer. That day has passed, according to Marjory Stewart, for three years program critic, coach of announcers and continuity writer for KDKA and with the National Broadcasting Company, New York and Chicago, for two years.

Although blind, Miss Stewart is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh and has been active in radio work almost since its inception. She also has opened a microphone training school at 640 Liberty avenue. She said:

"The underlying principles of good announcing are correct projection of the voice, sincerity of interpretation and ability to visualize definitely the radio audience. The successful announcer must have maturity of voice, unlimited imagination and personality."

Until television becomes practical, Miss Stewart believes the importance of sound effects will limit radio dramatic programs to plays and operas devoid of scenic effect. She said:

"The play that goes over with the listening public must explain the action in the lines themselves. It must not depend on an expositor for this purpose. Musical comedy and the poetic play depend on scenery. Radio attention can be held only by clever dialogue, and sound effects."

However, Christian kings have started wars for less, including war for a woman, morally speaking, less admirable than the African pig.

CONCERNING THE value of lovely women, King Joe, ruler of American gypsies, announces reduced prices for gypsy brides.

A father buying a bride for his gypsy son had to pay $2,500 before the depression. Now, to meet the times, King Joe has dropped the price to $1,500. Any really deserving young gypsy may do even better, by seeing King Joe in private.

'BOY EMPEROR' BALKS JAPAN IN PLOT

Coronation of 'Pu Yi' Held Up When He Rebels and Threatens to End Life

By JOHN GOETTE
International News Service.

PEIPING, Nov. 18.—A threat by Henry Pu Yi, former "Boy Emperor" of China, to commit suicide has caused a delay in plans at Mukden to have him crowned emperor of Manchuria, International News Service learned today.

Pu Yi, according to private messages received here, told members of his entourage that he would kill himself if the Japanese did not abandon their scheme of making him the head of an independent Manchurian government.

The coronation ceremonies, scheduled for today, have been postponed therefore until Tuesday, while further efforts are made to "persuade" the 25-year-old ex-emperor that he should revive the ancient Manchu dynasty under Japanese protection.

Pu Yi's departure from Tientsin on a Japanese steamship was first made known last week by International News Service. The youth, known as Hsuan Tung before his abdication as Chinese emperor, was taken to Dairen, and is now at Mukden, residing at the home of one of the widows of Marshal Chang Tso-Lin.

League Asks Closer Co-Operation by U. S.

QUAI D'ORSAY, Paris, Nov. 16.—(INS.)—After a public session lasting only 25 minutes the League of Nations council late this afternoon began its consideration of the Manchurian crisis behind closed doors by appeals to the United States for closer co-operation in its efforts to preserve peace between Japan and China.

The secret session, understood to have been decided upon over the protests of the Chinese delegate, Dr. Alfred Sze, was approved by other delegations on the ground that the Sino-Japanese conflict was too grave and too greatly endangered the prestige of the league to be aired in public.

Charles G. Dawes, American ambassador to London, who had been ordered to Paris as an observer by his government, was taking a nap at his hotel when the delegates went into private session at 4:30 p. m., in the historic clock room of the French Foreign Office.

In his absence, Aristide Briand, French Foreign Minister, who is presiding over the council's deliberations on the Manchurian situation, directly appealed for more effective support of the United States.

While reading a prepared manuscript setting forth the entire history of the Manchurian crisis as well as the various steps taken by the League Council since the situation developed menacingly, M. Briand was attacked by a serious couching spell. Several times he was obliged to interrupt his recitation.

There were anxious expressions on the faces of all the members as Briand strove to overcome his ous coughing spell. Several times the space of 10 minutes he was forced to stop.

Chinese Reject Ultimatum; Fear Increased Warfare

TIENSTIN, China, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—Chinese circles here today feared that hostilities on the biggest scale since the Manchurian dispute started would result from Gen. Mah Chan-Shan's third rejection of a Japanese ultimatum demanding withdrawal of his troops to a point north of the Chinese Eastern Railway.

Reporting his refusal of the ultimatum in a dispatch to Gen. Chang Hsueh-Liang, deposed governor of Manchuria, who now is in Peiping, Gen. Mah said the disposition of his troops in the province of Heilkungkiang was entirely for the purpose of defending the territory against rebel troops and bandits.

The question of withdrawal is a matter for decision by the provincial authorities, he said, and the placing of troops south of the Chinese Eastern Railway is a sovereign right of the Chinese "which the Japanese seek to destroy, thereby revealing their intention of invading Northern Manchuria."

Federal Education Urged on Hoover

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—Creation of a Federal Education Department, headed by a cabinet member, has been recommended to President Hoover by his national advisory committee on education. In a final report on two years of study, the committee also urged a hands-off policy by the national government in state educational affairs.

Helen Moody Kin May Wed Ex-Wife of Film Star

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—Another matrimonial venture, this time in Shanghai, is being planned by Lieut. Joseph E. Moody, Marine Corps officer and brother-in-law of Mrs. Helen Wills, the tennis star, his friends here said today.

The bride, they said, is to be Mrs. Faith Cole MacLean, ex-wife of Douglas MacLean, screen star, and the wedding will be in January.

Mrs. Frederick S. Moody, mother of the Marine officer, refused to comment. The tennis star and her husband, Frederick S. Moody, Jr., are en route to the Orient, but gave no indication they intended to attend the wedding or knew the event was planed.

In 1920 Lieut. Moody, decorated for bravery in the World War, married Miss Ruth Catherine Harriman, a Follies beauty. His parents opposed the match. In 1916 his plans to wed Marion Parks, Boston chorus girl, did not materialize.

Rich Ambler Folk, Robbed Often, Appeal to Pinchot

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—Reports of $300,000 thefts of gems and cash from wealthy Ambler residents and a demand to Gov. Pinchot for increase in the number of police officers in Montgomery County held the attention of state police as an aftermath of the thwarted holdup of three debutantes.

Richard Vaux, socially prominent father of two of the girls, asserted homes of six of his wealthy neighbors had been robbed of $300,000 in six months.

He asserted, in an appeal to Pinchot, that there were but three state troopers on duty in the county and that they offered insufficient protection.

Stanley Morash, 30, chauffeur of the car in which Mary Gwinn Vaux, 17; Ruth, 18, her sister, and Mary Ingersoll, 18, a cousin, were riding, thwarted the attempted robbery when he speeded his car as two gunmen leaped on the running board. Miss Ingersoll kicked a third man in the face.

The assailants fired several times at the automobiles. Morash was struck in the arm, but drove on to the house.

U. S. COAL CONTROL OPPOSED AT WORLD PARLEY HERE

INDUSTRY TOLD TO FIND OWN TRADE CURE

Taylor, U. S. Steel Official, And Gov. Ritchie Condemn U. S. Rule as Remedy

Government control of the coal industry drew fire of Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the finance committee, United States Steel Corporation, and Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland, at the opening session today of the Third International Conference on Bituminous Coal.

Speaking before a galaxy of engineers, scientists and industrial leaders that included James A. Farrell, president of the Steel Corporation, Taylor urged that the coal industry look within itself for the solution of its problems.

RITCHIE SEES PERIL

Gov. Ritchie, mentioned as a Democratic candidate for the presidency, branded government regulation in its last analysis as a "species of communism" that would put the cold hand of death on all competitive development. He urged elimination of the anti-trust laws, declaring:

"About the only safe way I see to help you and all our key industries would be to take those anti-trust laws which were framed to fit conditions in an old economic era and change them now to fit changed conditions of a new economic era."

Taylor asserted that there had been a disposition to assume that no betterment in the coal industry could come until Congress enacted further legislation. He continued:

"Nationalization of industry and the artificial fixing of commodity prices through attempted stabilization by government control invite defeat at their inception because they are contrary to the law of supply and demand."

WIDESPREAD HARDSHIP

"Existing conditions have led to widespread hardship and suffering because of the irregularity of employment, and have forced prices below cost.

"While it would be difficult to imagine more injurious impediments to production, labor and distribution, or more far-reaching discouragement of commerce than those which result from prevailing conditions, there has been a tendency to assume that these conditions could not be remedied by co-operative effort within the industry, because of a belief that our anti-trust laws would prohibit any such co-operation as being a restraint of trade and commerce. Hence there has been some disposition to assume that the industry cannot be expected to take any action to better its condition until Congress enacts additional legislation.

UP TO INDUSTRY

"I cannot share these views. The primary responsibility is on the industry itself to find ways to promote the public interest of its own producers, employes, distributors and customers, by permitting and carrying out whatever constructive plans may be possible under the present law, acting, of course, openly and under competent legal advice, so far as possible in cooperation with the government. The great need is for the development within the industry of a sincere desire and purpose to correct these conditions. I cannot escape the feeling that the trouble has been due more to the lack of will to do the reasonable and proper things called for in the public interest than to the obstacles supposedly presented by the anti-trust laws to rational and wholesome action.

URGES INDUSTRY ACT

"I earnestly hope to see the industry awaken to a clear sense of its full responsibility and opportunity in this matter. I shall be disappointed if it mistakenly settles down to the view that nothing can be expected of it until additional legislation is enacted."

A thousand engineers, operators, experts in the various phases of coal mining, its consumption and by-products, who virtually filled Carnegie Music Hall, were greeted in an address of welcome by Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president of the Carnegie Institute of Technology under whose auspices the conference is held.

Two score of the speakers occupied seats on the platform. On the four-day program are included leading technicians and industrialists from the United States, England, Germany, Japan, Sweden, France, Belgium, Soviet Russia, Italy, Switzerland, Rumania and Poland.

DR. BAKER'S NEW AUTO FUEL

Dr. Baker emphasized the need of immediate solution to the present ruinous conditions of the coal industry. Like Taylor, he opposed further legislation holding that "a great deal can be accomplished without new laws, by unselfish effort within the industry."

The institute head said he had no plan to suggest, but that he hoped out of the discussions of the conference would come to "some degree of unanimity as to how the best expert advice on these matters can be secured and how, having obtained this advice, it can be put into effect."

Sir Harry Brittain, of Sheffield, England, speaking on "A Layman's View of the Coal Problem," said his country with its enormous supplies of coal, but with no proved supplies of natural oil, was greatly interested in methods to convert coal and coal tar oils into motor fuels by treating them with high pressures. A process of this kind would offer great possibilities, he said.

The opening addresses were broadcast by KDKA.

At this afternoon's session addresses were to be made by C. E. Bockus, president of the National Coal Association; Harry N. Taylor, chairman of the board, United Electric Coal Companies; Alfred G. White, research division, National Industrial Conference board; W. H. Young, U. S. Bureau of Mines, Washington and Dr. W. T. Thom, Jr., Princeton University. The discussion was to be led by Hoard N. Eavenson, of Pittsburgh, and R. V. Wheeler, of Sheffield, England.

Flying Couple Saved From Jungle Beasts

MRS. GLADYS M'CLEARY DAY . . . . CARRIED FROM JUNGLES

Ex-Washington Girl, Mate Forced Down On World Trip

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 16.—Friends here have just been apprised of a thrilling escape from tigers and herds of wild elephants by Mrs. Gladys McCleary Day, former Washington society girl, who, with her husband Charles H. Day, airplane designer and builder, were forced to land their ship in an Indian jungle while making a world flight.

The Days, who live at Ridgewood, N. J., left New York on May 8 in a new type airplane designed by Day in his Paterson (N. J.) plant, and had flown across Europe and Western Asia when forced down in the jungle. They were saved by native blacks who, at times, carried Mrs. Day through a jungle morass two and three feet deep.

The Day plane was salvaged from the jungle, reassembled and then flown to Shanghai, from where Mrs. Day wrote her family of her experience. The Days are now on the Pacific on their way home, expecting to reach San Francisco November 18. They will then complete their world trip by flying across the continent to their New Jersey home.

FARRELL HERE AS LISTENER

James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel Corporation, here to attend the bituminous coal conference, made it plain he was a listener and not a speaker.

After he and others had posed for a photograph while waiting for the conference to open in Carnegie Music Hall, the Steel Corporation head was asked for his views on the coal industry and business generally. He replied:

"I do not care to say anything today."

Depew's Estate Worth 6 Millions

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—Chauncey M. Depew, Jr., son of the late United States Senator and a railroad magnate, left a gross estate of $6,144,291 and a net of $4,973,557 when he died January 26, last, according to a transfer tax appraisal filed today.

Yale University receives one-third of the residue, and the remaining two-thirds go to four cousins, the only other legatees mentioned.

GIRL'S PARENTS INDICTED IN TORTURE

Father and Stepmother Face Arraignment Friday for Locking Child in Closet

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Ten days after a policewoman rescued Edith Riley, 13, from a locked and dark closet in her home, the District of Columbia grand jury this afternoon returned indictments against her father, Harry N. Riley, and her stepmother, Mrs. Elsie Riley.

The child's older brother and sister told police their stepmother had kept Edith in the closet for the greater part of the last four years.

Her body was so emaciated because of the lack of sunshine, air and nourishing food that Edith was taken immediately to Gallinger Hospital, where she will stay for six months.

The Rileys probably will be arraigned in District of Columbia Supreme Court Friday. They are now at liberty under $2,500 bond each under their promise to voluntarily appear for arraignment if indicted.

The indictment against them read:

"That Elsie M. Riley and Harry N. Riley on November 6, with force of arms then and there did wilfully, unlawfully and feloniously torture, cruelly beat, abuse and otherwise wilfully maltreat one Edith Riley, then under the age of 18 years."

Conviction would carry maximum penalties of two years' imprisonment and $250 fines for the father and stepmother.

Edith is under observation at the hospital. The Public Welfare Board has been given supervision of the child for six months. At the end of this period Judge Kathryn Sellers, of the Juvenile Court, will make final ruling on her future care.

HOPE RENEWED FOR INDIA PACT

LONDON, Nov. 16.—(INS.)—Renewed hope of an agreement between the Moslems, Hindus and Sikhs led to an hour's adjournment of the Indian round table conference today to permit possible favorable developments.

Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald was present at the session which was interrupted by reports that an unexpected move was to be made outside the conference.

Well-informed circles here believe that the apparent breakdown of the parleys may be explained by the devious methods of Oriental diplomacy.

MAJ. TOWNSEND SUED AT RENO

RENO, Nev., Nov. 16.—(INS.)—Mrs. Dorothea Townsend, prominent New York society woman, headlined the list of divorce seekers in Reno courts today.

Mrs. Townsend will ask a decree on grounds of cruelty from Maj. John D. Townsend, social register Army officer formerly stationed at Pittsburgh. They were married at Washington July 23, 1917. A property settlement was effected out of court.

Maj. Townsend was formerly stationed here as an instructor for the Reserve Officers Training Corps. He left the city about six months ago and now is detailed at Little Rock, Ark.

THEFT OF FIVE MASTERPIECES REVEALED

Artist Arrested in Moscow And Paintings Valued At $500,000 Recovered

By KENDALL FOSS
International News Service.

MOSCOW, Nov. 16.—Theft of five masterpieces valued at more than $500,000 from the Moscow Fine Arts Museum was revealed here today by the arrest of M. Kokorieff, a 36-year-old artist.

The arrest of Kokorieff climaxed a five-year investigation by the criminal investigation division of the Moscow police.

According to the report of Kokorieff's arrest obtained by International News Service, he had an accomplice, an electrician named Fedorovitch. The thieves broke into the museum on Easter eve, 1927, and cut the paintings from their frames. Their loss has been successfully kept secret since that time while the search for the thieves has gone on steadily.

The thieves left behind them in the museum a note reading, "Christ died that man might live," seeking to shift suspicion to anti-religious vandals.

It was only a short time later that Kokorieff offered the masterpieces for sale to a wealthy foreigner. It was this move that put the C. I. D. on his trail and led to his arrest today.

One of the most valuable of the stolen pictures, Titian's "Ecce Homo," was badly damaged when recovered, having been dug up in a tin suitcase in which it had been hidden. Other famous paintings unharmed by "burial" were Rembrandt's "Christ;" Correggio's "Holy Family;" Pisano's "Flogging of Christ" and Dolce's "The Apostle John."

CITY THANKED BY CADETS

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 16.—Residents of Pittsburgh and students and faculty members of the University of Pittsburgh today were publicly thanked for the "whole-hearted welcome" extended the West Point Cadets and officers that visited the city Saturday. The cadets arrived back at West Point last night.

Lieut. Col. Walker J. Wilson, who acted as superintendent of the military academy during the Pittsburgh trip, in the absence of Maj. Gen. William R. Smith, who was ill, last night said:

"The officers and cadets of the United States Military Academy are enthusiastic over the enjoyment accorded them by the citizens of Pittsburgh and the faculty of the University of Pittsburgh. The whole-hearted welcome was an inspiration to every officer and cadet in the party."

On the return trip, a stopover was made at Niagara Falls to permit a short sightseeing trip.

go on the hunting trip with the Walkers, that she objected and the quarrel followed.

Then, according to the detective, she went to the garage and cut the wires of her husband's auto and took his shotgun from the car. In retaliation, Stabile said, Culbertson went to the garage and tore out the ignition of his wife's car. He quoted Mrs. Culbertson:

"When I returned to the house with the gun I took it to the second floor to hide it. He discovered what I was doing and tried to get it away from me, and in the scuffle the gun was accidentally discharged. I do not remember having my finger on the trigger. All I remember is a roar, and I saw Albert stagger and fall into a heap."

'DADDY SHOT!'

Walker, who had gone to a garage for gasoline told police that when he returned to the Culbertson home Culbertson's son, Albert, 11, ran out of the house screaming:

"Daddy has been shot. Get a doctor, quick."

Walker drove to the home of Dr. Richard W. Lang, on Washington road, who returned to the house and pronounced Culbertson dead. He then called the Mt. Lebanon police, who in turn notified county detectives.

When police arrived they found the gun in Culbertson's car, they said. Walker admitted having placed it there after he had taken it from the child, Albert, Jr., who had carried it to the basement, Chief Kane said.

A battery of lawyers appeared in Mrs. Culbertson's behalf this morning.

Attorney John G. Koedel arrived in the jail office shortly before 10 a. m. Oliver K. Eaton and I. Elmer Eckert appeared for her in the Detective Bureau at almost the same time.

Attorney Eckert made a short statement in which he said the shooting was accidental and that it would be so proven.

The Culbertsons have another son, Charles, 7.

Culbertson, a graduate of Cornell and Ohio State University, was connected with the Rust Engineering Company. His wife and Mrs. Walker attended high school together and had been friends since that time, it was said.

Culbertson, Lenz Post Bets, Sign for Bridge War

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—The much-heralded Ely Culbertson-Sidney Lenz contract bridge match will be held between December 7 and January 15.

Culbertson met Lenz at a luncheon yesterday and they signed the contract calling for four sessions each week until 150 rubbers are completed.

Culbertson, who will pair for at least half of the rubbers with his wife, posted a check for $5,000 that his approach-forcing system of bidding would better the "official" system to be used by Lenz. The latter posted a check for $1,000 to back the skill of himself and Oswald Jacoby, his partner.

Culbertson said Lenz's $1,000 would go to the New York Infirmary if his team won. Lenz promised Culbertson's $5,000 to the Emergency Unemployment Relief Committee should he come out ahead.

The Knickerbocker Whist Club team last night won the contract bridge tournament for the Vanderbilt cup, defeating a Cavendish Club team by 1,235 points in a playoff of a tie.

Culbertson's team, which won the cup last year, was eliminated Saturday.

The team of which Lenz was a member failed to reach the finals.

ROSE TO SHUN BROTHER'S TRIAL

Deb Will Sail for Europe; Had Planned Honeymoon With Suitor, Since Slain

BULLETIN.

NORRISTOWN, Pa., Nov. 16.—(AP.)—Rose E. W. Allen, society debutante, talked with her brother, Edwin H. B. Allen, for 15 minutes today in the Montgomery County prison, where he is held on a charge of murder for the shooting of her sweetheart, Francis A. Donaldson III, well known socially.

When she left the prison she said, "I am here because I love my brother."

International News Service.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 16.—Pretty, 18-year-old Rose Allen is going abroad — upon what, under less tragic circumstances, might have been her honeymoon, it was reported today.

She is to be away at least six months—during which time her 23-year-old brother, Edward, will be tried for the murder of her sweetheart, Francis A. Donaldson III. He may be acquitted; he may be found guilty and sentenced to a long prison term, or to the electric chair. In any event, Rose Allen will have no part in it either for the prosecution, or for the defense, it was indicated.

This was forecast today through reliable sources of information, close to the Allen family. It came, moreover, apparently as no surprise to the District Attorney's office and, it may be, as a relief to Allen's attorney, John R. K. Scott.

Young Allen's chances, it generally was conceded, will be materially improved if his sister does not, as she at first indicated she would do, take the stand against him.

ELOPEMENT INDICATED

On the other hand, belief rapidly was nearing certainty that the shooting of Donaldson last Monday night interrupted what otherwise might have been young Donaldson's and Rose Allen's elopement.

Intimations became clearer that Donaldson, at the Allen home, may have informed Rose Allen's father and her brother, Edward, he intended to marry her, despite their objections and objections of his own parents.

Albert H. Gallatir Lucas, young Donaldson's friend and companion that night, and only eyewitness of the shooting, was quoted as stating that, when he joined Donaldson and Rose Allen at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel, he saw three packed bags in Miss Allen's room there.

Rose had left her father's apartment after a quarrel, carrying her own bag. Then she had telephoned to Lucas, asking him to have Donaldson telephone to her.

Presumably Donaldson did telephone, and, it was pointed out, it might very well have occurred that Donaldson, in the course of this conversation, proposed that they be married immediately. Thus Donaldson may have gone to the hotel, taking his own bag with him, packed for an elopement.

U. S. to Probe Fatal W. Va. Plane Crash

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Nov. 16.—(INS.)—Federal officials were expected here today to open an investigation into the death of George Rowan, 42, a mechanic at the Clarksburg Airways, who was killed when his plane failed to come out of a spin after a loop and crashed to the ground.

Rowan was burned to death when the craft was ignited by the exploding gas tank.

"Yes."

"What did he say?"

"Smith said he looked through a hole and saw the entire affair."

"What did Miss Williams say about the allegation?"

PART TRUE

"He said part of it was true, but the rest of it was not."

"What part did he say was true?"

"The part about Miss Williams being in his office and her having a birthmark on her leg—he said he saw it one time while in swimming."

"He denied the immoral part of Miss Williams being in the office."

Dr. McCorkle was cross-examined by [illegible] Judge I. C. Lazzelle, [illegible] with United States Senator Matthew M. Neely in the defense of Principal West.

First Assistant District Attorney John D. Davies outlined the state's case, declaring his intention to prove certain specific indiscretions between the principal and his teachers and warning the jury against so-called political side issues of the case.

DENOUNCES TEAMUP

Senator Neely termed the whole affair a frameup against Dr. West and a "vicious attempt to get the finest man ever given a certificate to teach school in West Virginia."

The courtroom was filled long before 9 o'clock, the corridors, stairs and roof-tops outside the building taking up the grumbling overflow, disappointed at not being able to get into the trial. In the crowd assembled before the courthouse were many women of varying age.

Principal West is being tried first on the indictment charging misconduct with Miss Williams. He stands indicted on two counts of misconduct, and the teachers charged separately.

CHARGE KEPT SECRET

Just what acts of alleged misconduct the principal and his teachers are charged with is very much of a mystery—the whole affair having been investigated secretly until recent accusations were taken up by the Monongalia grand jury shortly after the opening of school this fall.

Residents in the vicinity of the school are alleged to have made complaints to police, Supt. McCorkle, the School Board and other officials of the mysterious visits of the principal and certain of his teachers at the school late at night.

Nothing was done officially until Supt. McCorkle assigned three janitors to the case, according to the report.

Superintendent McCorkle, although not functioning as superintendent this year, maintains that by the terms of his contract he holds his position for another year by reason of the board's failure to act one way or another. The principal and the teachers were induced to take indefinite leaves of absence leaving the city of Morgantown without either principal or superintendent and minus two high school teachers.

lar energy should be expended now.

If the House at Harrisburg approves the resolution, which probably will be acted on tomorrow, the Senate will be asked to concur. With the approval of both branches, the resolution will be sent to Washington as an evidence of sentiment in Pennsylvania.

TEXT OF RESOLUTION

The resolution says:

"The period of economic depression now reigning throughout the United States, which has brought unemployment to millions, stopped the wheels of industry, closed countless banks and arrested the operation of transportation facilities, is as great a menace to the happiness and safety of our countrymen as war.

"It has brought poverty and want, banditry and homicide, death and destruction, and has left in its wake a staggering sum of human suffering and sorrow.

"When plunged into the gigantic conflict to stop war, less than a score of years ago the national government raised huge sums of money by bond issues, and the money so obtained was spent without stint to bring to a speedy close the cataclysm that threatened the destruction of civilization.

"The threat to civilization now existing is no less real than it was in 1917, and the need to raise and spend money to bring back prosperity and insure safety and happiness to our people is now as vital and necessary as it was then.

"A duty devolves upon the national government to recognize this emergency and to mobilize the nation's resources to combat this tangible menace to the security of our homes and the freedom and happiness of our people.

POWER WITH CONGRESS

"Congress has the power to appropriate moneys for an emergency of this character. The federal government has the power to initiate a huge program of public works, which will require the employment of labor throughout the country.

"With money thus appropriated put into circulation, the mines and factories will resume operation, the railroads will carry their products to the stores, the stores will increase their stock in trade, and the people will buy as they will have money to buy, and the cycle which is necessary to prosperity will be completed.

"The field for public improvement, upon which labor can be profitably employed, is vast, including public buildings, highways, waterways, reforestation, flood control and water and power conservation, covering every part and section of the nation; and when this money is spent there will be left to the nation as full value for the expenditures the completed projects."

ACTION URGED

"Therefore be it resolved (if the Senate concur), that the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania respectfully urges upon the Congress of the United States the wisdom and necessity of immediately appropriating five billion dollars to be used and expended upon public work, and to be raised by the issue and sale of prosperity bonds, and be it further

"Resolved, that a copy of this resolution be forwarded by the Secretary of the Commonwealth to each member of the House of Representatives of the United States from Pennsylvania, and to each of the two United States Senators from Pennsylvania, to the president of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States, to the President of the United States, and to the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States."

30 Girls Lack Nickel to Call Firemen

BALTIMORE, Nov. 16.—(INS.)—The boy who stood on the burning deck had a sister.

When fire started in the senior dormitory of Goucher College early today one of the girls rushed to a pay station phone to call the fire department. She had no nickel.

Neither did the other 29 girls who reside there.

So the girls fought the blaze with pillows until firemen were notified. None was injured.

An electric iron caused the blaze.

PARLEY ON RAIL LABOR SET

CLEVELAND, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—The Railway Labor Executives Association, representing 24 railroad labor organizations, will meet with a committee of nine railroad presidents, headed by Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio, in New York Thursday, D. B. Robertson, chairman of the association, announced here.

Robertson said he received a reply from Willard accepting the invitation for a joint meeting to discuss relief of unemployment, shorter working days and other subjects the railroad presidents might desire.

The labor association has been called to convene in New York Thursday morning for the conference, said Robertson, who is president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.

POWERS VENUE RULE HELD UP

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Nov. 16.—(INS.)—Claiming it was impossible for his client to get a fair trial in Harrison County, J. Edgar Law, counsel for Harry F. Powers, alleged "Bluebeard slayer," today filed a motion for a change of venue in the courtroom of Judge John C. Southern here.

State's Attorney Will E. Morris objected to presentation of argument on the motion and told the court the plea for change of venue should be accompanied by affidavits and depositions. Judge Southern took the matter under advisement and said he will announce his decision some time this week.

Powers, who was brought from the county jail to the courthouse to be present at the proceedings, seemed thoroughly frightened as he entered the building. There was no demonstration, however, as Powers' appearance was unexpected and brief.

Anna Case Concert Aids Jobless Fund

ROSLYN, N. Y., Nov. 16.—(INS.)—Anna Case, former opera star and now the wife of Clarence H. Mackay, gave a concert in the auditorium of the high school here Saturday night for the benefit of the community unemployment relief fund. The auditorium was crowded, and more than $2,000 was realized from the sale of tickets. Miss Case appeared to have recovered completely from injuries received in an automobile accident last Monday.

ye olde tyme grocerie store

where foods were sold in bulk

the "good old days"—when they weighed out the sugar . . . and measured the beans

the oil lamp cast shadows over cob-webbed beams

Zeke and Hezekiah rested weary bones on boxes and barrels . . . near the cannonball stove

Fido the dog and Felix the mouse played and cavorted and romped about and all this time Tommy, the cat, kept guard on the crackers while he took a light nap

Buying in bulk was the thing in those days —they're gone forever—we have better ways

the world's finest food store---

we sell foods the modern way

The lengthened span of life of the American people is largely due to the modern, greatly-improved methods of packing food products — the clean, sanitary, dust-proof and germ-proof packages against the unclean, unsanitary, dust-collecting and germ-inviting open-box and open-barrel methods of days that are gone. "What you eat makes you what you are."

Compare the prices of these package foods with the price of foods sold in bulk . . . but above all — compare the QUALITY!

UNEEDA BISCUIT—the 5c package— 3 pkgs. for 12c
—about the first food to "go package." Folks didn't enjoy chasing the rat off the cracker barrel. Uneeda Biscuits are always crisp, fresh, tasty

FRANKLIN SUGAR—finest granulated— 5-pound carton 27c
—you take no chances of having sand mixed with your sugar as in "the good old days." FRANKLIN is the best sugar—you KNOW what you get.

MORTON'S SALT—plain or iodized— 2 pkgs. for 15c
—"when it rains it pours"—never cakes or hardens—in "the good old days" you had to pound salt with a hammer to pour it. 10c size.....

DURKEE'S PEPPER—saves many sneezes— 2 pkgs. for 15c
—what a nuisance it was to buy pepper in bulk in "the good old days." When you buy Durkee's you get real pepper—the regular 10c size.....

HERSHEY'S COCOA— 2 ½-lb. tins 23c
—in "the good old days" they sold corona out of the open barrel with its affinity for all the dust of the neighborhood—Hershey's is packed in tins.

QUAKER BRAND BARLEY— 2 1-lb. pkgs. 19c
—when folks bought barley out of burlap bags they got lint and dust free with the barley—QUAKER Brand Barley in packages is clean.....

HEINZ MUSTARD— 2 jars for 17c
—Yes, they really sold mustard out of barrels in "the good old days"—what a contrast to the attractive clean jars of HEINZ Mustard.....

MOTHER'S OATS—crushed or quick— 19c
—no dust, no dirt, just good, clean oats—3-pound 7-ounce package.....

BUCKEYE Pure Gold Cornmeal— 5-lb. bag 14c —KNOWN for its quality—priced lower than ordinary kind in bulk.....

SUNSWEET California Prunes— 2 2-lb. pkgs. 29c
—four pounds of these fine prunes in 2 dustproof packages.....

GOLDEN HARVEST Lima Beans— 2 12-oz. pkgs. 19c
—clean and good to the very last bean—special.....

Green or Yellow Split Peas— 3 12-oz. pkgs. 25c
—the GOLDEN HARVEST brand—extra quality, very special.....

RIVER Brand Rice—it's uncoated— 2 2-lb. pkgs. 29c
—fancy grade, excellent recipes on each sealed package.....

SUNMAID Raisins—seedless or puffed— 2 pkgs. for 19c
—clean, ready to use—15-oz. packages—last year 2 for 29c.....

HENKEL'S self-rising pancake flour— 3 pkgs. for 25c
—pancakes are easy to make, quick to bake with Henkel's.....

PILLSBURY'S BEST whole wheat flour— 5-lb. bag 17c
—the name that means QUALITY on every bag—special.....

PILLSBURY'S BEST white flour— 5-lb. bag 17c
—the "balanced" flour that makes baking easier, special.....

A Discovery and a Sale!

Out Pattern business recently disclosed two significant facts: (1) that home sewing is on the increase; (2) that misses' sizes and styles lead women's and children's patterns. This discovery, with our large piece-goods department, was like the smell of smoke to an old fire horse. Knowing the miracles possible right now in the silk and woolen markets, with ready cash, we went to work to do something big and stirring to encourage home dressmaking. Here it is!

If you like to sew—to make things for yourself, your children, or others, here is surely an incentive to put spare time to pleasant and profitable use—4 to 5 yards make a coat or dress—so it is easy to figure the small cost of some new clothes. The lovely materials will provide plenty of inspiration. We have had to take extra space in both the Silk and Woolen Goods Sections to show them all.

. . . Horne's, Main Floor . . .

The modern, simplified patterns make dressmaking easy. You need only to follow the dotted lines and printed instructions to achieve the latest styles and becoming effects shown in the pattern books. Our complete pattern services, which include Butterick, McCall, Paris, Pictorial Review, Style, and Vogue, and their helpful advisors, are here to assist you.

WE NOW PRESENT

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor

Darrell V. Martin

A STUDIO SPACIOUS enough to accommodate a three-ring circus is planned by NBC for its new quarters in Radio City, New York. Ground was broken Saturday for the building, which will have 70 studios, and how they were!

Welcome Lewis, object of Burt McMutrie's affection at CBS, is known about the studios as "Babe."

We suppose all you DX'ers are sorry to learn that India has closed its radio stations due to the depression.

Count the Melody Budgeteers WJAS high up on the list when naming local programs that rate "network."

Hildegarde Loomis Faith and Tom Slattery are to be reincarnated for sustaining on NBC starting Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Rudolph Werrenrath's National Singers Society opens its winter season on NBC-WCAE on Sunday, November 29 at 10:15 with a dramatization of "The Highwayman."

Trade and Mark, the cough boys, have switched from NBC to Columbia . . . a novel feature of it is to be music constantly from the time the broadcast begins until it ends . . . inaugural Saturday night, November 28 at 9:30.

When Ted Husing assisted at the West Point-Navy Game broadcast through the Salvation Army program and the boys themselves assembled to the pronouncing at the military ball the fact that Husing's Jack Hollister that Husing prefers the short a.

The Gloom Chasers have gone vaudeville . . . Leo O'Rourke, pianist and organizer of The Cavaliers Quartet, is leaving the group he founded in 1926 to devote more time to solo work.

Grandi, Italian Foreign Minister, is to speak on NBC Thursday night at 6:30.

Tuning in the magician messages WTIC air waves at 10:45 tonight . . . Ben Bernie on WABC at midnight as usual.

Question a Day:

Answer—Thirty actors and musicians take part in "Myrt and Marge." It is one of the costliest productions on the air.

Studio Lights:

Poor Alice Hamilton will wasn't given even honorable mention by the Good Radio Dictionaries received a fan letter recently addressed to "Ice Vanilla." well we know lots of listeners who like vanilla.

If you're not exactly certain about your etiquet, keep Posted with Emily on NBC-WJZ starting next Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Congratulations to H. J. Brennan, the staff of WJAS, Nick Tosh, Jim Murray, H. J. McGrath and all those connected with the military ball broadcast a bouquet also for Ted Husing's description of Pitt's triumph over Army . . . Ted who predicted a 13-13 tie between these

Today's Tid-Bit:

Ed Harvey, KDKA production manager, hunted a month and a day for something that would sound like the opening and closing of a massive door, such as used in medieval castles. At last he found it—a rusted hinge rescued from the debris in a downtown excavation. He had the station carpenter fit it to a small door in the studio—the squeaking, the grating and jarring—all were there. Came time for the broadcast and Harvey gave his "sound pet" its last test. The door was slowly opened but there was no squeak. Again and no sound. Some kind and enterprising soul had oiled up the "high-class squeak" during Harvey's absence.

The Loudspeaker

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Busiest people in all the land are those who operate the broadcast mills. Ceaseless activity this moaning of singers and howlers of comedians and orators and what Don Marquis used to call a little group of serious thinkers. Only the group isn't little any longer.

Radio has expanded it into a vast and imposing army, and its members are heard all day long and frequently far into the night.

Of course it is so much easier to be serious than funny. Genuine fun is rare on the microphones, and usually it comes from people who ordinarily are not considered funny. Celebrated comics are invariably a melancholy lot on the loudspeakers. Not that they intend to be, but the gags on which they rely for their livelihood prove so often duds upon the ether.

Right now the airing of serious speeches on the radio has become general throughout the world. It extends all the way from Northampton, Mass., to Hollywood and back to—what is that pretentious and official address in London?—oh, yes, No. 10 Downing street. Everybody's so serious on the air. And it's time we had a laugh.

Here is Coolidge, repulsed when he lived in Washington for dry sly comments on mice and men, now a solemn propagandist on the air for life insurance. And how America would appreciate some of his dry, sly comments! Here are Pat Harrison and George H. Moses, of stinging wit, inaudible today on the microphones. Here are the government's great all talking, when they talk at all, lugubriously. Here is Will Rogers silenced save on special occasions. Here is Alexander Woollcott airing nowheres save the theater his attitudes and beatitudes.

There is some excuse for Hoover and MacDonald being more serious than probably is their real nature. They have worries enough to make them the most serious of men. But save for Shaw everybody on the radio has apparently lost his sense of humor. He alone refuses to cry into his ale. And radio needs today in its voices and viewpoints a sense of humor, something to take our minds, if only temporarily, off the wolf.

A Harmless Prescription, but it ends Constipation!

DON'T you want this way of making the bowels behave? A doctor's way to make the bowels move so well that you feel better all over! Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin doesn't turn everything to water, but cleans out all that hard waste clogging your system. It cleans you out without any shock, for it's only fresh, laxative herbs a famous doctor found so good for the bowels, combined with pure pepsin and other harmless ingredients.

A doctor should know what is best for the bowels. Let Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin show you how soon you can train the bowels to move freely, every day, the way they should. It's wonderful the way this prescription works, but it's perfectly harmless, so you can use it whenever a coated tongue or sick headache gives warning that you are bilious. Fine for children, too, (it tastes so nice) and they ought to have a spoonful the minute they seem fretful, feverish, or sluggish, or become stuffed-up with a cold.

You can get the original prescription Dr. Caldwell wrote so many years ago; your druggist keeps it all ready in big bottles. Just ask for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and use it any time anyone in the family is constipated.

Says 'Yes'

KATHERINE RENWICK

The petite NBC actress who answered "Yes" to John W. Holbrook, NBC announcer, the day before he was awarded the Gold Medal for Good Radio Diction, today set December 31 as the date for their wedding. Holbrook met Miss Renwick in NBC studios one night while introducing Irene Bordoni. A rapid courtship followed.

A New Way

To Relieve Sour Stomach, Colds, Headache, Gas on Stomach, Neuralgia, Rheumatism and that Tired, "Run-Down" Feeling

Ninety per cent of the people who suffer with these everyday aches and pains are victims of EXCESS ACIDITY. Scientists tell us that to keep healthy, vigorous and energetic, we must keep our bodies slightly more alkaline than acid.

Two serious mistakes are made by most of us in our daily diet which reduce the healthy alkaline balance and cause too much acid in our systems. Right here is where most of our troubles start.

FIRST—we eat too much of the rich, acid-producing food such as meat, fish, bread, eggs, cereals and pastry — and not enough of the alkaline type of foods which are composed mostly of the fruits and vegetables.

SECOND—we often over-eat, over-work, or over-indulge without sufficient exercise. This invariably decreases the alkaline content and increases the acidity of the body. Your resistance goes down—vitality is lowered—and you become a victim to stomach disorders, and the many other aches and pains, so common to us all.

Then you suffer with Indigestion, Sour Stomach, Gas on the Stomach, Headaches, Colds, Neuralgia and Rheumatic pains—you become tired-out, run down, dull and depressed. That's a pretty sure sign you have too much acid in your system. As the alkaline content of the body decreases, these ailments become more distressing. Unless the condition is corrected, unless the excess acid is neutralized—unless the normal alkaline balance is restored, serious and dangerous illness is likely to follow.

Now science has developed a remarkable Effervescent Alkaline Tablet that quickly corrects this excess acid condition. It is a new and better way . . . a safe, harmless way . . . to restore the alkaline balance in your system

This new Effervescent Alkaline tablet is called ALKA-SELTZER. When you drop one of these tablets into a glass of water, it makes a sparkling alkaline drink that neutralizes the excess acid and gives prompt relief from everyday aches and pains.

AT ALL DRUG STORES in TWO SIZES
Large Size $1.00 Small Size 25c

Try a drink of ALKA-SELTZER at any drug store soda fountain

Don't confuse this new Effervescent Alkaline tablet with the ordinary type of remedies. ALKA-SELTZER is a scientific product—a corrective alkaline drink that first relieves the pain and discomfort of everyday ailments and then removes the cause. There is nothing on the market like it—there is nothing equal to it. Each tablet contains the vital alkaline mineral salts your body needs to correct excess acidity. An ALKA-SELTZER tablet in a glass of water gives you a perfect anti-acid drink.

When troubled, with Sour Stomach, Acid Indigestion, Gas on the Stomach, Heartburn, or Flatulency, don't fail to try ALKA-SELTZER and see what amazing relief it gives.

If you are subject to Colds, Headaches, Neuralgia, Neuritis, or Rheumatic Pains, try ALKA-SELTZER and experience the most welcome relief you ever had.

When tired out and run-down from overwork or too strenuous exercise—take ALKA-SELTZER and see how wonderful it is to renew your vigor and banish that "tired feeling." After any over-indulgence in eating or drinking, late hours, rich food, or too much smoking, there is nothing equal to ALKA-SELTZER to overcome that "morning-after" feeling.

Every mother or father who wants to keep the family healthy should keep a package of ALKA-SELTZER in the home. Let every member of the family use it frequently. Remember, it is harmless—and it will keep down excess acid—keep up the alkaline balance so necessary to good health and build up strong resistance to everyday ills and infectious diseases.

Ben Lyon Given Part That Robert Williams Was To Have Played

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 17.

Just as R K O Pathe officials were at their wits' ends, someone suggested Ben Lyon to fill the part left vacant by the tragic death of Robert Williams.

Going into last action, the studio yesterday got Ben's name on a contract and he goes into the production immediately. Since Williams was taken off the company has been shooting scenes in which his character did not appear. The picture now is practically complete except for these sequences.

Of course, you recall that Constance Bennett is the star of the film and that its title is "Lady With a Past."

He asked me not to use his name, but another Hollywood leading man received a hurry call from a studio this week to fill a part left vacant by illness.

Reporting to the director, he was requested to go home, put on a dark suit and shave his moustache. After a few objections he consented and dashed away so he would not hold up the company.

During his absence, someone thought to ask the producer about the substitution. He refused to okay it.

So when the leading man returned he found he not only was out of a moustache, but also out of a job.

PAIR TEAMED AGAIN

After looking at "Under Eighteen," Warner officials have cast Marian March and Warren William together once more in "Church Mouse." Roy Del Ruth and Joe Jackson are now in New York looking at the play which features Bert Lytell and Ruth Gordon. They will return within 10 days to start writing the adaptation and dialogue.

Since John Barrymore picked her for Trilby in "Svengali," Marian Marsh has played in five pictures for Warners. She was elevated to stardom in "Under Eighteen."

IN THE NEWS

Now that Fox has named its decadante stars, it has to do right by them. Linda Watkins, blonde recruit from the stage will have an important role in Charlie Chan's Chance. This is another of the Earl Der Biggers detective stories with Warner Oland again playing the Oriental sleuth.

LATEST GOSSIP

Marlene Dietrich is going to miss Christmas in Berlin, the first time she ever failed to celebrate the holidays at home. Her picture will not be finished until the first week in December, and she has to wait over another two weeks to see if there are any retakes. She's happy to have her daughter with her at least. Alec Francis is expected to be well enough by Monday to finish his part at M G M in "Mata Hari." He recently disappeared after being stricken with amnesia. Jackie Cooper has it in for Paramount. They promised to let him off to see the U. S. C.-Stanford football game, but changed their mind.

Monroe Owsley is out of the sanitarium, and was sufficiently recovered from his nervous breakdown to take a test this week. Stephen Ames, husband of Adrienne Ames, is in Hollywood for a two weeks visit.

Things I Never Knew Till Now

(Warning: They are very uninteresting!)

That you can drive a guy crazy by telling him that no person in England between September 2 and September 14 in 1752 drank, smoked, died or breathed. (The answer being: "There were no days between those dates—due to the switch in the well-known Gregorian calendar.")

That, according to Bob Reinhart, things are tough, all right. Bob says you don't even see the ad: "Contented Cows" anymore.

That the Civil War debt of $1,263,760 still is unpaid.

That Shakespeare also used the modern slang word "frame" like this in Act III—Scene II of "Measure for Measure" (the Duke speaking)—"The maid will I frame and make fit for his attempt."

That counterfeit U. S. coins once were made of platinum!

That the Adlon Garage in town is housing its first airship!

That Eddie Mayne describes that type of guy like this: "He wears a derby hat in September and goes bareheaded in January!"

That from 1900 to 1910 they used to measure the New York City cops for uniforms in Ireland!

That more than 90 per cent of the explosions are caused by stills.

That there's actually a Doctor B. Deady, who is located in the East 50s about a hundred feet from an undertaker!

That the most self-conscious person in the world today, take it from Alf Friedman, is a Tammany leader speaking to a travel agent.

That Parnell, the Irish patriot, according to E. P. Golos, believed that the green carpet in his room made his throat sore. He sent a sample to London for an analysis!

That Balzac believed in fortune-tellers. He was more inclined to listen to the mutterings of a mystic than a doctor.

That things are so tough (credit Sid Parry) that even the birds (hehehgh!) can't go South this year!!

That a nickel is so big today that if good old George Washington were alive he could toss it across the Potomac!

That a brick house is warmer than one of granite.

That Georgia motor truck owners must buy Ohio state licenses when traveling through that state—Maryland trucks needn't.

That Napoleon once said: "Four hostile newspapers are more to be feared than a thousand bayonets!" (Boo!)

That while Fred Kosalka's sister has two brothers, Fred only has one! (Look, look—you can't figure it out in a jiffy!)

That excluding the Bible, "Pilgrim's Progress" has been translated into more languages and has had more editions than any book.

That your skull has 22 bones, you big bonehead!

That Paul Revere, the well-known waker-upper, was an excellent silversmith, and a pip of a rider, but he practiced dentistry for a living, what with heroes being so underpaid, and all that sorta-thing.

That in the Arctic during winter they use an ax instead of a knife to chip butter and meat. (Now run along and don't ask me where they get the butter! I'm stuck!)

That Eskimo women of Northwest Territories only scold their husbands, but an Indian woman will burn his possessions or murder him (says Art Bossin) to let him know she's sore about something.

That Herb Hoover and the Vice Prez must not ride in the same car or train together. It is feared that something might happen—thus making the Sec'y of State the Big Head. And the sec might not be the choice of the people. (What! Getting a break at last?)

That Cornelius Vanderbilt began as a farmer and P. T. Barnum was a bartender in Niblo's Theater, New York.

And that, if you want to argue about it—you might say that Broadway is Just a Bowl of Cherries—with worms in them!

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Tonight, in the Alvin, Helen Hayes will be seen in Ferenc Molnar's new comedy, "The Good Fairy," second play of the Professional Players' series.

The Thanksgiving week attraction in the Alvin, opening next Monday, will feature the lad who made mammy famous, Al Jolson. He brings his most recent New York vehicle, "The Wonder Bar." Claire Windsor, erstwhile of the movies, will be among Al's support, Thursday will be seat day.

Small Timer says the quarrel also ranks among things that are easy pickings but not so soft when you get one.

"Tomorrow and Tomorrow" comes to the Nixon tonight as the second Theater Guild offering of the season. Zita Joahnn and Glenn Anders' names head the cast.

Nixon audiences next week will—or should—give thanks that Clifton Webb, Libby Holman and Fred Allen are the reason for naming the Nix holiday production "Three's a Crowd." It's labeled "a gay musical revue." Seats at the b. o. by Thursday.

Small Timer says it is a sad sight to see a woman burst into tears—if you don't know the woman.

Sound pictures of the Pitt-Army game will be shown in the Stanley and Warner theaters all this week. Irene Branklin has been signed to appear in "Star Dust," new production by E. Ray Goetz. . . Vivian and Rosetta Duncan are preparing to revive "Topsy and Eva" in Los Angeles. . . Alexander Woollcott, critic who became actor in "Brief Moment," starring Francine Larrimore, has received two canes from David Belasco's collection of theatrical curios.

Small Timer says the hungry look probably is a response to a message from the stomach teeth.

Local Boy?

Joe E. Brown, the man with the big grin, comes to the Stanley Thursday in his newest picture, "Local Boy makes Good."

Former Headmaster Of Rugby Dies at 87

LONDON, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—Dr. H. A. James, 87, noted British educator, for 22 years president of St. John's College, Oxford, and former headmaster of Rugby and other schools, died yesterday.

KEEPS little AILMENTS from growing into BIG ONES!

It may be just a coated tongue tonight . . . with dull eyes, bad color and breath. But by these symptoms Nature is telling you that you may have a sick child tomorrow.

Help tonight is simple. Tomorrow it may be harder. A single simple dose of Castoria is usually all that's needed to bring relief; it often keeps a serious illness from developing.

Castoria, you know, is the children's own remedy—made specially to give the gentle help their delicate organs must have. It is a pure vegetable preparation; contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics.

In any starting illness such as a cold, a little fever, a food upset, a first-aid dose of Castoria is always a wise precaution.

It's never hard to get children to take Castoria. They love its taste, and are grateful for the relief it always brings to tied-up systems.

For babies or for older children, depend on Castoria's gentle regulation. It has kept many a little ailment from growing into a serious one! Genuine Castoria always has the name Chas. H. Fletcher on the package.

HOOVER'S FOES BOOM JOHNSON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—Will Hiram W. Johnson seek the Republican presidential nomination against Herbert Hoover?

He will be asked to, when he gets here this week or next, by some of the Western Independents in Congress who are down on a number of the major policies of the present Chief Executive. The party leaders are hopeful that he will clear up his intended part in the 1932 race.

Senator Brookhart, of Iowa, is a chief mover in a boom for his California colleague; he has asserted that not only Independents but "many of the Regulars" would join him if Johnson placed his hat in the ring.

The question was fanned up to energetic interest by Senator Johnson himself when he recently attacked the Hoover administration upon its relations with the League of Nations in the dispute between China and Japan. He called for a ballot box repudiation of the Hoover policy.

PLANE EXPRESS SERVICE GROWS

The first interline air express to be effected in this country went into operation today, according to H. S. Martin, of Pittsburgh, president of the Pennsylvania Airlines, Inc., together with R. W. Robbins, president of the Transcontinental and Western Air, and W. A. Letson, president of the United States Airways. By this new interline arrangement shipments may be sent on one waybill at a through rate between any of the cities served by the T. & W. A., linking practically all large cities. Store-door pickup and delivery service will be effected by the Postal Telegraph Company.

Through this new arrangement Pennsylvania Airlines and United States Airways will handle through air express shipments to and from connecting points on the entire system of T. & W. A. lines.

Homestead Church Holds Mission Rally

The Rev. Dr. O. H. Sisson, of the First Baptist Church of Wilkinsburg, was the principal speaker at the "Men and Missions" rally in the First Methodist Episcopal Church of Homestead. The event also marked the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the Laymen's Missionary Movement. C. M. Johnstone, of the First United Presbyterian Church of Homestead, presided at the meeting.

Pitt Campus Covers Wide Territory

The University of Pittsburgh has discovered that its campus extends 150 miles north, 75 miles south, 65 miles east and 60 miles southwest. The extension department has, among more than 40 others, schools in Erie, Johnstown, Uniontown and Wheeling. More than 4,000 students are enrolled in extension courses.

C. VAN NESS LEAVITT

New picture shows Mr. Leavitt, brother-in-law of President Hoover, arrested in Santa Monica, Cal., on charge of possessing intoxicating liquor, lounging at home in smoking jacket, apparently unworried by arrest.

DELAY GRANTED HOOVER'S KIN

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Nov. 16—(INS.)—C. Van Ness Leavitt, brother-in-law of President Hoover, and C. R. Dailey, grocer, were arraigned today before Judge C. A. M. Spencer here and obtained continuance of their trials on charges of violating the liquor laws.

Leavitt's trial was set for 9 a. m., November 24, without jury, and Dailey will have a jury trial on December 7.

The two men were arrested last week when federal agents said they found Leavitt emerging from Dailey's store with a sack containing 19 pints of liquor.

Leavitt denied the charge of possession.

WOMAN SLAIN, PROBE HINTS

MEDIA, Pa., Nov. 16.—(INS.)—Further mystery was added today to the finding of the body of a woman, expensively clad, near Newton Square on the grounds of the Garrett Williamson Lodge last week, when Delaware County officials expressed the belief the woman had met with foul play.

An analysis of the contents of a small vial, half-filled, found near the body, revealed it contained insulin, a drug administered hypodermically by sufferers from diabetes, according to County Coroner J. Evans Scheible.

At first it was believed the fluid was a poison, but after the Coroner's report and further examination of the body authorities expressed the belief the woman had been murdered.

Meanwhile, from New York District Attorney F. X. Geoghan, of Brooklyn, sent word he was interested in the mystery, because of the possibility the woman may have been Eugenie Cederholm, missing Brooklyn heiress.

Boy Shoots Friend In Hunting Accident

Fifteen-year-old Elmer Tibi, of 2122 Charles street, is recovering in Presbyterian Hospital today from a bullet wound, inflicted accidentally by his companion, Albert Corbett, of 1204 Success street, while they were hunting on a farm near Evans City.

The boys had gone on a week-end hunting trip to the farm which is owned by Corbett's father. Yesterday, as they were examining traps they had set the day before, Corbett's small rifle was accidentally discharged, the bullet entering Tibi's left knee.

$875 Kicked Around For Hours Recovered

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Nov. 16.—Kicked around by Saturday shoppers in a grocery, a package containing $875 was found many hours later on a shelf of the store, where the manager had placed it after picking it from the floor. The money was the property of Mrs. Jennie Shaneyfelter, a widow, and represented her savings of years.

Earthquake Rocks Central Finland

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—An earthquake which lasted 15 seconds but did no damage was felt today in Central Finland.

30 FACE AUTO SPEED CHARGES

Thirty motorists arrested by two state highway patrolmen for reckless driving on the Perry Highway near Wexford and Warrendale, yesterday, will have to appear before justices of the peace in that section within 10 days. Corp. C. L. Stein and Pvt. J. M. Burnsworth issued summonses to the drivers. Officer Stein said:

"This was not a drive. We were investigating an accident on the Perry Highway where five people were injured in a head on collision. Motorists passed us both ways traveling 50 and 60 miles an hour. The road was slippery. We were forced to act."

Advertising Club To Hear Mayer

F. D. Mayer, president and director of the Merchandising Institute of America, will address the Pittsburgh Advertising Club tomorrow at its weekly luncheon in the William Penn Hotel. Mr. Mayer, a nationally-known sales and advertising counsellor, will speak on "White Elephants in Business." He has originated several new methods of merchandising.

New Traffic Signal Regulation Stressed

The Pittsburgh Motor Club today called attention of officials in cities and boroughs in Allegheny County to a regulation demanding a uniform type of stop-go traffic signals in Pennsylvania after January 1. Beginning in 1932 all electrically operated traffic signals must be of the three-color variety. In horizontal installations the red must be at the left, amber in the center and green at the right side.

8 Arrested in Clash Of Union Factions

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—Eight men and a woman, fur workers, representing right and left wing union factions, were arrested today at Seventh avenue and Thirtieth street after a 15-minute fight in which sticks, sawed-off billiard cues and at least one knife were used.

Never before have bargains been bigger or better!

It pays to shop these days for the things you have always wanted and felt perhaps you could not afford. For reductions are drastic, and one can actually save more by spending wisely than hoarding unwisely.

For the day is not far away when conditions will get back to normal again, and then you will not have the chance to buy the things you want at the price you wish to pay as you can now.

One has only to browse around where the great sales are going on to see the delight and joy of bargain hunters who happily can and are taking advantage of what these days are offered at such attractive inducements to buy.

HEART OF A WIFE

Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

The wave of thankfulness that went over me at the sound of Dicky's voice demanding admittance at the locked door of the Tiger kitchen was almost my undoing. It seemed to me that the fictitious strength which had kept me up during my terrifying interview with the Chinese who had demanded the rice paper letter deserted me completely at the assurance that I was safe and that aid in dealing with the Chinese was at hand. But I knew that I must not fail to watch the regular appearance of the passing cornstalks which I had demanded that the Chinese fugitive should show and with my eyes steadily fixed upon the recurring lifting and lowering of those stalks, I raised my voice and called unsteadily:

"Dicky! Please come around to the front. Quick!"

I heard a smothered exclamation and almost at once he came racing around to the front of the house, stopping short at the sight of me standing in the shattered window.

"What the ——" he began angrily, but there was fierce protecting anxiety in the anger, and I thrilled to it no less than to the anxious inquiry which he next voiced.

"Are you all right?"

"Perfectly," I answered faintly, as Lillian, my father and Mr. and Mrs. Tiger rushed around the corner of the house. Then I cried out in swift terror:

"Why are you all here? Who is with the children?"

"They are all right," my father's voice said. "safe upstairs with Mrs. Bickett and Richard's mother. Jim and Katie are downstairs, and I called in one of the men to patrol the yard. You need have no fear. But what is all this? Has anyone?"

"Je-hos-o-phat!" Mr. Tiger's eyes were bulging as he spied the rope ladder. "Then you didn't dream the Chinese after all."

"Madge! Margaret!" Dicky's exclamation and my father's were simultaneous, and then Dicky rushed on: "Do you mean there was a Chinese here threatening you? Mrs. Tiger simply said Mr. Tiger had seen one. And what are you looking at?"

"At the cornstalks," I said faintly. "Look! One of you must keep looking until he has crossed the field. I told him he must lift the cornstalks and wave them all the way across, so I would know where he was. Somebody must keep looking."

"Steady, Girl!" Lillian's voice was a clarion call to my faintness of body and spirit. "Only a few seconds longer now. Mr. Tiger! Here! Can you see those cornstalks lifting and falling?"

"Yep! Sure!" My neighbor's voice was wildly excited. "Say! that's one rip of an idea. But what's the idea of letting him get away?"

"We'll find that out later," Lillian said sharply. "Mrs. Graham had some good reason, you may depend upon it. But can you watch those stalks until he has reached the other end, and not take your eyes from them?"

"You bet your boots!" Sam Tiger rolled his "chaw" to the other cheek and folded his arms. "I'll not take my eyes often him."

"Then, Madge, dear," Lillian said softly, "unlock the front door and let us in."

I never have exercised more will power than I did in holding myself erect as I laid down my tiny pistol, made my way to the front door but a few steps from me, and unlocked it. They all except Mr. Tiger, were crowding up the steps but Dicky was in the van, and it was into his arms that I fell as consciousness slipped away from me.

My swoon, if indeed it could be dignified by so important a name, was of short duration, and I came back to consciousness as if borne upon the waves of Lillian's impatient voice.

"I tell you, Dicky, it's all right. She's coming 'round. Stop your fuming. She's had excitement enough."

"But, what was she doing down here? I thought she went on an errand to Southampton for you. Look here!" with sudden suspicion in his voice, "Was this your errand? Did you and she know this—you're always settling things yourselves without calling any aid—"

"From drate, beeg, strong men, I suppose," Lillian gibed.

"Has he has he—gone?" I asked faintly, looking up at Dicky.

"Yes darling he's gone. Don't talk," my husband said, with his hand over mine. Then with true masculine inconsistency, he demanded:

"What brought you down here, anyway?"

Household Hints

Oily skin will take on a dull finish under the influence of soapy scrubbings, ice rubs and frequent laving with witch hazel. Cut out fatty foods and rich pastries.

When glasses have been placed inside each other and refuse to be separated, put cold water in the inner glass and hold the outer one in warm water. They will soon part company.

A copper wash boiler, while expensive, lasts much longer and gives better service than any other boiler. If you cannot afford a copper boiler, a tin boiler with a copper bottom is better than one made wholly of tin.

When mending wallpaper, never cut a regular patch, but tear off a sufficiently large piece and paste it over the place, carefully matching the pattern. This patch will show far less than if the edges were cut square.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beekman

Engagement Announcement

Dear Mrs. Beekman:

Must an engagement be announced, or is it also proper to accept an engagement ring, wear it at once and just tell your friends about it when you see them? That is what I did, as we are not to be married for a year or more. I've wondered since if I did the correct thing.

However, it is too late for an engagement announcement party now, as most of my friends know about it. But would it be proper for me to have a party a short time before my marriage and announce my marriage date to my friends? Even if I do not intend to have a wedding to which anyone except our immediate families would be invited? B.

In excellent form you were to wear your engagement ring when you wished this symbol to be the announcement of your engagement, and to tell the good news quite informally to your close friends. Banish from your mind the thought that you did not do the correct thing, dear girl.

If you wish to have the party that you speak of announcing the date of your marriage, it would be quite all right to have it, but of course it isn't at all necessary.

Since you are to have such a small wedding, I suggest that it might be a charming thing for you to wait until after you are married and then give a housewarming in your new home for your friends.

After the Wedding

Dear Mrs. Beekman:

Will you kindly tell me, following a simple church wedding to which all the church people are invited, if the bride and groom should remain at the church to receive congratulations and good wishes, or should they leave immediately during the organ recessional for the home of the bride's parents where a reception is to be held, the relatives only being guests?

E. C.

The bridal pair should leave the church at once, after the recessional, and in the first motor car, they can so that they will arrive at the bride's home in time to get into the reception line to receive the first guests as they arrive.

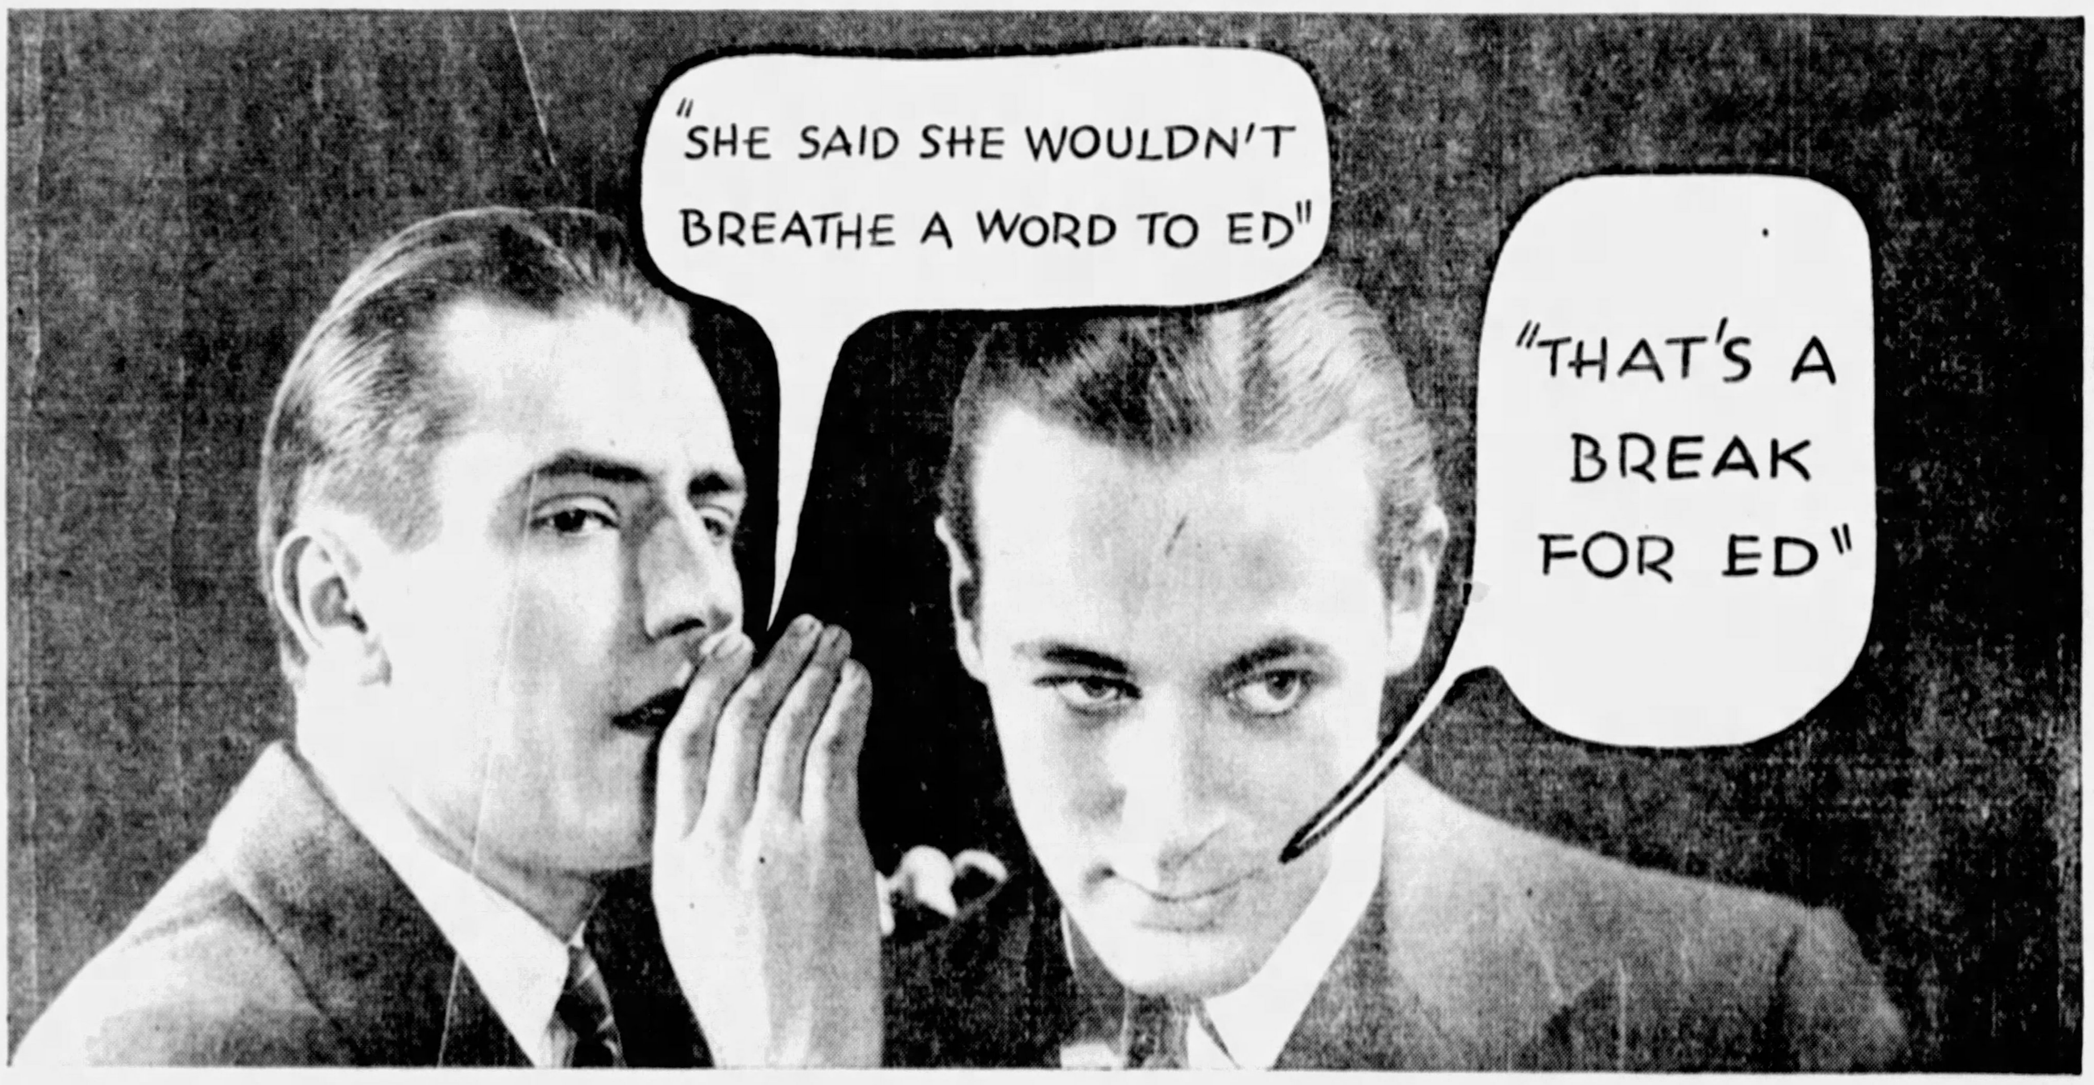
The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

One way to ditch excess hippage is to buy a rowing machine. It is a clever contrivance, folds up and tucks away in a suitcase. If you don't care for rowing on land, get down on the floor and pedal. Or lie on the back and move the legs as if pedaling a bicycle. Or stand on hind legs and kick like everything. All these exercises shake off fat cells.

Considering how many arms and legs are broken through skidding when getting in or out of the bath tub, it would seem that every household should invest in a rubber bath mat. They come in attractive colors. The better grade ones are equipped with suction cups which anchor them, act as an insurance against accidents.



Millions gargle night and day as bad breath still stays bad*

To check bad breath you must kill germs . . . Most mouth antiseptics can't kill germs when diluted . . . Pepsodent Antiseptic kills germs in 10 seconds when mixed with 2 parts of water . . . That's why it checks bad breath 1 to 2 hours longer.

IT'S not because they don't gargle—it's not because they don't fight it that millions have bad breath. It's because 3 out of 4 add water to their antiseptics and most old-style mouth antiseptics cannot kill germs when diluted. Pepsodent Antiseptic can. And it is safe. It is sure. It is pleasant. It is 3 to 11 times more powerful.

SAFE yet powerful

Here is the startling news in this new discovery. You can mix Pepsodent Antiseptic with 2 parts of water, to suit your taste, and it still kills germs in less than 10 seconds. That's where most other leading mouth antiseptics fail. Yet in spite of all its power, Pepsodent Antiseptic is utterly safe when used full strength! What a weapon it is in fighting bad breath!

New security against bad breath (Halitosis)

Pepsodent Antiseptic checks bad breath due to unhygienic mouth conditions 1 to 2 hours longer! Immediately after use, 95% of germs on mouth surfaces are destroyed. Two hours later the number of germs is still reduced by 80%.

That is far longer acting than other leading mouth antiseptics. And remember—when you use Pepsodent Antiseptic to check bad breath you are doing double duty by also fighting colds.

$3 worth for $1—regardless of size

To kill germs—most mouth antiseptics must be used full strength. So to mix them with water is a waste of money. Contrariwise, Pepsodent Antiseptic can be mixed with twice its own volume of water. Thus Pepsodent Antiseptic goes 3 times as far—saves you $2 for every $1 you spend.

Pepsodent Antiseptic comes in 3 sizes: 3 ounces for 25 cents—7 ounces for 50 cents—16 ounces for $1. The larger the size, the more for your money.

Checking bad breath and combating colds are only two uses for this remarkable antiseptic. There are scores of other uses. Some are listed on this page.

Learn to rely on Pepsodent Antiseptic whenever a safe, effective germ-killing agent is required. Keep it in the home. Take it with you when you travel.

Again we say: Quit being good to germs. They've laughed at you long enough. Play safe. Buy an antiseptic that really kills germs when diluted. Remember: You can fool yourself but you can't fool bad breath.

SORE THROAT · COLDS

Pepsodent Antiseptic does double duty when fighting bad breath. For at the same time it combats colds and throat irritations. Remember P. A. is 3 to 11 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics . . . and it kills germs when diluted.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Adding Solids to Baby's Diet After Sixth Month

FEEDING BABY
This is the last of a series of eight articles on Infant Feeding by Dr. Royal S. Copeland. In this series Dr. Copeland discussed every phase of this important problem, and the articles are recommended as a comprehensive, authoritative source of information.

Dr. Copeland

In previous articles relating to infant feeding I have suggested schedules which are adapted to the first four months of life. Today I wish to speak about an older child. To begin with, we will consider the needs of an infant in the fifth and sixth months of life.

If you have read the preceding articles you will recall that the first feeding in the morning is at 6 o'clock. The second feeding comes at 10. The baby is old enough now to be given a little solid food. Before it is given the breast or bottle at this hour, a cooked cereal will add to its happiness. After the cereal is taken, the usual feeding follows.

The preparation of the cereal is a matter of importance. It should be thoroughly cooked, for at least an hour and even two hours. At first the mixture should be very thin, but it may be thickened gradually, until the baby is taught to take the cereal in semi-solid form.

It may be regarded as somewhat new and novel to suggest feeding the baby from a spoon. But it will soon learn to swallow the cereal and will enjoy it. This training serves another purpose, too, in that it prepares for the time when weaning will take place.

Patience and perseverance are needed to teach the eating of the cereal. A tactful mother will find a way to have it swallowed.

There is much choice in the cereals. Farina oatmeal, as well as other varieties, may be used. I know one mother who has found seven different cereals. She uses a different one every day of the week.

From three to four level tablespoonfuls of the cereal, a quarter of teaspoonful of salt, and a cup of boiling water, about eight ounces, will make about the right proportions. As I said, it must be thoroughly cooked, and it may be well to mix the cereal to a paste with cold water before adding the boiling water.

The first day, give the baby just a little taste of the cereal. Gradually increase the quantity. No sugar is added in serving.

Naturally the mother will ask just how much of the cereal should be given. My reply is to begin with a teaspoonful twice a day, immediately before 10 o'clock and the 6 o'clock feeding. The quantity will be increased gradually. So that after the sixth month the baby will take three or four tablespoonfuls on both occasions.

There is one other suggestion to make regarding the feeding of a child six months old. An addition may be made to the mid-day feeding. Yolk of egg and vegetables mashed through a strainer may be given before the milk.

To begin with, the egg yolk must be fed in a very small quanity, not more than a quarter of a teaspoonful. The amount may be gradually increased until the baby gets an entire yolk every day. The egg must be very soft or thoroughly crushed before giving it to the baby. Not every infant thrives on egg yolk, but you may be sure everything is all right if there are no unpleasant symptoms. It is safe to begin this food in the fifth month.

With the beginning of the sixth month, the vegetables, thoroughly cooked and mashed through a strainer, will add variety to the diet. The mother will begin by giving a teaspoonful, and increasing the quantity until it reaches a tablespoonful at the beginning of the seventh month, two tablespoonfuls at the eighth month, and three at the beginning of the ninth month of age.

There is great choice in the selection of the vegetables, provided they are thoroughly cooked—cooked until soft and carefully sieved. Among these are spinach, fresh asparagus, new peas, fresh, green lima beans, chard, young beet greens, string beans and lettuce. After the baby is a year old, the mother may add well-cooked squash, beets, cauliflower, cabbage and kale. Some time I shall speak more in detail about the preparation of these vegetables.

It is understood that until the baby is 10 months old the feedings recommended for the tiny infant are to be continued according to schedule, with the addition of the cereal, vegetables, and egg yolk. After this age, greater variety in the diet will be permissible.

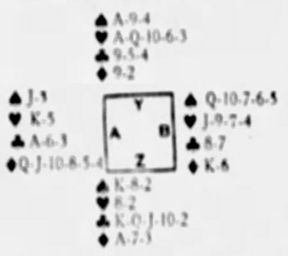
Contract Bridge -:-

OFFICIAL SYSTEM As Adopted by Leading Authorities

By E. V. SHEPARD

Unblocking

Blocking the run of partner's suit may cost game, as it did on the hand shown below.



Contracting went: Z, 1-Club; A, 1-Diamond; Y, 1-Heart; B, Pass; Z, 2-Clubs; A, Pass; Y, 2-Hearts; B, Pass; Z, 2-No Trumps; A, Pass; Y, 3-Clubs; B, Pass; thinking that no-trumps offered a better chance for game than clubs, Z ended bidding with 3-No Trumps.

The opening lead was A's top diamond. Of course B should have overplayed with his useless K, and led back his 6, so that A could clear his suit before leading his only re-entry card (the ace of clubs). Instead of unblocking with his K, B carelessly played his 6; next Y led his lowest card in sequence, the 10, which B had to overtake, effectively blocking his partner's suit; Z allowed B to hold the trick. All that B could do was to lead a club to dummy's weakness, removing A's sole entry card before his diamonds had been established. A led back a diamond, clearing his suit and hoping that some miracle might let him gain the lead. The finesse in hearts worked, giving Z two tricks; he also made two spade tricks, one diamond trick, and four club tricks, a total of nine tricks and game. Instead of having his adversaries win five diamond tricks and one club trick, which would have put him down two tricks.

Both to ease your partner's mind and to avoid blocking his suit, overplay or underplay partner's leads from a strong suit all high cards which can not in any way assist in catching adversely held honors. Overplay partner's K or lower honor with your A, unless needed to catch a guarded honor in dummy. Duck a useless K or other honor under partner's A. In case dummy is very short or is void of partner's suit, be very careful not to overplay or duck beyond what you feel may be required to avoid blocking the suit, because declarer may be quite long in the suit led.

It may be more exciting to read of unusual features, but commonplace rules must become automatic before a player can handle the unusual situations. Automatic mastery of every ordinary bid and play leaves the mind clear to note and concentrate your thought upon every situation appearing to require special attention.

Ruptured Men Get $3.50 Truss Free

Pay No Money, Now or Ever, for This Truss

Kansas City, Mo.—A newer rupture method has been developed by a doctor that is so successful he offers to give a $3.50 truss free if it fails. It does away with leg straps, elastic belts, binding springs and harsh pads. Many have reported their ruptures better. Often in a very short time. Others say they no longer need any support. If you are ruptured you should try it. The doctor offers to send his method on 30 days' trial and will send the $3.50 truss free with it. If the method does not help your rupture return it and keep the $3.50 truss for your trouble. If you are ruptured just write Dr. Kaiser, 1962 Koch Bldg., 2906 Main St., Kansas City, Mo., for his trial offer.

What $16,000 buys in The American Weekly

A full page in color more than twice the size of any other magazine page in the world . . . 5,500,000 families at a cost of less than ⅓ cent per family . . . The attention of the entire family instead of a single buying factor.

IT is the principal function of advertising to sell merchandise at a profit.

Failure to do this, especially in times like these, means the difference between red ink and black for the manufacturer.

A matchless reputation for getting results has made 1931 the fifth consecutive banner year for The American Weekly.

Contrary to the record of most publications, this mighty magazine has chalked up substantial linage gains month after month throughout this so-called depression.

This unique performance is due to the fact that astute advertisers, who insist that their advertising dollars get results in lean times as well as fat, have invested substantially in the advertising pages of The American Weekly.

They have favored this magazine because careful investigation has convinced them that it offers advantages no other publication can duplicate.

Here are some of these outstanding advantages:

Through The American Weekly, the advertiser enters 5,500,000 homes located in the most prosperous buying areas of the nation—double the number that can be reached through any other one publication.

To this vast market he can display and sell his wares on a giant color-page more than twice as large as any other magazine page, all at a cost of less than ⅓ cent per family.

So varied is the editorial appeal of The American Weekly that it interests every member of the family—man, woman and child.

That means the advertising is seen by more than a single individual in every home.

A survey of its circulation shows that it covers the wealth of America like a blanket.

The American Weekly dominates the urban markets by concentrating 70% of its total circulation in 578 of America's 997 towns and cities of 10,000 population and over. (1930 U. S. census figures.)

In each of 152 cities, it reaches one out of every two families
In 108 more cities, 40 to 50% of the families
In an additional 146 cities, 30 to 40%
In another 172 cities, 20 to 30%

. . . and, in addition, more than 1,700,000 families in thousands of other communities, large and small, regularly buy The American Weekly.

Where can you spend your advertising dollar more effectively?

Cock-A-Doodle-Doo

November, 1931, establishes a record in volume of advertising linage and revenue for any November in the history of The American Weekly and adds to the record advertising volume already established for the year 1931.

PEDESTRIAN ROBBED OF $329 IN WEEKEND BANDITRY

TWO MILLION GIVEN WELFARE WORKERS

More Than Third of Goal Reported at Luncheon; Subscriptions Increased

A list of Welfare Fund donors appears on Page 21.

The contributions to the Welfare Fund and the Allegheny County Emergency Association have reached more than $2,000,000, workers reported at today's luncheon. Subscriptions of $149,967.27 reported today swelled the total to $2,034,615.90. The amount still to be raised is $3,846,568.10.

The Sewickley division, with Mrs. Alexander Laughlin as its leader, had charge of today's meeting. The speaker was the Rev. Dr. Owen D. O'Dell, of the Sewickley Presbyterian Church. Joseph Dilworth, general chairman of the campaign, presided.

Among the divisions reporting contributions yesterday was the special division, whose contributions amounted to $45,800. The central division was second with $40,732.88 and the employes' division third with $35,198.43.

Subscriptions reported over the week-end include a 40 per cent increase by Stouffer's, Inc., over their last week's contribution. The Terminal barber shop, William Penn Hotel, will contribute today's receipts, it was announced.

More than $4,000 has been subscribed, to date, by employes of the West Penn system, representing solicitation of 400 of the company's 700 employes. Philadelphia Company employes have subscribed $73,000 as compared with last year's contribution of $14,600, campaign officials said. Nearly 3,000 remain to be solicited. H. J. Heinz Company employes oversubscribed by 90 per cent their last year's total, completing their campaign on the opening day with a total of $11,000.

OPTICIAN HAGEMAN EXHIBITS POINT SOURCE AND KNIFE EDGE TO COLLEAGUES

16,000 Hours Spent In Grinding and Polishing

Final tests for accuracy on the largest astronomical mirror ever manufactured in this country and the third largest in the world, are being completed this week in the Fecker laboratory, 2016 Perrysville avenue, North Side.

The mirror is 69 inches in diameter and 9½ inches thick at the edges, with a concave curvature one inch lower in the center. It weighs nearly two tons and is declared the largest disc of optical glass ever cast and annealed in the United States.

This disc from which the mirror was made was manufactured in the Bureau of Standards, Washington, D. C. The glass was cast there May 4, 1927. More than six months were spent in cooling it, by gradually reduced temperatures. It was taken from the mold and examined in January, 1928, and was brought to Pittsburgh in a pneumatic-tired truck in February.

16,000 HOURS' WORK

Nearly 16,000 hours were spent in figuring, grinding and polishing the glass at the Fecker laboratory by Fred Hageman, chief optician, and a corps of assistants under the personal direction of J. W. Fecker.

Testing of the giant mirror has been conducted in a 50-foot underground tunnel with cork and sawdust insulated walls, by optical methods which make possible the measurement of one millionth of an inch inaccuracy in the surface of the glass. A constant temperature has been maintained because of the extreme delicacy of the testing arrangement.

The mirror will be used at the Perkins Observatory, Ohio Wesleyan University, for photographing faint nebulae and distant systems of stars.

USE SPECIAL TRUCK

The tests were made optically by creating an artificial star, a tiny pin point of light at one end of the 50-foot tunnel.

The annealing is considered superior to that of the 72-inch mirror in use at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory at Victoria, B. C., according to Dr. J. S. Plaskett, director, who participated in the final tests at Fecker laboratory this week.

The mirror will be conveyed to Perkins Observatory encased in a steel cell mounted on a special truck which will drive only in daytime to avoid hazards of jarring the precious glass.

U. S. TO SHRINK IN POPULATION, SAYS PRIEST

Declares Birth Control Will Cut Number by Half in Century; Sees Fewer Jobs

The United States at the end of the next century will have only half as many people living in it, land values will be much lower and employment will be scarcer, according to the Rev. Father Edward Roberts Moore, of New York, author of "The Case Against Birth Control," who spoke today at the Hungry Club luncheon in the Fort Pitt Hotel. Father Moore said:

"The United States is a dying country. The vitality of any population depends on the degree to which mothers of one generation create an equal number of mothers to the next generation. In New York, the Empire State, the present figures show that only 900 in every 1,000 mothers are making this contribution to the survival of the race. Birth control is responsible and it is stimulating the decay of the population."

He quoted Dr. Louis I. Dublin, of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, foremost actuary in America. Father Moore said Dr. Dublin did not hesitate to predict the cutting of the population of the United States nearly in half by the end of the next century.

And when this stage has been reached, according to Father Moore:

"Instead of expansion in our demands for goods and services, there will be contraction. Instead of increased markets there will be dwindling ones. Land values due to the lighter pressure of the population will probably go down and there will be greater demand for jobs and a heavy increase of unemployment."

WILL ROGERS SAYS

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., Nov. 16.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Japan has picked China out an emperor for Manchuria. That's about like Al Capone picking out prohibition enforcement officers for Mr. Hoover. Grandi gets in today. Don't get Grandi mixed up with Gandhi. Gandhi has practically no wardrobe and carries his own goat for milk. Grandi is dressed like a diplomat (including whiskers) and carries his own grape vine. Gandhi went to England to get liberty for his country. Grandi comes to get ?—?—? from Mr. Hoover. Both missions will be equally successful.

Yours, WILL.

Disarmament Robs Navy of Its Best Curios

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

We can't whip ourselves to a froth over scrapping the cruiser Rochester and those other 16 naval curios.

Those apples were at the bottom of the barrel, anyway.

The Rochester was immortalized in soap on barroom mirrors in 1898 when we freed everything in Cuba except its sugar crop.

At that time the Rochester was so old you could strain cranberry sauce through its rivet holes.

Some of the other boats we are sinking are just as venerable. The crews escaped from them in lifeboats three years ago.

It begins to look as if we are outsmarting the League of Nations. After reading the list of scrapped barges you wonder why Secretary Adams didn't include Hobson's Merrimac and Longfellow's Hesperus.

It will give the sailors a rest. They're tired of working the pumps.

2 BARGES SINK IN RIVER CRASH

Crashing in the fog, two empty coal barges sank in the Monongahela River, near Elizabeth, when the steamers William Larimer Jones, owned by the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation, and Edgar Thomson, owned by the Carnegie Steel Company, collided last night. Neither steamer was damaged.

The Edgar Thomson was coming down the river, and the other craft was steaming upstream, each pushing six empty coal barges, when they collided. Crews cut loose the damaged barges, and they sank rapidly. A third barge, slightly damaged, was beached.

'Dry Law a Failure', Minister Declares

Prohibition was described as a failure by the Rev. James E. Wagner, pastor of the Mt. Lebanon Methodist Episcopal Church, last night. He said:

"Prohibition has failed the drys in the sense that it does not entirely prevent the drinking of liquor."

'Last Lines' Jingle in Homes

"Christmas Jingles" are already jingling in the homes, the offices, the factories, on the street cars, in the hospitals—in fact everywhere you go you will find readers of the Sun-Telegraph trying to work out a suitable "last line" for the incomplete jingles that appear in this newspaper.

There's lots of fun in these "Christmas Jingles" and they seem to be doing what the Sun-Telegraph wanted them to do—creating an early Christmas spirit. Try your hand on No. 5 today. If you submit what the judges think is the best of all "last lines" sent in you get a check for $5.00. The five next best "last lines" will each be awarded $1.00.

All readers of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, with the exception of employes, are invited to enter the "Christmas Jingle" contest. You can send in as many last lines as you like. Equal awards will be paid to readers whose answers are tied in the judging. You do not have to buy a Sun-Telegraph to enter this contest. You may examine the files of this newspaper at the public library or at anyone of the offices of the Sun-Telegraph, where you may make a tracing of the "Christmas Jingle" blank if you wish.

Each Sun-Telegraph "Christmas Jingle" will be consecutively numbered.

Police Halt Sunday Grid Game on South Side

A Sunday afternoon football game on Arlington Playgrounds, South Side, was stopped yesterday by Lieut. Earl Means and South Side police. A call came to police just as the game got under way, but radio cars, with orders to arrest the players and their managers, found the field deserted.

Other police precincts reported that no football games were played in their districts. Most of the local amateur teams played Sunday games outside the city limits.

Following a riot that occurred during a Sunday football game at Dean's Field, under the Bloomfield Bridge, two weeks ago, Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh ordered all Sunday games stopped.

Judge Gray, Dr. Shelton Score Kline 'Spoils' Rule

Judge James H. Gray and the Rev. Dr. George W. Shelton, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, turned their guns on Mayor Charles H. Kline last night. Said Judge Gray:

"The present Mayor when he took office announced his allegiance to that outworn principle 'to the victor belongs the spoils.' When he announced that, he announced that he would betray the trust of the people."

Judge Gray was speaking at the evening services. Declaring that some polling places in the controlled wards are the "hangouts of brigands," he urged citizens to vote to put men in the City-County Building who carry out Christian principles.

Dr. Shelton said:

"The time to get ready for the next mayoralty campaign is now. We've been ruled by thieves."

1 DEAD, 15 HURT AUTO TOLL FOR WEEKEND

One Driver Flees After Collision Injuring Five, Four Others Arrested

Two men, a woman and two children were injured early today when two automobiles crashed head-on at the Madison and East street intersection. A 7-year-old child, injured on Saturday night, died late yesterday.

The [illegible] Edward Drexler, 40, of 2612 East street; Harry Tomas, [illegible] of 623 Vista street; Mrs. Mary Vicks, 26, of 4729 Highfield street; [illegible] Baldwin; Katherine [illegible], 8, and Mrs. Vicks [illegible] Sanford Andrew, 30, was [illegible].

Mrs. Vicks, the driver of one of the cars, was arrested, charged with reckless driving. The driver of the other car in which Drexler and Tomas were riding, disappeared after the accident. Police are searching for him.

The injured were removed to Allegheny General Hospital. With the exception of Tomas, all were able to return to their homes. Both cars were badly damaged.

BOY'S INJURIES FATAL

Injuries received when he ran into the rear of an automobile while chasing a football near his home, resulted in the death of Charles Dautovich, 7, of Clearfield street, Springdale, last night, according to police. William Carrigan, 23, of Garfield street, Springdale, driver of the machine, was to appear at the Coroner's office today to post pone for an inquest.

Frances Dugan, 7, of Box 86, Floriffe, and her sister Helen, 15, were injured yesterday when an automobile driven by their father, Michael Dugan, crashed into another car driven by Edward Stephens, of 149 Forty-fifth street, at Forty-third and Foster streets. Roch Barteczak, of Floriffe, owner of the car Dugan was driving, was also injured. Both drivers were arrested, charged with reckless driving.

Three-year-old Arthur Stern, of 5917 Hobart street, was injured, not seriously, last night when he was struck by an automobile near his home. Miss Beatrice Crown, 19, of Darlington road, the driver of the car, was arrested on a reckless driving charge.

FIVE HURT IN CRASH

Five persons were injured last night when two cars were in a head-on collision on the Perry highway, near Wexford. The injured were passengers in an automobile driven by Peter Schneider, of 2143 Lowrie street. Besides Schneider, the others in his car were his wife, Lucinda, and Anthony Heidenrich and his wife, and daughter, Melva, 4, of 1417 Buena Vista street. All were attended at Presbyterian Hospital. Their injuries were not serious.

Two persons were injured when the automobiles in which they were passengers collided on Route 60, near Universal, yesterday. Miss Florence Weaver, 18, of North Side, a passenger in a car driven by William Starrer, of 3474 California avenue, was cut about the head and body, and was treated by a doctor and sent to her home. Myrtle Wylie, 37, of Leechburg, riding in the other car, driven by Ralph Martin, of Apollo, suffered injuries which sent her to Citizens' General Hospital in New Kensington.

STAR SHOWER VISIBLE HERE

The procession of Leonid meteors, or "shooting stars," was visible on the outskirts of Pittsburgh last night. No observations were made at the Allegheny Observatory, but attaches there said the display was visible from the suburbs.

Prof. J. J. Nassau, of the observatory of the Case School of Applied Science, Cleveland, counted 100 from the constellation of Gemini and the Leo near the Zenith between 1 a. m. and 6 a. m.

Prof. Nassau said he expected a greater display tonight if the sky remains clear, but the shower will attain its greatest brilliancy a year from now when the earth passes through the most concentrated part of the ring or orbit of the meteors.

Ex-Policeman Held On Mann Act Charge

Joe Keally, fight referee and former boxer and policeman, and Mrs. Mary Anderson, 32, were under $2,000 bond today for a hearing Wednesday before a United States Commissioner on charges of violating the Mann Act.

They were arrested by Department of Justice agents today, following an investigation of a trip said to have been taken to Indianapolis by the couple, accompanied by Mrs. Anderson's 12-year-old daughter.

SNOW HINDERS TRAVEL IN WEST

POCATELLO, Ida., Nov. 16.—(AP.)—Snow blanketed southern Idaho, parts of Montana and mountainous regions of other western states today, inflicting hazards of winter upon autumnal travelers.

An outing party of 10 men was trapped in a storm which laid a three-foot mantle of snow at the summit of the Sierra Mountains of California yesterday. Four of the group faced isolation for a week or more in a cabin of Walter Campbell, president of a Sacramento construction company, at Echo Lake.

Their six companions made five miles bucking soft snow with a motor car yesterday and expected to reach Placerville today or tomorrow. Both parties have access to food.

2 Men Face Court In Janitor Slaying

The trial of Carl Coker, 24, Negro, of East Lemington avenue extension, charged with the murder of Media Connors, 25, Negro janitor, of 7449 Finance street, started in Criminal Court today. Arraigned with Coker was Robert Williams, 22, Negro, of Stranahan street, charged with being an accessory to the killing through furnishing the gun.

5,000 ATTEND BIG SHOW FOR KOMIC CLUBS

Theater Jammed After Parade Of Members Downtown; Program Delights Throng

Nearly 5,000 children turned out yesterday for the big joint meeting of the Warner Theaters - Sun-Telegraph Junior Komic Club meeting at the Stanley Theater.

Long before the appointed hour, 2 o'clock, crowds of children arrived in street cars and automobiles. Many walked from their homes. The chapters represented and the sections of the city from which they came were Arsenal, Butler street; Belmar, Bloomfield; Cameraphone and Enright, East Liberty; the Harris, Etna; the Harris, downtown, with members from the South Side, West End and Hill district; Kenyon, North Side; Manor, Squirrel Hill; Plaza, Lawrenceville; Harris, Mt. Oliver; Rowland, Wilkinsburg; Schenley, Oakland, and the South Hills, Dormont.

PARADE MOVIES TAKEN

Under the direction of 50 representatives of the Sun-Telegraph, the children marched to the Stanley Theater. Motion pictures of the parade will be shown in all the neighborhood houses this week.

The crowd taxed the capacity of the Stanley. A. K. "Rosey" Rosewell acted as master of ceremonies, introducing John H. Harris, district manager of the Warner Theaters, and B. W. Bloom, circulation director of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. Harris led.

That marvelous movie dog, "Dauntless," presented by his owner and trainer, Scotty Wilson, seemed to catch the spirit of the occasion.

Kippy, the Komic Club Clown, who has visited some of the chapter meetings, was hailed with delight.

The feature picture was Joe E. Brown, of the big mouth and the funny yell, in his latest comedy, "Local Boy Makes Good." Most of the children participated last week in the "Joe E. Brown Yell Contest" in their neighborhood theaters.

Another big party will be given at the Stanley next month.

BIRTHDAY GREETINGS

We wish to extend birthday greetings to the following members of the Warner Theaters-Sun-Telegraph Junior Komic Clubs, who will celebrate their birthdays tomorrow:

GUNMAN ADMITS WALSH ATTACK

Bennie Zack, 23, of 1928 Forbes street, admitted today in Central Police Court that he was the hired gunman who attacked Thomas Walsh, son of Police Supt. P. P. Walsh and brother of Paul Walsh, constable elect of the First Ward, during the recent campaign. Zack named Constable Jack Schneider, defeated candidate, as the man who hired him for $100 and furnished a revolver to be used on Walsh.

According to Zack, who was held for court, he and Jerome King, now serving a sentence for a North Side robbery, were hired by Schneider to beat Walsh, active in his brother's campaign. They attacked Walsh at Liberty avenue and Fourth street and for some time Walsh was in Mercy Hospital.

Another of the First Ward election cases was heard when James Kelly, of 412 Rochelle street, Knoxville, was held for court, charged with conspiracy to violate the election laws. In this case Schneider was to have been the beneficiary of fraudulent registration, it was charged.

Garner Gets Gavel, Advice for Use On Yankees

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—Representative Garner, of Texas, has received his first gavel.

It came to the Democratic choice for the speakership from Judge W. B. Bowling, of Lafayette, Ala., and was made by Lee Hunter, of Buffalo.

Judge Bowling wrote that:

"Lee is a pizen Democrat and has heard me talk about you so much that he thinks you are a great man.

"When he handed the gavel to me, he said—

"'I made this expressly for Mr. Garner. I want you to send it to him for me with my compliments and best wishes, and the first damn Yankee that 'raises up' on him, smash him over the head.'"

New Castle Prepares Harmony Rail Suit

An order to show cause why the city of New Castle should not enter suit in Lawrence County against the Pittsburgh, Harmony and Butler Railways Company was granted by Judge F. P. Schoonmaker in Federal Court today.

According to the testimony, the railways company did not turn over to the city certain property in return for a right-of-way. Judge Schoonmaker set November 26 for the company's answer.

OHIO HICCOUGH VICTIM SINKS

MANSFIELD, O., Nov. 16.—(AP.)—The hiccoughs which have seized Ira A. King, Mansfield garage operator, continued unabated today for the eighth successive day despite the application of rare medical treatment.

King, gradually weakened by his long siege, was described in "fair" condition at General Hospital.

Musk, a comparatively rare extract from the reproductive glands of the deer, was administered without apparent result yesterday in the latest effort of physicians to halt the attack. A consignment of musk was shipped from Chicago.

Other remedies, ranging from old fashioned advice to X-ray treatments have been without success.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

In Mayfair —With—
Patricia Pitt

Very extensive plans are being made for the annual sale of the Women's Exchange Board to be held Tuesday, November 24, in the Hotel Schenley ball room, from 11 o'clock in the morning until 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

Several committees already have been named, and I can tell you of a few additional members of the utility table. Miss Nan Stewart is chairman of the table, and besides Mrs. Moses Atwood, Mrs. Charles [illegible], Mrs. William C. M[illegible], Mrs. Charles Arbuthnot, [illegible] and Mrs. John Scull, she will be assisted by Mrs. Walter Von M[illegible] Chamberlain and Mrs. [illegible] Evans.

The affair will be the twenty-fifth anniversary of the exchange, which was founded in 1886, making it one of the oldest of society's charitable organizations.

Mrs. William [illegible] Mrs. Wallace Hurtte Rose and Mrs. George D. Macbeth are in charge of the sale, you know.

During the week end the Neill S. Browns of Shadyside entertained a house party including the Hayden Wagners of Newburg, N. Y. Mrs. Charles Moore White and her daughter, Suzanne, of Akron, and Major Gen. [illegible] Brown, chief of engineers, Washington.

Of course, they attended the Pitt-Army game on Saturday.

Dinner Arranged For Mrs. Hearst

By CHOLLY KNICKERBOCKER
Universal Service Society Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Plans have been completed for the testimonial dinner which is being tendered Mrs. William Randolph Hearst Wednesday at the Hotel Commodore by her numerous friends and admirers in appreciation of her most commendable and humane work as president of the Milk Fund for Babies, Inc.

The dinner, which is being sponsored by the Madison-Tuthill championship trophy committee, will be in celebration of the tenth anniversary of the founding of the Milk Fund and under the direction of Anthony Drexel Biddle, who is chairman of the general sports committee for the prandial event. An unusually interesting program of entertainment will feature the celebration.

Three thousand outstanding personages from this city are expected to attend the dinner which later in the evening will be a "stag" affair and Mayor James J. Walker will act as toastmaster on the gala occasion.

Mrs. Hearst and a small party of prominent women will be present at the dinner until coffee is served, when they will withdraw.

Mr. Biddle's selection for the sports division of the program includes boxing exhibitions by Tommy Loughran, Mickey Walker and other title contenders, and he has also arranged for an intercollegiate heavyweight boxing elimination contest for prizes donated by himself and his sports committee.

Dorothy Shallenberger Weds Laurence B. Hill

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley D. Shallenberger, of Jeannette, formerly of Pittsburgh, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Dorothy M. Shallenberger, to Laurence B. Hill, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Hill, of Greensburg, which was solemnized Wednesday, November 11, at 4:30 o'clock. Officiating was the Rev. Charles Hill, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church of Jeannette.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a gown of brown and green, flat crepe and carried daisies and pompons. Her sister, Miss Ruth Shallenberger, as her only attendant, wore blue and carried pink roses and yellow chrysanthemums. Joseph Metzger, of Swissvale, served as best man.

After the reception and buffet supper in the bride's home, Mr. and Mrs. Hill left on a motor trip through New York State. They will make their home in Greensburg later.

Christine M. Clemson To Sing at Hospital

Christine Miller Clemson will give a recital Thursday afternoon at the annual Thanksgiving reception and donation day at the Presbyterian Hospital. A committee headed by Mrs. Walter S. Church, president of the Aid Society, is arranging for the affair at which tea will be served both before and after Mrs. Clemson's program.

Mrs. C. J. C. McDowell, chairman of the tea committee, is assisted by Mrs. Durald Lyon, Mrs. Howard Kunkle, Mrs. H. H. Cahoon, Mrs. F. V. Cassell, Mrs. Amos Bowman, Mrs. Frank C. Pierson, and Mrs. Edward G. Lang. Miss Lillie B. Bradley, assisted by Mrs. A. H. Parlett, will have charge of the donations.

At the tea tables will be Mrs. Ralph W. Harbison, Mrs. John McCartney, Mrs. John F. Miller, and Mrs. James A. Kelso. Members of the social service committee, of which Mrs. Alan C. Stevenson is chairman, will serve as aides.

Club Juniors to Hear Judge Sara M. Soffel

Judge Sara M. Soffel will be the speaker at the November meeting of the Junior Section of the Wilkinsburg Woman's Club this evening in the Young Women's Christian Association. Her subject will be "Juvenile Court." Impressions of Edna Ferber's new book, "American Beauty," will be given by Mrs. Morris Fiute, Mrs. Howard V. Krick and Miss Frances Keiser.

COLLEGE CLUB TO GIVE BRIDGE

By-Law Revision to Be Presented At First Fall Business Meeting Saturday

This week's activities at the College Club include the first club bridge luncheon of the year, the semi-weekly open house, the regular Friday afternoon meeting, the fall business meeting of the club and the usual schedule of dancing classes, bridge classes and French lessons.

Mrs. George M. Swan, assisted by Mrs. W. Clyde Grubbs, Mrs. Clifford A. Lake, Mrs. Howard Zacharias, Mrs. Donald C. W. Birmingham, Mrs. Myron G. Mansfield and Mrs. Thomas Spooner, have arranged for the bridge luncheon which is to be held on Tuesday. The house committee under the chairmanship of Mrs. James M. Graham, Jr., will receive the members of the club and their friends on Wednesday afternoon. Tables may be reserved for bridge.

Capt. Fred G. French, head of the Pittsburgh Bridge Club and president of the American Bridge League, will address the Friday afternoon meeting on "The Official System of Contract Bridge." Mrs. Edith B. Maize will be hostess for the tea following the program. Mrs. Holland H. Donaldson and Mrs. John Ray Ewers will assist her at the tea tables and the aides named are Miss Helen Crawley, Mrs. Roy Dougall, Mrs. W. Clyde Grubbs, Mrs. A. S. Pitassi and Mrs. James Russell Dodworth, Jr.

The first fall business session of the club will be held Saturday at 11 o'clock. Reports from all committees will be heard, revision of the by-laws presented and plans discussed for the intercollegiate luncheon, the date for which has been changed from December 5 to early January.

CHARMING SPORT CAPS FOR WEAR AT WINTER RESORTS

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Nov. 16. — For those who wish to cut a smart figure on the ice this season, some most attractive winter resort hoods and caps are already on view. Every effort is made to combine the practical with the smart and nearly always this result is successfully achieved. In some models more than in others. This year's crop of skiing caps that will later decorate the snowy scene at St. Moritz, Lake Placid and other wintry resorts, particularly nice and should even make sports addicts of women who fly South at the first sight of a flurry of snow. For the little wooly hoods and helmets with straps beneath the chin are ever so youthful and quaint and when worn with a business-like sports suit are absolutely devastating in their chic. No wonder so many women insist on a few weeks at St. Moritz or Chamonix each year.

FROM THE PRELIMINARY views of the sports collection just making their appearance we have culled some sketches of two new sports caps. The first two sketches are of a skiing cap from Bruyere's sports collection. Navy blue felt of very flexible quality and light in weight is pulled into a sort of four cornered tam which is pleated across the top from left to right and has insets and yellow silk galon matching the colors of the accompanying jumper and scarf. This tam is poised tip-tilted over a snugly fitted helmet of the same material tying at the right side beneath the chin.

THE THIRD SKETCH shows another smart little Bruyere bonnet also for sports wear. The pointed crown is of dark green felt and the cuff-brim is of angora jersey in the same shade. Two crystal buttons are fastened at each side of the transverse ridge, shaped like a deep pleat extending up to the pointed tip of the crown at one side only.

NEVER BEFORE

Such Drastic Reductions

NEVER BEFORE have we been compelled to place on sale our complete stock of Better Grade Merchandise. BUT never before have we found our shelves so overloaded with High Quality Footwear. This stock must be moved OUT regardless of present or former value. Therefore, we are going to take our losses now—at the height of the Fall season—and sell out every pair of $12.50 to $16.50 shoes at more than ONE-THIRD OFF.

GROUP ONE
ALL OF OUR $12.50 SHOES
$8.45

Unrestricted choice of all Verner $12.50 models. These same makes only last Spring sold at $14.50. In our opinion, you will not have another opportunity to choose from such a wide assortment of fine footwear at such a ridiculously low price. Straps, oxfords and pumps in black and brown suede, black and brown kidskin, black and brown calfskin.

GROUP TWO
$14.50 AND $16.50 SHOES
$9.85

All our Garside Shoes are included at this low price. This is by far the lowest price we have ever quoted on Garside Shoes. Women who have worn Garsides know that there are no finer women's shoes made at any price. Last Spring, these shoes sold at $16.50 and $18.50. The models include rich-looking black and brown suedes, fine kidskins and calfskins in black and brown.

Don't confuse this Sale with the usual Clearance of Odds and Ends and broken lines. We are now offering unrestricted choice of our entire stock of high grade footwear at practically cost of manufacture.

BRITAIN SELLS R-100 FOR JUNK

LONDON, Nov. 16.—(INS.)—The R-100, once proud monarch of the skies, has been sold for junk.

The Air Ministry announced today that the great ship, which made two successful transatlantic crossings, had been bought by Elton Levy and Company, metal merchants, for an undisclosed price.

Two factors were responsible for junking of the R-100. One was the disaster to her sister ship, the R-101, which crashed in France with the death of 48 persons, and the other was the need for government economy. One of Prime Minister J. Ramsey MacDonald's first steps towards retrenchment was cessation of airship activities and retirement of the R-100.

The craft was first offered intact to the highest bidder, but apparently no satisfactory offers were received.

48 New Cases Put Under Quarantine

The City Department of Health today reports these new cases in quarantine: Scarlet fever, 12; measles, 13; whooping cough, 3; chicken pox, 8; mumps, 4, and pneumonia, 8.

Another Chip

OFF THE OLD BLOCK

We've just hewed another fair sized chip off the old block that stands between the farmer and you. We mean the expense of bringing food from the men who grow it to the women who cook it.

Last year, after buying food in the best producing sections, it cost us $35.51 a ton to get it to you—an expense which, of course, went into the price you paid.

But this year, by dint of hard work, we've succeeded in chipping the old expense block down to $32.66—a saving to customers of almost $3 on every ton of food we sell.

This is a saving to American housewives of about $300,000 every week of the year.

By keeping the difference between what the farmer receives for food and what you pay for it as small as possible, we can sell food of the highest quality at very low prices.

PITT AT PEAK TEAM SEES ONLY ONCE

Dr. J. B. Sutherland

AN ALMOST PERFECTLY played game, the sort that no football team produces more than once and 99 out of 100 never attain, was Pitt's exhibition Saturday when, in overwhelming a strong, scrappy Army eleven, the Panthers showed local fans the most brilliant play of the season, and perhaps, the finest work of any Pitt team in several years. With the trifling exceptions of a couple of fumbles and some faulty interference on sweep plays in the first half, the most captious critic could find nothing at which to carp in the performance of the Pitt lads against the Cadets—and the points meriting commendation are numerous.

The spectator who never attends another game can assure his grandchildren that he saw a great football team play, for the Panthers were all of that on Saturday. It's a quaint old American custom on fall Mondays to pan to a crisp the coach whose team failed, and on the winning side to ascribe to the individual genius of the players the glory that comes with success.

IN VIOLATION OF that tradition, it might be remarked that to Dr. John Bain Sutherland, modest sportsmanlike victor of the Blue and Gold, should go the lion's share of the credit for a performance which stands out as one of the all-time leaders in local gridiron history.

To the gallant, resolute Pitt players all honor—but honor, too, to the coach who overcame a series of handicaps, brought a team which had reached its poorest form of the season just a week earlier to its highest pitch of mental and physical accomplishment, and outgeneraled and outfought a well-coached and powerfully equipped opponent.

JOCK HAS MORE than once demonstrated the ability—for which his own teachers, Pop Warner is famed—to point a team for a critical game, and that he did so for the Army contest in extraordinary measure will be conceded by every football follower present at the Stadium Saturday.

The coolness of the Panthers in the face of injuries which early removed two of their best men, against some early bad breaks, their versatility and the marvelous capacity to meet everything the Cadets could throw at them didn't arise from accident or from inspiration alone. Back of that sterling performance was the keen mind and the influence of a master coach.

THE GAME ITSELF has been amply reviewed since Saturday evening, but its outstanding feature merits repeated comment. Not only did the Pitt boys display as spectacular and effective an air attack as any team has ever shown in Pittsburgh, completing four different types of passes for a total of 10 successful throws out of 18 attempts, scoring all four of their touchdowns over this route, but they actually stopped every single attempt at passes by the West Pointers until, midway in the fourth quarter, Dr. Sutherland removed his varsity. And even then the second team broke up more than two-thirds of the tosses tried against it. Pitt's aerial defense and Pitt's aerial attack were alike masterly.

Paul Reider

CONSPICUOUS IN THIS thrilling air game were the accurate tosses of Heller, Reider and Collins, and the even more remarkable catches of Reider, the best pass catcher that ever played on a Pittsburgh team.

In fact, the memory of 25 years of football in this city, since the forward pass was introduced in 1906, does not include the name of any player on any local team who made so many seemingly impossible retrievals of throws as Paul Reider has made this season, nor of any who in one game made three such snatches as Paul did against West Point.

REIDER'S 5 FEET 10 INCHES seem capable of unlimited extension when necessary to reach a ball passing high over his head, and the regularity with which he holds anything that it is possible for him to reach is nothing short of uncanny. He's the Tris Speaker of football.

The passing combination of Reider and Heller, working sometimes in the other direction, is as potent a weapon as any team could desire, as will be attested by Carnegie, West Virginia and all of Pitt's other opponents save Notre Dame. And against the Irish a hard-pressed quarterback apparently forgot that he owned such a weapon. As for Army, it will be a long time before the present Cadets forget that pair.

SPEAKING OF REIDER, as every one has been for the last few weeks, there is the best halfback Pittsburgh has owned since Gibby Welch. Yes, and that's not excepting the brilliant Tony Uansa. Reider has a dash and fire that mark the true star, an indomitability in the face of ill fortune or disaster that might be used as an example to all football aspirants, and a capacity to rise to the occasion never surpassed. Saturday, in addition to dividing with the almost equally remarkable Heller the whole burden of ball carrying, Paul was the principal catcher, threw some of the others, played a big part in the defense against Army's throws, helped to block the giant Price out of many of Pitt's plays, handled kicks better than any Pitt safety man since Tom Davies, and even for a long period took over the responsibility of signal calling when the substitute for Hagan faltered in this important duty. Boys, what a football player this lad is! Sas Schwartz if you like, but don't name any other halfbacks in the same breath with Reider when listing those that fans of this district have seen perform lately.

CLARK AND HELLER shared with the ubiquitous Reider credit for knocking down most of the Army passes, but most of the glory there goes to a line which in every attempt so harrassed the passer that he never had a real chance to pick his target.

Coaches in the stands, and they were numerous, rated Pitt's defense against passes on this particular day as fine as any they ever had seen. And in using the pass, Pitt brought gasps of surprise by disclosing four men who could throw 'em, five who could and did catch 'em, and four or five different plays from which they were thrown.

AFTER CITING REIDER, Heller and all seven of that glorious line, it might be well to mention especially the great game played by Red Morris at guard. Unseen by the majority in the stands, the guard is key man in the play of a Warner-system team, and when he plays his game as Morris and Walter Milligan did against Army, the men who know football mark the guards as real stars.

Morris played the best game of his career, followed the ball, tackled, blocked and broke through in brilliant style, and Milligan was little behind him.

Maj. Ralph I. Sasse

THERE WERE FOUR fine tackles on the field. MacMurdo and Quatse were great, but so were Price and Suares, and it speaks volumes for the prowess of these huge Cadets, coached by Maj. Ralph I. Sasse, that they so frequently stopped the well shielded drives of the Panthers. Any tackle who breaks up half of the smashes aimed at him by a Pitt team that is going well is playing real football, and those two West Pointers did that. Defensively, the Pitt line had something on Army, offensively more. But the Cadet forwards were only a little behind their opponents in ability, and their two masterly goal-line stands

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor

If someone were to tell you that George Tilichy and John Finkelstein were going to box the main bout at Motor Square Garden tonight, you'd promptly turn to the radio and slippers and settle yourself for a quiet evening at home.

But they are going to fight there and you'll probably be on hand just the same.

For these two gentlemen—if it is permissible without violating the rules of the Boxers' Local to refer to men who sling leather for a living as gentlemen—are none other than Jimmy Belmont of Braddock and Jackie Fields of Los Angeles. Belmont, nee Tilichy, is a rousing young welterweight socker managed by Frank Klaus, former middleweight champion of the world, while Fields is a former welterweight champion. Which makes them horses of an entirely different color. If you doubt they are horses, why do fight managers keep stables?

CHANCE FOR BELMONT

Well, anyway, Fields, who started out with Fidel LaBarba as an amateur star and won Olympic honors and then turned pro and won the 147-pound championship from Joe Dundee in Detroit in 1929 and lost it to Young Jack Thompson in the same city less than a year later and is boxing Lou Brouillard for the title again in Boston on December 11, still is some punkins, and the battle represents a glorious opportunity for Belmont, who will be in the position of having everything to gain and nothing to lose by cutting loose and making a real bid for victory.

If Jimmy stands back in abject awe of his opponent's reputation, he'll get nowhere, for the local man is strictly a fighter and puncher and he will have to go after Fields and hurt him or he'll take a tasty two-fisted drubbing himself. On dope, Fields should win, but this fellow Belmont is liable to stop anybody he clips when he's stepping. It ought to be quite a brawl if Belmont elects to make it such. And he can lose a fighting fight without loss of prestige to an established miller such as Fields.

BRENT VS. FLANAGAN

Billy Brent and Billy Flanagan, local middleweights, box a return bout in the eight-round semi-final. Brent, subbing on short notice, won the first one in the same ring. Francisco Marino, a Cuban, meets Davy Grove, new local mixer, subbing for Teddy Welch, veteran welterweight of McKeesport, in the second six-rounder, and Fritzie Zivic of Lawrenceville, brother of Jack and Pete, steps against Steve Senich of Homestead, in the first six, with Patsy Hennigan, of Clairton, and Frankie Reilly, of McKeesport, boxing the four-round opener, at 8:30.

Battling Gizzy, of Donora, and Eddie Edelman, of Cleveland, meet in a 10-round windup in Wheeling tonight, and a benefit amateur show with other entertainment included for the unemployed is scheduled in Turner Hall, Homestead, while members of the South Hills Country Club will witness an amateur boxing smoker in their quarters.

DUNN AT EAST LIVERPOOL

Johnny Dunn, of New Kensington, boxes Henry Scarpuzzi, of Canton, O., and Mickey DePalmo, of Canton, opposes Clem Early, of Alliance, O., in two eight-round bouts at the East Liverpool (O.) Eagles Auditorium Thursday night.

Bucky Lawless, who boxes Billy Rose at the Castle Bowl, New Castle, Friday night, also meets Jackie Fields at Syracuse next Monday night.

Gladstone Booters Meet Washington

Play for the City Junior High School soccer championship will get under way this afternoon at Westinghouse High School field when Gladstone, winner in Section I, meets Washington Trade School, winner in Section II.

Langley Junior High, which won the laurels in Section III, drew a bye and will meet today's winner for the championship at Oliver Field Thursday.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF LAST SATURDAY: LEO DE KORN—ENDURANCE GOLFER—Leo De Korn, a member of the Purchase Country Club, Purchase, N. Y., has staged three golf endurance contests in an attempt to set a world record. On June 27, 1930, he played 144 holes on the Purchase course without a stop, covering 45 miles in 7½ hours. On July 29, 1930, he played 200 holes in 15 hours, covering 52 miles. To better this record De Korn played 246 holes on June 22, 1931, in 21 hours, going the distance of 76 miles. His average for the 590 holes was 99 strokes per round, and the total time 43½ hours. THE CROOKED HOUSE—On the estate of Earl Dudley, Himley, England, there is a very curious habitation known as the "Crooked House," now used as a sightseeing attraction. It is altogether out of the perpendicular, part of the wall being buried in the ground as a result of mining operations which have honeycombed the understratum. It is as difficult to walk steadily through the halls and doorways as to pace the deck of a vessel in a rolling sea. The inside presents many optical illusions, and clocks, shelves and tables all appear to be crooked although they actually are straight. But the greatest attraction is rolling a marble over a leaning table, where the marble seems to roll uphill.

TOMORROW: A MOUNTAIN THAT THUNDERS.

ARMY ROUTED HERE; TARTANS TOP TEMPLE

By JESS CARVER

Football's greatest show, the West Point Cadets, has passed along and left in its wake only the most pleasant memories for Pittsburgh. Indeed, the weekend was spectacular, thrilling, brilliant and in all ways satisfactory. Not only did the Panthers rise to supreme heights in crushing the high and mighty Cadets, but the courageous Carnegie Techs landed their second major triumph of the season by turning in a victory over the unbeaten Temple Owls.

From the time the Cadet varsity squad was de-Pullmaned, early Friday morning, until the team and corps surged about the P. & L. E. Station, late Saturday night, this city rode high, wide and handsome, far above the clouds. The brilliant pageantry that is such an integral part of the corps would make amends for a football team far worse than the one the Soldiers exhibited here.

Seldom has there been a more gorgeous show than the formal ball after the game. The Cadets in their dress uniforms, the beauty of the city clinging to gold-striped arms, gazing into clear soldier eyes and clean-cut soldier faces. Not only are the West Point Cadets the best-drilled body of men in the world, but they also are the greatest body of perfect gentlemen.

CADET CHOIR GREAT

It is too bad that all Pittsburgh could not have heard the Cadet Choir. Your correspondent does not usually go into tailspins over music, but I'd have hated like all get out to have missed that spectacle Saturday night. I got by without being mistaken for a waiter, which is something else.

The gridiron triumph itself will go a long way to winning for Pitt the prestige in the East that it deserves. Army is rated with the best on the seaboard. Eastern gridiron critics, here for the game, Bob Kelly, Quent Reynolds, Malcolm Roy, Richards Vidmer and Charley Parker, were outspoken in their praise of the Pitt defense and of the sensational of the attack.

The defeat was the worst Army has suffered since routed by Stanford in California in 1929, and then, the Cadets managed to cross the Cardinal goal line twice.

ARMY SLUGGISH

Against Pitt, Army appeared to lack resource, and I think the strategy board held back too long before opening with the short passing game. The Cadets kicked on second down for the first half. Jim MacMurdo and Jess Quatse held the Army's two tackle stars, Capt. Jack Price and Ed Suarez, at least even, although Kopcsak, the right end, was the best defensive wing on the field. Pitt's terminals were not tested defensively, for the Army refused to run plays at 'em.

Reider and Heller, of course, were the outstanding players on the field. Reider, in full charge of the team, left absolutely nothing to be desired. He kept Army guessing, and when he called a

A. A. U. CONFAB UNDER WAY

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—The forty-third annual convention of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States started yesterday with committee meetings planning American participation in the 1931 Olympic Games at Los Angeles, and arranging national competition sponsored by the union.

The basketball committee, first to report, recommended that the national tournament in that sport be staged by the Missouri Valley A. A. U. under the auspices of the Kansas City Athletic Club, which has sponsored the last eleven tournaments here. The event would be next March, 14-19, inclusive.

The women's basketball committee recommended that the 1932 national tournament in that sport be held at Dallas, Tex.

SESSIONS OPEN TODAY

All recommendations are to be offered to the convention at general sessions opening this morning, with President Avery Brundage of Chicago, presiding.

The record committee was faced with the task of passing on 144 new marks made during the last year.

The women's track and field committee recommended that the outdoor track meet be held in Chicago the first or second week of July, and be made official Olympic trials.

It also said it would ask that the 100-yard dash be changed to 100 meters to meet Olympic standards. It recommended that the national women's senior indoor track and field championship be held in Newark, N. J., the first or second week in March and the

SPORT VIGNETTES

Beaten only by Notre Dame and a 26-0 victor over Army, which was beaten, 14-13, by the undefeated Harvard eleven and tied at 6-6 by Yale, the University of Pittsburgh's Golden Panthers today rank right around the top of the heap not only in the eastern but as well in the national collegiate football realm . . . That crushing upset of the Army by the largest score turned in against a Cadet eleven in many seasons, and the clean-cut manner in which it was accomplished, established Coach Jock Sutherland's proteges for the season.

The question naturally presents itself: "How would the Pitt team of last Saturday have stacked up against Notre Dame?" . . . And the answer must be that it would have stood an excellent chance of taking the Irish . . . Maybe yes and maybe no, but it certainly was a better equipped fighting eleven than the one which scored two touchdowns in losing, 25-12, to Notre Dame earlier in the season . . . The forward passes, with Heller, Reider and Collins flipping them, that caught the Army flatfooted might well have been covered and broken down by the more alert South Benders, and, on the other hand, they might even have prevailed against that team . . . They certainly were impressive in the smoothness of their execution . . . Admitting that the Army team, aside from a strong defensive line, was sluggish in its play, and lacked any semblance of a scoring attack, it is a fact that Pitt was very much "on" for this game and looked very powerful and classy . . . Its aerial attack was the best ever flashed by a local team in an important game, and critics of Pitt's Warner system of play, concentrating on power plays off the tackles, with little or no variation and usually lacking in color and thrills, have to admit that just for this once at least Pitt took off the strings and put on a show that will be talked about for years to come.

It was Pitt's possession of such a splendid forward passing attack, little guessed by even its closest followers, that saved the game from being as drab as its setting against a cheerless, rainy November afternoon . . . Relying strictly upon its usual mode of attack, it is entirely conceivable that the Panther eleven would have staggered around to a scoreless tie with the Cadets . . . Beaten itself in games of recent memory by just such flashy displays of forward-passing, Pitt must be felicitated upon having absorbed its lesson well and turned it to account . . . The Pitt players received plenty of panning for their none too keen exhibition against a fighting Carnegie Tech team a week ago, and now they deserve all of the encomiums that can be heaped upon them for their magnificent play against the Army . . . All hail to them!—HARRY KECK.

BOAT RECORD SET

HUSKERS, IOWA MEET

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—The University of Nebraska and Iowa State College will battle for the Big Six Conference football title at Lincoln, Saturday.

HEIDELBERG COPS, 1-0

Many well-contested soccer games were staged on local fields yesterday afternoon. The Sturgeon club of the Panhandle League was handed its first defeat, the green-and-gold-clad Heidelberg eleven copping, 1 to 0.

In the West Penn junior cup, Houston and the Gallatin Braves played to another tie in a replay. The first game, at Houston, was 0-0, while yesterday's battle found the teams deadlocked at 2-2.

In other Panhandle League contests, Moon Run beat Grove A. C., 3 to 1; Gladden nosed out Cuddy, 2 goals to 1; Primrose had little trouble topping South View, 3 to 0; Beadling won from Coverdale, 4 to 1, and home Circle trounced the Bridgeville Owls, 3 to 0.

The Monongahela League found Pitz-Henry scoring a 3-to-0 victory over Alla Hollow. In the Keystone League, Curry beat Gallatin, 4 to 2, and Bridgeville stopped Cecil, 4 to 2.

Gladden nosed out Cuddy, 2-1; National Tube tripped the Duquesne Republicans, 4-2, and Brentwood Sports topped the German Turners, 4-2, in other games.

Tigers to Train At Palo Alto, Cal.

DETROIT, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—The Detroit Tigers, American League baseball team, will train at Palo Alto, Cal., next spring, Charles E. Navin, secretary of the club, has announced. The Tigers went to Sacramento, Cal., last year.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—Willie Nerney and Vincent Rousselli, jockeys injured in a spill at Pimlico track Saturday, were reported to be in a satisfactory condition last night at a Baltimore hospital.

BIG TEN CARDS CHARITY TILTS

CHICAGO, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—Northwestern, instead of bowling over Iowa Saturday to win undisputed possession of the 1931 gridiron championship of the Western Conference, must conquer Purdue a week later to gain clear title to the championship.

This came about as a result of the decision of the Big Ten athletic directors to include the results of games played for charity November 28, in the championship ratings. Northwestern will play the Boilermakers in one of the outstanding charity attractions in Soldier Field. The undefeated Wildcats, victorious in four conference games, must triumph in six, instead of five, to be proclaimed the champions.

The Western Conference in all arranged three feature attractions for the benefit of charity on November 28, and for good measure, figured out a one-day "foursome" among the teams in the second division, for Thanksgiving Day.

At Ann Arbor, Mich., Wisconsin will meet the Wolverines, and at Minneapolis, Ohio State will tangle with Minnesota.

In the unique foursome, to be played on Stagg Field, Chicago, Chicago and Iowa will play two periods against each other; Illinois and Indiana will engage for 30 minutes, and the winners of the two games will meet in another 30-minute contest. Should there be no scoring, the victor will be decided on the basis of yardage gained.

JACK JOHNSON SUED

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—Jack Johnson, former heavyweight boxing champion and now a night club proprietor, was made defendant in a suit over copyrights filed in Federal Court Saturday. A group of music publishers charged that he presented their songs at his club without their consent and asked an accounting of profits.

The Yellow Jackets, local contenders in the International Hockey League, are headed for a far more successful season, generally speaking, if the results of their opening week's competition are to be taken as a criterion.

Whereas last year Coach Charley Reid's proteges had been blanked twice, 3-0 by London and 7-0 by Buffalo, after their first seven days' work, this year the Jackets have improved to the extent of having held both of two opponents to tie scores, deadlocking with Syracuse, 2-2, last Thursday, and Cleveland, 1-1, Saturday night, in overtime conflicts.

REID OPTIMISTIC

For this reason Reid is optimistic for the locals and has declared the present outfit to be far superior to the one in tow last season.

Although the season is very young yet, the experienced, seasoned players have made a marked impression and appear to be headed in the right direction. The playoff series last year was attained only through a sensational home-stretch rally; this year Reid figures the Jackets will make the grade with consistency and without being so spectacular.

Buffalo makes its first appearance at Duquesne Garden on Thursday, and Reid expects to have the squad in tip-top form for the engagement. To that end, he has ordered no less than three strenuous workouts.

DETROIT TOPS WINDSOR

DETROIT, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—Detroit's Olympics opened the International League hockey season here last night with a 3-to-1 victory over the Windsor Bulldogs, last season's champions, in a fast, hard played game that went into an overtime session.

Hinsperger, Bulldog, broke through for the first goal midway in the final session. Leroy Goldsworthy, Olympic wingman, tied up the score late in the game. Frank Steele soloed down the ice early in the overtime period for the winning goal, and Goldsworthy scored again just before the overtime period ended. The lineup:

Windsor—1.		Detroit—3.
Kerr	G	Vezina
Arbour	L. D.	Peters
Hollingshead	R. D.	Rochester
Haynes	C.	Newman
E. Roche	L. W.	McCabe

THREE CADDIE FETES TONIGHT

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

Caddies at three district links—the Pittsburgh Field Club, Longue Vue Club and South Hills Country Club—are impatient for the setting of the sun. For this evening more than 700 hag-toters at the three clubs are to be entertained, banqueted and honored in annual gala events provided by those who employ them.

The Pittsburgh Field Club has an added attraction for its caddies who are not attending school; a tournament is to be played this afternoon, with some lucky caddie tonight to take home with him a beautiful prize for winning the blind bogey event. But the feast which will include the entire caddie roster, will get under way at 6 o'clock. Other prizes for the season's work also are to be awarded.

The South Hills Country Club has invited its members to join hands with the boys after their delicious repast, in enjoying an amateur boxing show at 8:30 p. m. John Graham, president, is in charge of the doings, which begin with dinner at 6:30.

TITULAR GAME SATURDAY

The post-season game for the championship of the City League, involving Schenley, of Section I, and South Hills, of Section II, will be played Saturday afternoon instead of Friday as previously announced. The contest will be played in the Stadium and the kickoff will take place at 2 o'clock.

Schenley won the Section I title last Friday by playing a scoreless tie with Peabody, while South Hills won the Section II crown by defeating Carrick.

Tech Meets Tonight In Steffen Case

Carnegie Tech's athletic council is to hold a meeting tonight to discuss Judge Steffen's announcement last week, in Chicago, that he would resign from his Tartan advisory coaching post at the close of the season. Steps are to be taken, it was said, to induce Steffen to reconsider his decision.

Through the courtesy of John F. Laboon, president of the Carnegie Tech athletic council, and Clarence Overend, graduate manager, the Carnegie football team will be guests of the Emerson Club of the Sacred Heart Church, East End, at its winter dance to be held in the Guild Hall, Center avenue, Friday evening.

Melinkovich, Irish Star, Out of Action

BALTIMORE, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—George Melinkovich, Notre Dame's star fullback, was injured so severely Saturday in the game in the Baltimore Stadium against Navy, it will be impossible for him to play Saturday against Southern California.

Melinkovich left the game in the first quarter. He was taken to a hospital, where it was found his clavicle joint was separated from his shoulder blade. He is 19 years old and comes from Tooele, Utah.

He was able to leave for South Bend with the other members of the squad.

FORMER GRIDDER DIES

MAUCH CHUNK, Pa., Nov. 16.—(AP.)—Dr. Edward G. Bray, formerly of Philadelphia, died yesterday of pneumonia. He was 55. Dr. Bray, a graduate of the Baltimore Medical College, was an eye, ear and throat specialist. He represented Carbon County in the Legislature in 1898. In 1894, he was well known as a fullback on the Lafayette College team.

George Woodman Stars As Clairton Coach

By JULIUS LEVIN

George Woodman, "wonder coach" at Clairton High School, one of the outstanding contenders for the football championship of the Western Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic League, has a right to refute the time-worn axiom "that football players are born, not made," judging from the brilliant record compiled by his teams during the last five years.

Sidestepping no worthy contender that was available for games at home or abroad, Woodman's powerful elevens have suffered only one setback since 1926. A scoreless tie with Donora in 1928 and a similar affair with Scott High, of North Braddock, last year, mar the otherwise perfect record.

MEET ALL COMERS

Unlike other teams in the race for the W. P. I. A. L. crown, Clairton has compiled its enviable football record against elevens that rank with the best in the district. Woodman and his aides are firm believers that "the tougner they are, the harder they fall"—and the manner in which Clairton's opponents have fallen this year only serves to bear out this contention. At one stage of the present campaign, Clairton met three undefeated elevens on successive weeks and emerged with three straight victories without allowing the opposition a point.

Woodman's team this season has done much to clarify the championship situation in Western Pennsylvania by eliminating three potential contenders in Charleroi, Monongahela and Greensburg, all of them undefeated at the time they stacked up against Clairton. There is a possibility that another undefeated team will be engaged in the final game of the season, when McKeesport is tackled. McKeesport, at this writing, still is undefeated.

An idea of Clairton's powerful offense and defense can be gleaned from the showings made against Charleroi, Monongahela and Greensburg. While Clairton was running up a 13-0 victory on Charleroi, a 33-0 score on Monongahela and a 29-0 triumph against Greensburg, Clairton's defense was keeping the opposition from scoring.

PLAYERS WELL DRILLED

There are several reasons for the fine showing of Clairton on the gridiron. One is that Clairton football players are well drilled in fundamentals, something other coaches overlook in preparing their teams for the gridiron campaign. Another is that Woodman and his aides always are looking to the future. Woodman and his first lieutenant, Bill Wyde, have no less than four squads working out daily on the Clairton field. The players are divided into freshman, sophomore, junior and senior squads and all are given the same attention as the regulars.

That Woodman is a coach of the builder type is borne out by the rapid progress Clairton has made in scholastic athletics. Coming to Clairton from Oil City in 1926, Woodman enjoyed only fair success his first season as coach. Clairton dropping six out of nine games. However, it was in the final game of the 1926 season that Woodman's team started its remarkable record by scoring a 13-0 victory over Duquesne. Strange as it may seem, it was this same team that snapped the winning streak in the dedication of the Clairton Field last season, 7-0.

As is brought out by the record of the 1926 Clairton team, the school usually finished among the also rans in football prior to the start of the Woodman regime. Since then athletics at Clairton have increased by leaps and bounds. His success as coach has done much to place Clairton among the leaders in football.

Clairton has one of the finest high school fields in the district, thanks to the efforts of its idolized athletic director.

COLGATE GRADUATE

Woodman is a member of that select group of Western Pennsylvania which learned its football in active competition. A graduate of Colgate, where he played on the line for four years, Woodman is rich in football experience. He played at guard regularly during the seasons of 1915, 1916 and 1917, playing center his final year at college in 1919. During the 1918 season he was in the army.

After leaving Colgate, Woodman enjoyed unusual success as coach at East Liverpool and Oil City.

If Clairton wins the district championship this season, and it stands a fine chance of doing this very thing, Western Pennsylvania will have a worthy representative on the scholastic throne. If there is one team that deserves this crown on the merits of its season's showing, Clairton has that team.

Woodman does not confine his efforts to coaching alone at Clairton. He is on the faculty as required by W. P. I. A. L. rules, teaching chemistry. While several of his football players are members of his classes, none of them has been able to get away with anything in the classrooms. Boys playing football at Clairton must toe the mark in their studies and Woodman makes it a point to see that his players are in good standing. The records compiled by Woodman-coached teams at Clairton follow: pass, handled his own end of the play so well that he was able to back his own judgment.

PITT PRESTIGE IS BOOSTED

Heller carried the ball like a champion. The footing was not all it might have been, but Warren ripped hole after hole in the Cadet line, and there are plenty weaker lines scattered about the country too. The big Steelton lad played as good a game as he did at Notre Dame, and against the Irish he came into his own. If only Reider had been running the Pitt team that day. What a different story might have been told.

AH! A NEW HAT!

I now intend to collect one new hat from Mister Bob Waddell. Last winter, sitting at a basketball banquet, Bob fell to talking over the situation Tech faced in football this fall, and was decidedly pessimistic.

"It looks so tough," quoth Mister Bob, "that I'll bet you a hat we don't win two major ball games."

Now I knew Robert was talking for effect, for we'll be firing the furnace in July when Waddell gives up any ball game before the final whistle, but I took him up. I won half the bet the day Tech took Georgia Tech and claim the rest now that Temple has been socked.

MOUNTAINEERS LOSE

Things didn't go so well for other teams in the tri-state sector last week. West Virginia was trimmed by Georgetown, making defeat No. 5 for Greasy Neale. Waynesburg was slugged by Slippery Rock and Wash-Jeff's hopes for a successful season were further dimmed as Bucknell registered its first victory of the series. Grove City walloped Bethany; Thiel stepped out of the state to beat Niagara and Penn State was soundly trounced by Lafayette.

The Class B title game at Meadville wound up in a scoreless tie between Geneva and Allegheny. That would be a nice one to play over for charity.

On Armistice Day, Cliff Battles led West Virginia Wesleyan to a one-sided win over Salem and St. Vincent took St. Francis apart.

And on Friday night, in St. Louis, Davis-Elkins not only had its goal line crossed, but had its perfect record shattered by St. Louis U. There won't be so much hurry in the Hurricane now for a while.

Cornell, Georgia and Syracuse fell from the ranks of the unbeaten. Dartmouth outsmarted the Big Red; Colgate was too tough for the Orange and Tulane rolled over Georgia by a surprisingly one-sided score.

HARVARD UNBEATEN

Harvard remains as the only undefeated team in the East now, the Crimson having defeated Holy Cross, 7-0. Chick Meehan and Luby DeMimeolo roused their New York University Violets after two successive setbacks and held Fordham even.

Nebraska served further notice that it will send a formidable Cornhusker team here Thanksgiving by beating Bo McMillin's Kansas Aggies, 6-3. Michigan and Michigan State tied for the second year in a row. Northwestern had a close call in beating Indiana, 7-6. Chicago landed its first win in nine years over Illinois. Notre Dame sank the Navy, 20-0. Ohio State won over Wisconsin, and Purdue won hands down over Iowa in other important games. Princeton, the second member of the Big Three to play, lost to Wash-Lee, 6-0.

marked them as a great gang. Jablonsky, subbing at guard, should be mentioned with Price and Suarez, and Kopcsak, a Greensburg lad, played a fine game at end. Meredith was conspicuous for Pitt in the fourth quarter, and Daily, taking the place of Hirshberg, Pitt's badly crippled captain, covered himself with glory. Like Morris, Daily played his greatest game, particularly in the covering of punts. Of the second-line backs, Sebastian was, as usual, a standout.

FOR ARMY, despite the constant stream of fresh and apparently good men, no back can be especially mentioned, for what can be said of a backfield that in more than three quarters fails to make a single first down, gaining that objective only after its opponents' substitutes have been sent in.

Herb looked like the best ball carrier, and Kilday also played well. Stecker, of whom so much had been expected, fumbled repeatedly, and never had enough interference to show whether he could run or not. And it was due to the Pitt linemen that he lacked that protection. They never gave Army's interference a chance to form.

THE 1931 PITT SQUAD should be remembered for many a year for this game in which it rose to the peak. As was remarked in the beginning, Coach Sutherland and his aides brought the boys in a week's time from their depths to their heights, a feat which any coach will appreciate.

The Cadet Corps gave Pittsburghers the thrill which the team did not. It's a great outfit. The West Pointers can cheer and sing and root as well as they can march or drill, and that means they're the last word. In spite of the one-sided game they gave Pittsburgh its greatest football day.

STAN BERKMAN SCORES FOR FIREMEN

By TOM BIRKS

Plowing through mud ankle deep, the J. P. Rooneys eleven won its final local game of the West Penn Football Conference and kept its undefeated record intact by beating the Burns Firemen, 13 to 6, at the Bridgeville Speedway yesterday. It was easily the hardest-fought battle of the conference season.

The Rooneys scored in the first half, breaks playing an important part in the first touchdown. After an exchange of punts, Honey Guarino recovered a fumble by Stan Berkman, and the Rooney steamroller swung into action. Finally the veteran Mose Kelsh took the ball over from the eight-yard line, and Jimmy Rooney booted the extra point.

ROONEY ADDS SCORE

This stirred up Berkman's gridders, who forced the Rooneys to stage a two-yard line back-to-the-wall act. The second touchdown came in the third stanza, Jimmy Rooney going off tackle for seven yards. He missed the extra point.

Burns scored in the same period. Joe Morbito was the instrument used by Berkman. With the ball on the one-foot line, the Rooneys held three times, and then Berkman, on a clever play, went through left tackle to score.

The last quarter both teams stubbornly contested every inch of ground, but to no avail.

The champions play their final game at East Liverpool Friday night against Purl Daily's Pottery gridders. On Sunday, Burns meets West View at West View Park.

Seven games were contested yesterday in the Lightweight Conference. The Broadway Mounts tied with the Oakland Community eleven, neither team scoring; the Etna Sycamores bumped the Glendale Tigers, 14-7, and the Sonny Boys kicked the J. J. Veronas, 26 to 0.

PAPALES IN TIE

Allison Park and the Papales battled to a scoreless tie; Twenty-third Ward was blanked by the Bloomfield Civics, 27-0; Union nosed out the North Side Traders, 2-0, and the Oakmont Panthers ousted Export, 7-0.

In independent affrays, the J. J. Doyles, Farrells, Westlake Odds, Garfield Eagles, Ward Traders, Green Orioles, Fifth, Treiner, Fourth Ward, Spec, Knapils, North Braddock Firemen, Kenmawr, Tarentum Firemen, Duquesne Orioles, Millvale, Kreiger Marx, St. Rosalia Prep, Bellehoover and Williams scored triumphs. The Millvale Amici and Arnold Indies clubs played to a 0-0 tie.

The West Penn Conference lineup:

Rooneys—13		Burns—6
Guarino	L. E.	Sherman
Kessler	L. T.	Nedrow

national junior indoor meet be held in Boston in March.

The Olympic track and field committee recommended that final tryouts for the United States team be held July 15 and 16 at Stanford University.

The recommendations will be acted upon in New York, November 29, at a meeting of the executive committee of the American Olympic Association.

It also recommended the western Olympic semi-final tryouts be held at Long Beach, Cal., and that the annual meets of the I. C. A. A. A. A. and the National Collegiate Athletic Association in 1932 be listed as semi-final tryouts.

Joseph T. England, of Baltimore, committee chairman, was nominated to head the managerial staff of the United States track and field men's team.

Co-champions in sport events sponsored by the union may wear medals half of gold and half of silver. The idea was advanced in order to eliminate added competition to decide which tied competitor should receive the first-place award.

CUIST RUNS 500

BERKELEY, W. Va., Nov. 16.—(AP.)—An unbroken run of 500 at straight pin bowling was chalked up here Saturday by J. L. Bumgardner, Berkley attorney. He now started in the afternoon and drew large crowds of sports fans before he became tired and laid aside his cue.

Sing Sing Eleven Blanks Militia Before 2,800

OSSINING, N. Y., Nov. 16.—(AP.)—While 500 spectators from the "outside," including a few women, obeyed the mandate to "keep your seats and don't go near the players," Sing Sing's football team made its debut yesterday to the cheers of 2,300 fellow prisoners.

Spurred by the collegiate cheering for "Dear Old Sing Sing" and the inspiring tunes of the inmates' band, the "inside" team romped to a 33-to-0 victory over the Ossining company of the Naval Militia's eleven.

The Coach's Viewpoint

By Howard Harpster

Geneva College Coach and Former All-America Star at Carnegie Tech.

Saturday was a bad day for undefeated football teams, and quite a few elevens suffered their first setbacks of the season . . . Andy Kerr's Colgate machine eliminated Syracuse from the select class, and Dartmouth played great ball to hand a good Cornell eleven its initial reverse . . . Tulane knocked Georgia from the undefeated list, as Carnegie Tech staged another great fight, this time scoring the first victory that has been marked up against the Temple team, of Philadelphia.

Howard Harpster

Pitt took to the air against a strong Army team and demonstrated to the many spectators that it really has a good forward-passing attack, even though it seldom employs that style of play . . . The Panther team scored all of its touchdowns on forward passes . . . This fact speaks well for the fine defensive play of the Army line, especially when Pitt was within scoring range, for Pitt long has been noted as a power team . . . Bulldog Reider continued his fine work as a ball carrier and forward pass receiver, a la Dick Merriwell . . . He lassoes forward passes after the manner of a champion cowboy, and, after he gets his hands on one, it usually means six points . . . And Reider's running mate, Heller, who threw most of Pitt's passes, must not be so bad either, regardless of the fact that he has received very little praise . . . The instant the ball leaves the passer's hands and starts on its way to the intended receiver, the spectators usually forget about the player who threw the ball, assuming that his task was an easy one . . . They should try it some time.

Carnegie Tech didn't act like a team which had only 27 players on its squad and had played three tough games on successive Saturdays with Purdue, Notre Dame and Pitt when it defeated Temple at Philadelphia . . . Staging a great offensive drive in the first half, the Tech team rolled up 19 points while holding its opponent scoreless . . . In the second half, the Temple eleven scored two touchdowns on forward passes and came up to within six points of the winner . . . Tech then pulled itself together and outplayed the Owls in the final period, having the ball on the five-yard line for a first down when the game ended.

Another interesting game, and one which was to have decided the championship of the smaller schools of this district, was played at Meadville between Allegheny and Geneva . . . The game was staged on a very slippery field and ended with no score being made by either team . . . The splendid play of Don Lovewell's Geneva line easily was the outstanding feature . . . Not a single first down was made through the Geneva forward wall, and Allegheny's only first and 10 resulted from two forward passes . . . Geneva's 12 or 13 first downs only served to increase the hopes of its followers, but meant nothing when the Covenanter team lacked the punch to put the ball across when close to the Allegheny goal . . . The Allegheny line played very well, especially when it was back in its own territory, while Fullback Garback was the best player in the backfield.

Eddie Hirshberg Leaves Hospital

Capt. Eddie Hirshberg, of Pitt, who was taken to St. Francis Hospital after the Pitt-Army game Saturday, was discharged from the institution this morning. The Pitt leader, ill before the start of the game, had to be taken out in the first half and collapsed on the bench.

He was assisted from the field and ordered to the hospital by Dr. R. A. H. Shanor, team physician. He rested quietly Saturday night and yesterday and this morning was permitted to go to his home. He is expected to be in shape for the game with Nebraska on Thanksgiving.

Kelley, Former Pro Gridiron Star, Dies

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—William C. Kelley, 29, for several seasons a professional football player, died yesterday of acute indigestion. Physicians said he had eaten a quantity of peanuts and frankfurters at the Fordham-New York University game and was taken ill when he returned home. He was born in Denver, Col.

Kelley played last season with the Brooklyn Dodgers. Previously he had been on C. C. Pyle's Yankees, the all-Americans and the Yellow Jackets. He was a graduate of the University of Montana.

MAJOR LEAGUERS COP

TOKIO, Japan, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—The touring United States all-star baseball team defeated a Japanese team, 11 to 0, yesterday before 40,000 fans. Lefty Grove, of the Philadelphia Athletics, shut out the Japanese team with three hits. The score:

MARKET RALLY UPHELD BY OPTIMISM

Commodity Price Increase, Checking of Depression Reflected in Wall Street

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—The level of stock prices last week was remarkable because the rally had been based on the sympathetic influence of commodity quotations and on technical internal market factors rather than on the prospect of near-term improvement in corporate earnings.

Evidently the speculative-minded are testing out the theory that the decline in the business cycle is nearing the end at hand. Until the evidence becomes unmistakable, the nimble with paper profits are subject to irregular temptation to realize on gains. Furthermore, numerous institutions which are overweighted with collateral loans regard every rally, however, Mr. Rukeyser warranted by the fundamental outlook, as a favorable opportunity for selling. That situation tends to put the brakes on any runaway tendency.

On the constructive side should be emphasized that the forces which were dragging business down to a new low level, and which were destroying confidence until a few weeks ago have been definitely arrested. The downward plunge in business has been checked, and the total volume of industry and trade is much encouraging when seasonal factors are taken into consideration.

The rise in wheat and silver, even though the gain served to break "the confidence of pessimism," as B. M. Baruch observed, and it also relieves businessmen who are in need of supplies that they cannot export, other fundamental commodities to continue to decline forever. As soon as a majority of executives have confidence in the stability of the new price level, a movement toward recovery will have been accomplished.

As far as monetary factors are concerned, recent developments have been fundamentally encouraging. The panic met the onslaught of the world, and alone among the attacked currencies emerged victorious. The demonstration of the unparalleled strength of the dollar has resulted in a cessation of important gold withdrawals by foreigners and a substantial decline in hoarding by stupid and timid souls at home.

With talk increasing about the desirability of controlled inflation, it should be borne in mind that the opportunities for domestic business expansion without any increase in the physical volume of credit outstanding are stupendous. For credit now outstanding is not performing with maximum efficiency. Not only is currency still hoarded, but the rate of turnover of deposit currency—bank deposits—is distinctly subnormal. When the confidence returns to use the financial tools available, the public will recognize that America is still rich in gold, credit, raw materials, manpower and managerial skill.

Germany's Export Trade Continues Favorable

BERLIN, Nov. 16 (AP).—Germany's export trade continued to show a favorable balance for October, a surplus of 383,000,000 marks bringing the total favorable balance for the period from January to October to 2,010,300,000 marks (about $500,000,000).

Imports for October were 482,800,000 marks, compared with 448,400,000 for September. October exports were 865,800,000 marks, compared with September's 831,800,000.

The favorable balance of 2,010,300,000 for this year is exclusive of reparations payments in kind, which total 347,300,000 marks.

Shares Finally Dip After Fluttering Uncertainly; Copper, Rail Issues Heavy

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—An upturn in wheat, contrasting with a slump in silver bullion, provided a confusing background for the securities markets today, and share prices were finally permitted to drift lower, after fluttering uncertainly during the early trading.

Copper, electrical equipment, rail and public utility issues were conspicuously heavy. The bond market was also under pressure in spots. The German issues were but mildly influenced, however, by the further gains of the Hitlerites in the Hessian election.

Westinghouse Electric was sold in considerable volume in the share market, dropping more than 4 points. Issues losing 2 or more included American Telephone, New York Central, Southern Pacific, American Smelting and Allied Chemical, while issues losing a point or so included United States Steel, General Electric, American Can, North American, International Nickel, Kennecott, International Silver and others. Radio and Radio-Keith sagged fractionally to new lows. Radio-Keith selling under 3, in contrast to the year's high of 24½.

The new week found the stock market in a distinctly hesitant frame of mind. The market has now lost nearly half of the extreme rise from the October 5 lows, or about as much as it can lose if the setback is to be generally regarded as merely a technical reaction. Traders that have been bullish merely on the basis of improved sentiment in business are now looking for signs of tangible improvement. Some encouragement is provided by reviews of the steel industry. "Steel" looks for a further slight gain in ingot production this week. Gains have been persistent during recent weeks, but slight. Despite new model preparations, buying by motor makers has been small, and it is felt in the trade that they must make substantial commitments shortly.

The New York clearing house banks' ban on placing funds in the call loan market for corporations and individuals took effect today, and had but a slight influence upon the money market. Call loans held at 2½ per cent at the loan desk, but were a little firmer in the outside market.

Westinghouse Electric was apparently sold in response to report of a falling off in business in October. General Electric and Radio were presumably still under the influence of the developments in Radio Keith, Radio Corporation's subsidiary. Radio Keith is facing a reorganization to provide new capital, and directors state that the emergency must be met to avert receivership. The copper issues turned reactionary along with bar silver, and were also influenced by International Nickel's quarterly dividend of 5 cents, as reduced from 10 in the previous quarter.

WHEAT PRICES RUSH UP

CHICAGO, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—Wheat scored sensational gains today as speculative interest in the grain markets was revived. Opening prices on all contracts were as much as 2¼ cents higher than Saturday's close. Better demand and higher prices at Liverpool coupled with less favorable Argentine crop reports furnished a strong bullish sentiment.

In addition to crop damage in Argentina, totaling in some districts 10 to 50 per cent, there were also estimates indicating 15,000,000 bushels curtailment of wheat production in Australia. A large wheat trade was reported between Australia and the Orient. Liberal export business in North American wheat over the week-end was also announced.

War-like developments in Manchuria acted as a further stimulus to buyers of wheat futures, and police was taken of authoritative statements showing the Japanese rice crop 62,000,000 bushels short of last year and China's rice crop also diminished.

The following quotations on the Chicago Board of Trade are reported by A. E. Masten & Co.:

STEEL TRADE FIGHTS COSTS

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 16 (AP).—After nine of the leanest months in the history of steel, during which profits averaged $7.100 of 1 per cent and production 41 per cent, the industry is in fighting trim in the matter of costs, says the magazine Steel this week.

Not even the most sanguine steel executives entertain any illusions of a genuinely profitable era immediately at hand, the magazine says, but with the application of lower wage rates and other economies it is estimated that when the industry crosses the line of 45 to 50 per cent capacity production it will again make money.

Profits vanished for the industry as a whole somewhere near the turn of the last quarter of 1930, when production ranged between 50 and 55 per cent. But profits now are believed possible at 45 per cent.

Last week the operating rate compiled by Steel was 41 per cent. It has not been so high as 45 per cent since the second week in May.

More Brokerage Mergers Expected in Future

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE CONSOLIDATION OF TWO of the largest wire houses in the membership of the New York Stock Exchange may be the forerunner of similar moves on the part of other brokerage organizations.

Announcement was made last week that negotiations for the merger of Fenner & Beane and Samuel Ungerleider & Co. had been completed and that the actual merger would probably take place about December 1. The combined organization will have the second largest private wire system of any brokerage firm in the United States.

Under the stimulus of the bull market, which came to an abrupt end in 1929, members of the New York Stock Exchange engaged in unprecedented expansion. To take care of their rapidly growing business, larger quarters were secured and the amazing spread of public interest in stocks led many houses to open additional branch offices.

Many of these houses have found themselves greatly overexpanded during the past two years. The first effects of the decline in the volume of stock trading were seen in the reduction of working forces and in salary cuts. Branch offices have been closed by the hundreds.

Geared Up for Large Business

EVEN AFTER MAKING these economies, however, stock exchange members still find that they are geared up for a larger volume of business than can be had at present. Each of the recent brief rises in the market has brought new activity back to the customers' rooms but brokers are becoming convinced that a revival in speculative activity on the scale of 1929 is not likely to be repeated for many years.

Firms having investment departments have been compelled to materially curtail this portion of their business since the action of the bond market, until a month ago, was not inspiring to public confidence in fixed income securities. If the recently improved tone of the bond market shows further indications of developing into a marked recovery, the tendency to curtail in this field may be brought to an end.

Seeking Lower Costs

THE SLUMP IN STOCK TRADING brought the brokerage houses face to face with an element in their business which had not worried them for several years prior to 1929. This was overhead cost. The expense of maintaining private wires, offices in high-priced buildings and large clerical forces is a heavy burden. This cost varies little between times when business is active and when it is slow. Brokers make their money from commissions on executing buying and selling orders. A certain amount of business is necessary to meet these expenses. All business over this minimum volume may be regarded as pure "gravy." But the brokers have had little "gravy" this year.

The reduction in the number of shares traded has not been the only factor. Commissions vary with the prices of the stocks bought or sold. Obviously the change in the market makes it necessary for a stock exchange member to handle many more stocks to earn a given amount of commissions than two years ago.

The tendency for brokers to watch for chances to consolidate, when these mergers may eliminate duplication of wire facilities, branch offices or trading forces, is likely to become even more marked in the future unless the public regains its interest in stocks sooner than is generally expected.

Forbes

High-Ups View Week's Events as Salutary.

—By B. C. FORBES—

THE UPRUSH in wheat, in silver, in many securities, has received a salutary setback.

Mr. Forbes

Speculation rather than genuine demand was mainly responsible for the fireworks in wheat and silver. The farther the boom was hurriedly carried, the graver the danger of a serious unsettling downswing.

What may be expected, and all that may be expected, for some little time, is a checkered general movement in the right direction.

The time for fireworks, for sky-rocketing prices has not yet arrived.

HAPPILY, those whose actions are most influential in affecting activities in America have largely overcome their former fear and are acting on the theory that the worst is over. They were alarmed rather than elated by the sensational pyrotechnics in two or three commodities. Consequently, these responsible interests view last week's events with equanimity, with approval.

Actually, they feel that solid progress has been made towards national—even world-wide—rehabilitation.

THE RECESSION in securities, for example, is interpreted as entirely logical. Stock pools organized to whoop up this, that and the next stock are making more progress than actual conditions justified. The checkmating of unreasonable bullish manipulation, therefore, caused satisfaction rather than disappointment.

Particularly pleasing has been the absence of extensive public selling of stocks during declines. This is accepted as meaning that necessitous liquidation has largely dried up.

OTHER DEVELOPMENTS have likewise tended to allay apprehension and strengthen confidence.

More deposits are being put in than taken out of banks. This convincing testimony that hysteria has subsided is regarded as most reassuring. Europe, too, has emerged from its silly spasm of panic over America's financial stability. Our gold stock promises to increase rather than decrease. Money rates have eased.

Moreover, liquidation of American investments by Europeans, a serious matter at one time, has ended and purchases are now calculated to exceed sales by a substantial margin. That American investments will continue to gain in favor is not doubted in international banking circles.

LAST WEEK'S developments were mixed. For some time to come developments are likely to continue mixed. But the favorable should gradually outweigh the unfavorable more and more pronouncedly.

The steel industry is doing a little more business, thanks mainly to automobile demands, which are expected to expand notably. Retail trade reports are somewhat more cheerful. On the other hand, bank clearings are running far below a year ago. So are railway car loadings. Yet, additional forces are being put to work by not a few industrial companies in different parts of the country.

And, so it goes—cheerful news from one quarter, partly offset by depressing news from other quarters. But, on the whole, the trend is no longer unive.sally downward. If general recovery is not yet marked—and it isn't—at least the sweeping decline has been arrested and revival can be noted here and there.

LESS ATTENTION is paid to President Hoover's latest constructive proposal for the establishment of 12 regional banks to undertake real estate financing, especially the granting of mortgages to small home builders, than is being paid to the railway situation. The Interstate Commerce Commission has not given convincing proof that it grasps the gravity of railway conditions and the extraordinarily far flung ramifications thereof.

Would you believe that the latest compilation shows that our railroads are now employing 500,000 fewer employes than two years ago and that they are paying out $82,000,000 less per month in wages? These facts, considered in conjunction with the disastrous drop in earnings, emphasizes the frightfully urgent need of remedial action forthwith. It is to be hoped that railway laborers will exhibit greater statesmanship than our railway executives have exhibited.

LAST WEEK'S declines are as likely as not to be followed by a mild swing in the opposite direction. Expect ups and downs—but with the ups gaining the upper hand in the long run.

Landers Alters Attitude and Seeks Good Will of Mary and Steve

CHAPTER XXII.

Mary, still sitting on the arm of Steve's easy chair, smiled down at him faintly, half melancholic, giving him with her eyes all of herself, as if, with her tender gaze, her love flowed to him in a steady, continuing tide. He played with her hands, clasped them with lingering pressure—lifted his eyes to meet her dreamy gaze.

"You poor kid—you've been through so much," he said amusingly. "And now I'm afraid you're fixing to worry and be unhappy while I'll be gone for my year in Cuba. But we mustn't let ourselves get blue and lonesome, must we?"

"I'm afraid we can't help it, Steve."

He relinquished her hand suddenly and patted her shoulder.

"We mustn't let you get sunk! Mary, you need relief from this atmosphere of gloom. Will you do what I tell you to?"

"Always, I imagine."

"I'm not going to let you hang around this sick room constantly." He smiled at her authoritatively, as though she were a disobedient child. "Bill has got to take you out somewhere this evening and show you a good time—you need relaxation. No argument, now. You're being ordered to enjoy yourself."

She smiled back at him. "Oh, Bill doesn't want to be bothered with me."

"The devil you say, darling!" he jested back at her. "He'll be delighted to take you to a show—anybody would. It'll do you a world of good, sweetheart—and I won't be a bit jealous. Can't have my girl getting blue, you know."

ACCOMPANIES BILL

His heart, she divined, was set on the Cuba proposition and this was an attempt to cheer her up. She loved him more than ever for his consideration, his kindness. Steve knew Bill like a brother—he had no hesitancy in asking him to take Mary out for the evening. Late in the afternoon she left for New York with Bill in his swift roadster; they dined at the Casino in Central Park. Before 9 o'clock they were occupying fourth-row seats at a Ziegfeld show.

Bill, in her company, was finding the evening more pleasant, even than he had expected. One thing about Mary—he told himself—was that she kept a fellow from getting bored. Not only was she darned good-looking, but she had an indefinable sparkle of personality in her flower-blue eyes that engaged his fancy, her gold hair, too, and the soft lovely curve of her throat kept intriguing his gaze. She stimulated him, but it was not by the charm of her beauty alone, although he thought her the loveliest little thing he had seen. There was a provocative little challenge, a lure and a mystery, in her personality that was a natural part of her being. The way she carried her small symmetrical body, the almost haughty poise of her golden head, suggested an adorable, secret pride.

Other men glanced at her with admiration in the theater and their envy of Mary gave Bill a sensation of superiority. But he liked her most because she was nice to him—many girls, especially beautiful ones, frequently made him feel uncomfortably dumb. But he could talk to Mary, and expand as he grew to know her better.

THINKS OF LANDERS

As the last curtain fell, he said, "I haven't had enough yet—shall we go some place for a bite and dance a bit?"

Presently they fared each other across a table in a shrubbery nook of a roof garden and she was startled with the remembrance that the place was familiar. It was the Morgenhoff, where Buck Landers had taken her their first evening together. The orchestra was the same and it seemed almost the same people were seated among the artificial realities of an outdoor garden. The fountain splashed musically and the trumpet-shaped flowers bloomed their sweetness as usual.

Bill was in high spirits, indeed he seemed in a state of delighted astonishment that he was actually so happy. He looked almost handsome with his tan face and broad, substantial shoulders.

"Why don't you have a twin sister?" he demanded. "I could get along fine with your duplicate—I could get along fine with you if Steve hadn't captured your heart, worse the luck!"

He was teasing her, but there was a note of sincerity in his banter.

"Don't try to fool me that way," she chided him, smiling. "You're the kind that can have all the girls you want."

"No, you're wrong, Mary. I'm the sort that's all regard as their brother. Now, you take Steve, for instance—"

He stopped, and she waited vainly for him to complete his idea about Steve. "Do all fall for Steve?" she smiled.

"I don't know whether it's a gift or a curse with that boy." Bill's brown eyes were honestly mystified. "He was certainly popular with the fair sex in college. A funny thing though—he never monkeyed much with the ladies—he always was more of a man's man. The truth is—confidentially—Eileen went after him like a tiger, or they'd never have been engaged. You're the only one he ever actually fell for of his own free will—and you can tie to that."

A SURPRISE

He was as different as day from night from his sister—yet Mary discerned in them both the common trait of frankness. What they thought, they said.

"Do you think Eileen will ever get over caring for Steve?" she asked, hopeful that Bill would be able to quell the last little doubt in her heart.

"Eileen's a funny girl. Sometimes she seems to have all the pride on earth, and then again she doesn't have any pride at all. She's more high-strung than the rest of the family, and her mind works in curious ways. It sure hurts her to lose Steve, but I realize that she hasn't a chance against you. You're simply crazy over Steve, aren't you?"

"I certainly am," she agreed promptly.

Bill shook a puzzled head. "I wish you would tell me what it is about Steve that gets 'em that way. How does he do it? I know for a fact that he doesn't set out to vamp girls—he doesn't chase 'em. It's a sort of mystery to me—I asked Eileen once about it, but she either couldn't or wouldn't tell me. Is it because he's indifferent?"

"Oh, no—Steve's not indifferent—"

"His good looks?"

Mary pondered thoughtfully. It was the first time she had actually thought about it—but, thinking hard, she could not give one reason why she cared for Steve. It was an attraction beyond the power of reason. It rested somewhere in a deep feminine instinct that could not be analyzed . . .

"I wish I knew myself, Bill—"

A form moving toward them attracted her eyes and froze all speech in her throat. Buck Landers, resplendent in evening dress, his face white but half smiling, was coming straight to their table.

BUCK SEEMS CHANGED

Mary sat perfectly frozen as Buck Landers approached. Was there a new expression on his face—or did she deceive herself that he looked somehow changed? That fleeting smile on his lips . . . she had rarely seen it there before . . .

"Good evening, Mary."

He was beside their table, tall and immaculate. Bill was on his feet immediately saying the adequate words in response to the introduction that had come confusedly—to cover her surprise—from Mary's bewildered lips. There was dumb amazement on Bill's face—he knew the story of Landers' viciousness; was surprised that the man gave appearance of gentility; was dumbfounded at his effrontery that had every outward appearance of casual friendship for Mary. Not a flicker of hostility crossed the older man's face; his apparel was no more fastidiously correct than his manner.

New York is a small city, after all—think of meeting you here in the Morgenhoff again," he said. "Do you remember when we were here together?"

His new attitude inspired a surprise in Mary that counteracted her impulse to repel him. Yes, he had changed . . . there was a different look in his eyes . . .

"I haven't forgotten—anything," she returned, searching the mystery of his expression.

DANCES WITH HIM

Bill automatically, would have had the waiter bring an extra chair, but Landers, politely declined to sit. He stirred no alarm in Mary now; she was able to look at him with smiling defiance, a touch of triumph . . . Oh, he certainly must remember how she had conquered him. How he had once backed away—fled before the automatic in her nervous hand.

"And so we meet again," Landers murmured, half smiling. "But I see you are not with Steve this evening—you're not turning fickle, Mary, I trust."

"No, I'm never fickle, Mr. Landers."

His face flushed a little. "I'm awfully glad to see you again, anyway. I'm with some friends and before I go, I wonder if you'd do the old man a favor—would you dance just once with me, Mary?"

The orchestra had begun to permeate the place with its restrained, seductive rhythm; a strange, daring pulse began to beat with curiosity in Mary. For Landers to ask her to dance was grotesque . . . was funny! What could possibly be in his mind? He was in defeat now, and she had a foolish, unholy yen to know how he was taking it. She could get a thrill out of telling Steve how Landers was taking his beating . . .

Bill Calvert, mystified, bowed to Landers, and it was returned. He put his arm around her and they went gliding and turning on the crowded floor. She was surprised that he was so excellent at it; the rhythm and their bodies was as one; they danced without error to the music's throbbing beat.

"Is everything going well with you, Mary?"

"Everything is perfect with me, Mr. Landers. All of your efforts to break Steve and me up worked the opposite way. If anything, you brought us closer together."

"But you are with another man?"

"It wasn't convenient for Steve to come out tonight, and he asked Mr. Calvert to bring me. It's just an act of courtesy on Bill's part—it means nothing whatever."

"I've heard Steve speak in the past of the Calverts—rich friends of his. They're nice people, Mary—the kind you belong with."

There was silence. Then he said: "I wish you would give Steve a message for me. Tell him I realize that I lost my head, and made a fool of myself. When a man of my age falls for a girl of your age, he's likely to jump the track for a while when things go wrong . . . Tell Steve I was trying to make water run up hill, and it can't be done. I'm not sore at him any longer—and I don't want either of you to be sore at me—if that is possible."

She felt the heady thrill of complete victory. "Oh, I'm glad you're so sensible, Mr. Landers. It isn't difficult for me to forgive you because, after all, you did get rather the worst of it. Steve had a lot of physical sufferings and brutal treatment—but he did win out in the end."

The music stopped and Landers released her. The dancers clapped while they were waiting for the encore; Landers touched a silk handkerchief to his brow.

"And don't you feel better to have all of the struggle out of your system?" she asked curiously.

They resumed dancing with the music. "I'll never be thoroughly happy without you," he told her unflinchingly. "But you don't want me and—that's that. I'm not going to allow myself to worry about it. But I do feel a lot better to know you don't exactly hate me—it's a weak consolation, but it's something. I don't suppose it would be any use for me to proposition Steve about coming back to work for me any more?"

"I know he wouldn't. He's going to Cuba on a sugar plantation for a year."

"And you?"

"I'm staying in New York for a year, until we get married. Steve wants to get on his feet first."

"He's quite right, Mary. If you ever get lonesome—just ring me up. You'll find me quite harmless now. Being in love with you the way I was, kept me in a mental fever. Thank heaven, I'm back to normal again now. I've—I've quieted down . . ." He brought her back to Bill when the music ended, bowed and left them.

At 3 o'clock in the morning, Bill had her back to the house in the Catskills . . . It was strange how her love for Steve made her feel so kindly to the whole world, even toward an ex-enemy like Buck Landers . . . but she mustn't hate anybody now, because Steve was going away so soon, and the remaining days were too short for the happiness she must crowd into them.

Eileen came home and Steve's departure became a fact that drew near with the passing of each day. Mr. Calvert, knowing nothing of the inside, could see only a profitable future for Steve in the sugar business; Bill promised to run down to Cuba in the winter for a visit on the plantation. Eileen was distant, but agreeable. Another week of luxurious living with the Calverts, and Mary found herself back in Brooklyn. Tomorrow she would take up the search for a position—but could she wait in happiness? Life had expended upon her its full blast of cruelty; from now on the skies ought to be smiling and blue. She managed to banish regret at Steve's going; she was uplifted . . . exalted that he was going out to battle the world for love of her. Nevertheless, on the night he sailed, she wept till dawn.

"Why don't you have a twin sister?" Bill asked.

"Would you dance just once with me, Mary?"

"High Speed Girl"

In 1931 can a 19-year-old girl afford to accept all the cynical judgments of the psychologists and sexologists? Can she surrender completely to SPEED and a good time? Laurel Oakes was fine at heart, but the pleasure-crazy code of all the young people she knew swept her off her feet.

She became a "High Speed Girl." May Christie has written a high speed story about an ultra-modern girl who tried to cut all the corners in her search for a "kick"—a thrill at any price. She found herself in the midst of vivid drama from the beginning.

"High Speed Girl" begins in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph next Thursday.

THE SUING OF PHIL M'GREW

A bunch of girls were serving their time, chucking their luck in Reno;
The kid that had loved 'em and left 'em flat was playing a game of keeno.
Up at the bar in a giggle joint stood Philandering Phil McGrew,
And wishing him luck was his first blonde wife, the Lady that's going to sue.
In a buckskin shirt so tight it hurt, she stood, and I saw her wink,
Then she grabbed a glass in her slinky hands—my gosh! but that girl could drink!
I'm not so slow, as husband's go, but strictly between us two,
The woman who kissed him and socked him down is the Lady that's going to sue.

The Misfortune of All

The Whole Community Suffers From the Poverty of Some, as Higher Sickness Rates Bear Witness

From the Detroit Times we learn that in his recent successful campaign for re-election Mayor Frank Murphy, of that city, emphasized this thought:

"The misfortune of one is the misfortune of all."

Dr. C. E. Matts, Director of the Department of Public Health, furnishes, in the current number of his helpful monthly, Pittsburgh's Health, an illustration of the truth of Mayor Murphy's saying. Dr. Matts remarks:

"Unemployment and undernourishment are diseases of society and health menaces, and their continuation over a long period of time can only result in epidemics that will endanger the lives of the fortunate as well as the unfortunate. Higher sickness and death rates are now beginning to come to the surface from causes traced to the lack of employment, and lack of food, clothing and medical necessities for the dependents of the idle."

Tuberculosis and pneumonia, Dr. Matts says, go hand in hand with poverty. The tuberculosis rate reached its maximum in the severe economic depression of the nineties.

There is, then, a selfish as well as an unselfish reason why the employed should give a helping hand to the unemployed. Their own health and the health of their families may suffer if poverty is not relieved.

For both tuberculosis and pneumonia are infectious, and disease epidemics are no respecters of persons, but may attack the rich if they are allowed to get a foothold in the community in the homes of the poor.

Unwarranted Criticism

A. K. Oliver, President of the Welfare Fund, Points Out the Falsity and Injustice of Certain Rumors.

Almost invariably, it seems, when a great money-raising campaign like the Welfare Fund drive is carried on, stories get into circulation suggesting that a considerable portion of the money is diverted to purposes other than was intended by the donors.

The present campaign is not free from such stories, and A. K. Oliver, president of the Welfare Fund, has done the right thing in boldly facing and answering them.

There can be no doubt that the criticism is unwarranted, and that the false rumors have been inspired and circulated either by ignorant or malicious people.

There have, of course, been philanthropic drives from which a considerable part of the proceeds has been used to pay promotion expenses, but that is not true of Pittsburgh's Welfare Fund campaign. In this appeal, Mr. Oliver points out, the cost of operation of the fund, including all campaign expenses, is 1.9 per cent of the total budget.

The authorized solicitors are giving their time and service free, as are also the directors and directing committees. The paid workers on the staff of the Welfare Fund have voluntarily taken an average cut of 8½ per cent in their modest wages, and in addition are contributing to the Fund themselves—as much as 5 per cent of their yearly incomes.

Not even the cost of the campaign luncheons at which reports are presented and instructions issued is charged to the Welfare Fund. Both the staff members and volunteer workers pay for their own meals. A good many fair-minded people will say, in respect to this, that they are trying so hard to be straight that they are leaning backward.

Mr. Oliver's statement and his invitation to critics to examine the certified audit of the Welfare Fund books made by Main & Co. ought to put a stop to the stories.

Pinchot in Control

The Legislature Is Warned That Any Deviation From His Program Will Be Unconstitutional.

Pennsylvania has had so little experience with special sessions of the Legislature since the present state constitution was adopted that uncertainty exists as to what may or may not be done.

The constitutionality of the session which reconvened today is itself questioned in a resolution introduced by Senator Salus, of Philadelphia.

One point on which there is widespread misapprehension has been clarified by the warning that the Legislature will not be permitted to swerve in the slightest degree from the program laid down by Gov. Pinchot. It is authoritatively stated, and generally accepted, that legislation other than that which strictly conforms to Pinchot's recommendations will be unconstitutional.

This robs the Legislature of opportunity for initiative. The members can take Pinchot's proposals or they can reject them; but they cannot offer original ideas of their own.

It is perhaps unfortunate that one man should thus completely dominate. On the other hand, the citizens are protected, by this limitation of the Legislature's powers, from unwise plans for taxation, of which a large number would undoubtedly be introduced if the lawmakers had free sway.

Hydrostatics

The Science of Water Pressure Is of Considerable Interest To the Rural Dwellers.

The question of hydrostatics was up before the County Commissioners recently in the discussion that followed the request of Director Paul B. Riis, of the County Park Bureau, for another appropriation of $1,400 to drill a well to furnish water for the swimming pool in South Park.

A well drilled for the purpose some time ago yielded 110 gallons of water a minute at the outset, but the flow, Riis explained, has since fallen to 50 gallons.

There has been a good deal of joking about hydrostatics in connection with these discussions, but it is no joking matter to Allegheny County's rural dwellers. They may not call the subject hydrostatics, they may not talk of it in the technical manner that has characterized some of Director Riis' remarks, but they are deeply interested in water pressure and the depths to which wells must be drilled.

For, unlike the inhabitants of the cities and boroughs and some of the townships who get their water from the rivers, there are thousands of country folk in Allegheny County who depend on wells for their supply.

And when wells go dry, as they did in many places during the drought last year, and even the wealthy people of Coraopolis Heights and Sewickley Heights have to go to hotels to take a bath, hydrostatics becomes a matter of serious interest.

The Shadow of the Bear

The sinister shadow of the Bear that Walks like a Man hovers over the scene as Japan engages in armed conflict with China and prepares to grab Manchuria.

Russia masses troops on the Manchurian frontier; Japan hastens crack divisions to the scene of the fighting; both sides find ready excuses for retaliatory attacks and there is WAR, notwithstanding the League of Nations, the Kellogg Pact, the Nine Power Treaty and all the other PIFFLE PACTS.

Uncle Sam must watch his step to keep out of the Far East turmoil.

Tips for Ex-Husbands

Every day you read in the popular gossip-columns the announcement of some woman's "engagement" to her "New Heart."

This premature burial of the old love sounds a little gruesome, but there is positively NO reticence these days. The marrying woman doesn't even take time to fling a shovelful of earth on the dead passion or the expired romance, before she is starting the publicity for the next adventure. We moderns FLAUNT our corpses!

It's like changing hotels or apartments, I suppose. You've got to know where you're going, before you start.

There really should be some guide to the etiquette of such delicate situations: some hint to the near-ex-husband on what to say and how to act, when the other man asks you for your wife.

Don't appear too eager—and frighten him off. Try to assume a little hesitancy and indignation, no matter what you feel. Let him think that you are giving up your wife only as a noble act of sacrifice, for HER happiness. Give the girl a chance!

Don't tell him that she has been on your nerves for years; that she always squeezes the tooth-paste in the middle, hangs your trousers upside down, turns on the radio when you are napping, and folds the newspaper so that you can never find the financial columns or the sport page.

Don't tell him what a rotten game of bridge she plays, or that she leaves her hair in the comb, uses your best handkerchiefs to wipe off the rouge, wisecracks when you are shaving, and always burns the toast.

You would give your departing chauffeur a good "recommendation," wouldn't you? Well then, why not your departing wife?

Never hint that your daily quarrels were the only excitement you got out of life with her. Or that she could get up a rousing fight at a moment's notice, over anything from the weather to the world depression.

Don't mention her MOTHER! Renunciation, not DEnunciation—that's your cue!

After the wedding, you can congratulate them, knowing that you did your duty by the woman and took a sweet revenge on the man, while shining in the beautiful role of "gentleman and martyr." That's the new "chivalry!"

Isn't It So?

People must use their heads to get ahead.

A woman's greatest power is in her womanliness.

There are times when it seems that a girl's costume is her undoing.

Some men will brag that they are self-made when they really ought to apologize.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Mother worries.

Every time the children are out late or off on a trip she worries.

The children, to be sure, are no longer babes. Amy's 21. Sam is 24. And they're both steady and reliable. But these facts make no difference with mother. She worries just the same.

Worries dreadfully. Frets up and down the room. Can't read. can't sew. can't settle down to anything. Just worries. Jumps if the phone rings. Answers it in a shaking voice. Goes to the window a dozen times and looks down the street. Feels her heart jump harder—harder. Wonder if there's been an accident. A train collision! An automobile wreck! A fire. Worries—worries—until she's in A State. Greets them white and shaken—

"Now, mother!" they cry in exasperation. "It's only 10. And we were perfectly safe. You know where we were, all the time. Why on earth—"

Mother bursts into tears. Or gets that terrible Hurt Look. Says—yes, that's all the thanks a mother gets for just about breaking her heart over her children. After all she's done for them. But they can't give her a moment's thought. Too taken up with their own selfish pleasure to give their poor old mother a thought! Their poor old mother, sitting all alone at home, just eating her heart out for fear something might have happened to them. They might at least have phoned.

"But mother, it looks so awful silly to have to get up in the middle of a card game and interrupt everyone to 'phone home. Can't you see—"

But mother can't see. She starts to cry again. Her thin shoulders shake. The children watch her impatiently. What a nuisance. Why does she have to be like that? She's always been like that ever since they were kids. Always worrying. It makes life so terribly hard. They can't ever do things like other people. . . can't feel free to go anywhere . . . without her worrying. If only—

Suddenly they notice how thin her shoulders are. how white her hair. They feel like dogs. Poor mother—poor dear mother. After all, it's great to have her care like that. They ought to be glad she loves them enough to worry so. Her whole life's wrapped up in them. They're brutes to hurt her so.

"There, mother darling, don't cry. Honestly, I'm sorry. Next time I will phone. Don't cry, dear."

Their arms are around her. Their voices are adoring, apologetic. They coax . . . call themselves names . . . tell her how wonderful she is. Slowly, reluctantly, Mother allows herself to be persuaded to stop crying. She still has that Hurt Look . . . but once more she forgives them, sweetly, patiently—they fuss over her.

And secretly, a warm glow of gratification spreads over mother. She has made them remember her! She has made them come home when they wanted to stay away! They shan't forget her, like some children forget their mothers. They shan't go off and have lives of their own . . . lives she can't enjoy . . . and shut her out—Mothers should be remembered. Worry mothers MUST be remembered. They'll HAVE to remember her when she worries—

Familiar act . . . Yes? And one of the meanest acts on earth. FOR THERE'S NO TYRANT MORE TERRIBLE THAN A WORRYING MOTHER. AND NO RACKET MORE SLICK—!

For who's going to call a Worrying Mother's bluff? Who's going to stand up and tell her that worrying isn't a sign of unselfish love, BUT SIMPLY A PECULIARLY CUSSED FORM OF NAGGING? Yet that's the truth. Normal, sensible anxiety is a friendly thing. . . . BUT CHRONIC WORRY IS A LASH . . . THE LASH OF A PETTY TYRANT, WHO CAN'T HOLD HER SUBJECTS ANY OTHER WAY.

But just try and tell mamma that!

ALEXANDER DALI AS BACHE

By Archibald Hende.

An American scientist, whose name deserves to be held in remembrance for the important pioneering service he rendered to this country, is Alexander Dallas Bache. He was the great grandson of Benjamin Franklin, and no doubt inherited some of his love and talent for science from his illustrious ancestor.

He was born in Philadelphia on July 19, 1806, and received an appointment to West Point at the age of 15. The youngest boy in the academy, he was, nevertheless, graduated at the head of his class in 1825. After serving as assistant professor at the academy, and doing some engineering work at Newport, R. I., he was appointed to the chair of natural philosophy and chemistry in the University of Pennsylvania in 1828.

At once Bache began upon a career of scientific research which carried him far. He became a member of the important Franklin Institute, a society then recently established for the promotion of the mechanical arts. He also received the honor of appointment to the American Philosophical Society, founded by Benjamin Franklin. During the seven years of his connection with the University of Pennsylvania he made about 25 contributions to the transactions of the American Philosophical Society, embodying the results of his scientific research.

At this time, science had not been very greatly developed in this country, and Bache set himself to the task of bringing this country abreast of other countries in this respect. He had an observatory erected in his own yard, and proceeded to do a lot of valuable pioneering work. For the first time in this country, he accurately determined the periods of the daily variation of the magnetic needle. At another time, he made an extended series of observations; he showed the connection of the fitful variations of the direction of the magnetic force with the appearance of the aurora borealis. Indeed, he displayed throughout his career a deep interest in the subject of terrestrial magnetism. Another subject to which he devoted attention was heat, and he was the first scientist to show that the radiation and consequent absorption of dark heat is not affected by color.

In 1836, as the result of his election to the post of president of the trustees of Girard College, he was sent to Europe for the purpose of studying foreign educational institutions, preparatory to the organization of Girard College. The elaborate report he prepared, after two years of investigation abroad, proved of great value in the organization of Girard College and also a genuine service to American education. While waiting for Girard College to be organized and open its doors, Bache volunteered his services gratis to the city of Philadelphia, and prepared an admirable system of free education, the best of its kind in America up to that time.

In 1842, he resumed his former duties at the University of Pennsylvania. A year later, he accepted the appointment as Superintendent of the Coast Survey and Office of Weights and Measures. At this time, the work of the Coast Survey was almost in its infancy. Bache vitalized the service, proceeded to make many surveys of sections of our coast simultaneously, and carried out a series of observations of the Gulf Stream, the tides, winds, magnetism of the earth, and the fauna of the ocean bed. He was particularly concerned with improving the map of the United States. From 1846, the time of his appointment, until his death on February 17, 1867, he was one of the most active of the regents of the Smithsonian Institution.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Science

Science can prove
Strange mysteries.
How the light flows,
How the eye sees,
How the rose buds,
How the snow flies
On the chill blast
As the year dies.

Science can tell
How a sound comes,
Whisper of wind,
Clamor of drums;
Scientists know
How the moon draws
Vast ocean's tides
With changeless laws.

Yet can it say
When the lark sings
Why, in the heart,
Hidden joy springs!
Why, in life's room
Though summer cease,
One loved smile's bloom
Brings the heart peace?

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. MUNDY

You may be honest, but you are unfeeling.

To get what is owing to you, you are willing to invoke law provisions which may greatly hurt your debtors' credit in the community.

It may be a just debt, but the man may have been unfortunate, is honest and will pay as soon as it is possible.

You crowd and harass him and even threaten him and perhaps go through a process of law which necessitates his selling off at ruinous prices to quiet your claims.

But you have no sentiment in business.

But you are relentless in getting what is coming to you.

You rather like to be known as hard-headed and tight-fisted.

And you try to keep up to your reputation of taking your pound of flesh if you must to get a settlement from anyone who owes you money.

For shame—give them a chance to meet their obligations without hardships.

Text For Today

Through faith we understand that the worlds were framed by the word of God, so that things which are seen were not made of things which do appear.—Hebrews, xi:3.

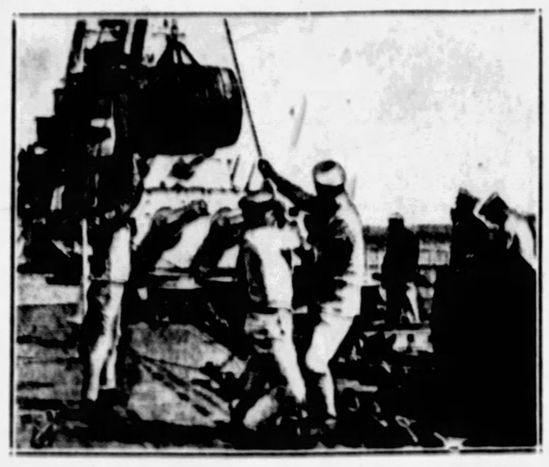
Taking Wine on Board

Dreadful Scene, But It Might Be Worse.



FRENCH SAILORS HAULING A CASK OF WINE ON BOARD THEIR BATTLESHIP

Men in the French navy do THIS work gladly. You see them hoisting a big cask of wine, one of many taken on board battleships for the refreshment and health of the crew.

In Britain's navy, the sailors have their rum, distributed daily.

The French navy has no rum; the intelligent French do not believe in alcoholic spirits. They know better. They drink sound, French wine, such as Benjamin Franklin drank and Thomas Jefferson imported for his own use.

Every sailor on a French ship is allowed a full pint and a half of good, pure wine every day.

Prohibitionists will be amazed to learn that in spite of this sad state of affairs French seamen are marvelously healthy. They are fine sailors, first-class gunners.

Their skin is pink, muscles strong. They keep "that schoolboy complexion" with the help of good red wine, taken inwardly.

Some of our earnest prohibitionists think it would be better to put these gentlemen on the American basis of bootleg whisky, "bathtub gin," or "needle beer."

Those prohibitionists are mistaken.

French sailors have been drinking red wine, French workers have been drinking it, for many centuries. And there is 10 times as much drunkenness in this prohibition country and 500 times as much crime, based on prohibition in this country, as in France!

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Up to find an autographed copy of Katherine Brush's "Red Headed Woman," and no American writer, save Sinclair Lewis, so deftly analyzes the charm and snobbishness of a small city. So casting accounts and amazed at my penury in contrast to three years ago.

Through the town, stopping here and there, to talk to Fanny Ward, Bert Lytell and Ted Lewis and to try on my white weskit. Very noble. Home and worked until late and then off to Rube and Irma Goldberg's fifteenth wedding anniversary celebration in their West Seventy-fifth street home.

A mighty gathering there, including Ellis Lardner, Ring's wife, Grant and Kate Rice and daughter, Florence, Billy Seaman and Phyllis, George Gershwin, Miriam Hopkins, Lynne and Emily Overman, George Olsen, Groucho Marx, Conde and Leslie Nast, John La Gatta, May Wilson Preston and others, and one of the finest evenings ever I had.

The rear of that bleak and decreasing pile known as Bellevue Hospital looks down upon a yacht landing on East River. Convalescents—many charity patients—have a view of millionaires' barques tugging at anchor, glittering imported autos rolling up with their fashionable crowds to be taken off in waiting dinghys, etc., etc. It is a contrast of wretchedness and the froth of life that remains with one for hours.

Incidentally, I once talked to a famous Bellevue doctor who voiced a starkly sound philosophy I never heard before. "There are no illegitimate children," he said. "Only illegitimate parents."

Gene Tunney was recently a yacht guest for a week end. Running into squally weather, the champion began to shade off into a slight green around the gills and stretched out in a capacious desk chair. His host, passing, saw his discomfiture and chirped: "I think I could put you away myself right now." Tunney's eyes fluttered and he replied wanly: "I wish you would."

Jack Benny tells of the dialect Bronxite who popped into a delicatessen to look around. He inquired the price of various articles, such as preserved fruits, homemade cakes, roast turkeys and the like. Finally, pointing to a hefty Kentucky ham, he asked the price. As he did so there was a violent clap of thunder and vivid flash of lightning. Cowering and looking upward, the Bronxite whined: "Can't I even ask?"

At one of the theaters recently a certain actor upon speaking his lines, was almost drowned out by a noise like a cricket obbligato on a summer night. It was resumed every time he opened his mouth. It developed that in the audience was a fellow with a noise making device, hired by his wife. The night before, she and detectives caught him flagrante delicto in a hotel room, Broadway at play and with nice clean fun!

In the late fall Fifth avenue streams into its most terrifying human energy. Everybody who considers himself anybody is in town and anxious to be seen. The street is ablaze with glittering motor equipage, shop windows are at their best and sidewalk promenaders are taut with a delirious tension. Just a few weeks and they find the city dull, the opera and theaters a bore and are off on their seasonal hegira to Palm Beach, the Lido and Cuba. No metropolitan phenomenon so strikingly symbolizes the squirrel in the revolving cage. And its utter futility.

"I suppose," writes Janet R., "you have been getting a load of that ultra-British woodsy-poodsy talk that the flappers are spouting over their cocktails. How about it for a current pain in the neck?" Isn't it frightfully simpsy-wimpsy?

WHAT DO YOU KNOW?

By S. H. Connolly

Do you know:

1. Who is the Premier of France?
2. What is meant by "to hang in effigy?"
3. To whom were the Medes closely related?
4. What are antitoxic serums?
5. What is meant by the term "toadying?"
6. Who was the real Hiawatha?
7. What term is used in voting that means "with one voice?"
8. How is the word "liquor" used in the Volstead act?
9. What airplane made the most famous trans-Atlantic flight of 1930?
10. What is the full title of the World Court?

Match correctly:

11. Thais	James F. Cooper
12. Hypatia	Anatole France
13. The Pilot	Gustave Flaubert
14. Salammbo	Henry Sienkiewicz
15. Quo Vadis	Charles Kingsley

Answers to today's test:

1. Premier Laval. 2. To burn an image of a person as a sign of disgrace. 3. Persians. 4. Animal blood serums from those who are immune because of inoculations. 5 Fawning upon. 6. Mohawk chief who united the Five Nations. 7. Unanimously. 8. It includes alcohol, brandy, whisky, rum, gin, beer, ale, porter and wine containing one-half of 1 per cent or more of alcohol. 9. The Question Mark. 10. The Permanent Court of International Justice. 11. Anatole France. 12. Charles Kingsley. 13. James F. Cooper. 14. Gustave Flaubert. 15. Henry Sienkiewicz.
